Out-of-town friends who can't get to the store should not fail to send for our Fall and Winter Catalogue. It shows many other pretty styles for children and all of them as reasonable in price. Your name and address on a postcard to us will bring you a copy.

Bargains in Dress Skirts. Exactly 80 of them will be affected by this price reduction for Thursday morning:—

Ladies' New Dress Skirts, made of black figured lustrous and black broche materials, well made and lined throughout, bound with extra quality velvet, all in all, made to sell at $1 each, on sale Thursday morning for 2.98.

Corsets. Miss Sexton, the Fitted, expert corset fitter from New York, will be here until Thursday evening. Her services are free to those who will call at our Corset Department. She can give many valuable suggestions about Corsets.

Ask to see the W. B. Corsets. Samples and models now being displayed. Prices $1.00 to $10.00.

Misses' Jackets. This cut illustrates a stylish Misses' jacket. It is made of all wool Kersey cloth, in fawn color; it is lined throughout with silk serge and finished with strap seams. The sizes 14, 16 and 18 years.

Not only is this garment stylish, it is very reasonably priced. All we ask is Twelve Dollars and Fifty Cents, a price little enough for such an excellent jacket.

Blankets Speaking of Blankets. We guarantee Quilts, all our Blankets to be full standard size and weight, and much superior in quality, finish and bleach to those usually offered for the same money, and even more money. Examine the finish of our Blankets—it is soft and lofty and equally well finished on both sides—an important feature of a perfect blanket. All our borders, from the best to the cheapest grades, are guaranteed perfectly fast color.

Four hints of prices:—

THE TORONTO WORLD ONE CENT MORNING PAPER.

No. 23 YONGE STREET, Toronto.

HOW PROHIBITION WOULD AFFECT TORONTO.

The arguments against prohibition have not been seriously brought to the attention of the people in this campaign. The anti-prohibitionists have merely touched on the fringe of the question. If ever the issue assumes the importance of a political question, in a general election, it will be threshed out in detail. The effect that prohibition would have on each constituency would be brought to the notice of the electors in a way that would appeal to their common sense and their business judgment. As yet the people of Toronto have not had explained to them the effect that prohibition would have on this city. We hardly think it will ever become necessary to fight prohibition in a general election and to show the fact up in its true colors. Enough, however, can be seen on the surface to convince every man who has not lost his judgment that prohibition would mean disaster and ruin for this city. It would require weeks and months to make an estimate of the loss the city would experience in the event of prohibition being adopted. All our breweries and Toronto's famous distillery would be closed up. We do not know by how many million dollars our assessment would be reduced. We cannot estimate accurately how many thousands men would be deprived of their livelihood. The tourist traffic, which is now promising so much for the development of Toronto, would be ruined by prohibition. The large hotel which has just been decided on for Toronto would never be built if the promoters believed that prohibition was a possibility. Toronto would secure none of the international conventions that are so much sought after by all progressive cities. It would be simply impossible to induce a body like the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen to hold a two weeks' convention in a prohibition town. Under prohibition Toronto would become as dead as a doornail. The tourist traffic, which is the life of the place, would be diverted to American cities. Every industry in the city would be more or less directly affected by prohibition. The thousands of workmen who would be deprived of their means of livelihood would have to leave the city. Real estate would depreciate enormously. The owner of every house would find his property worth fully 25 per cent less after prohibition than before it. Prohibition might not greatly affect values in a purely manufacturing centre, but in a city like Toronto it would mean perpetual stagnation, if not ruin. Enough appears on the surface to convince Torontonians, at least, that prohibition would be the worst calamity that could befall this country.

LET CANADA HAVE A CHANCE.

In many respects Canada has had an unfortunate experience. We have had a hard struggle with Nature to reach our present position. The physical difficulties we have had to overcome have been very severe and have tried our patience severely. In addition to these physical difficulties we have been periodically disturbed by sectarian differences and by bitter controversies concerning race and creed. But at last it looks as if the tide had turned in our favor. We are now on the highway to prosperity in a material sense. And we are happy to see that the slate has been cleared of all our sectarian troubles. Only one bet remains to be made before we can reach the goal of our dreams. It is the business of the country that will be demoralized for years, perhaps a decade. The sectarian question, which has been the curse of Canada, will assume a new aspect, and under its latest guise will cause a greater nuisance than anything we have ever witnessed in this country in the past. Those who have the welfare of Canada at heart will deplore this threatened disturbance to our prosperity. The worst enemies of Canada are those who will not allow the country to have an opportunity to compete with more favored nations in the race for business. Canada has been severely handicapped in the past. It is the duty of every patriot to go to the polls to-morrow and vote against a proposal which may involve us in a bitter family feud for the next 10 years. Neighbor will be set against neighbor. Dissension will again take possession of the land. And all this, with a certainty that prohibition, even if it were adopted, will be inoperative and impossible, while the business of the country would simply go to the dogs. May the country be saved from such an experience!

THE BIG HOTEL.

We have heard people say that there is not the business in Toronto for a large hotel like the one about to be built on King-street east. We do not take any stock in this statement, as the fact is that a large new hotel will make its own business, and the mere existence of a first-class hotel in Toronto will, of itself, draw a great many patrons. Everybody predicted that the big hotel business would be overdone in New York, but the Waldorf-Astoria is hardly completed before its enterprising manager has found the business more than he can accommodate, and already he has begun to make plans for a monster establishment which will make the twin hotel pale before it. The new hotel on King-street will, we are satisfied, be a sound investment from the outset, and not only that, but it will encourage others to build an uptown hotel of equal proportions and which we have every faith will also pay its way.

THE GOVERNMENT'S INSINCERITY.

Mr. Tarte, Sir Henri Joly, Mr. Geoffroy, in fact all the French members of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Cabinet, have spoken against prohibition. While The Globe is making capital for the Liberal party in Ontario by favoring prohibition, the Quebec section of the Cabinet is doing the work of the party by directing the people of that province to vote against it. The temperance people seem to think that the Premier is with them. As a matter of fact he is their worst enemy. He is playing double with them. He knows that prohibition is impossible, and yet he leads the temperance people to believe that it may be attained. The Premier says if the country declares for prohibition his Government will give them prohibition. If he is sincere in this statement, why does he allow the most influential section of his Cabinet to stomp the Province of Quebec for the express purpose of securing the defeat of the plebiscite in that province? If Sir Wilfrid were honest he would have insisted on the members of his Cabinet remaining neutral on the question. Instead of allowing the country to decide for itself, he is influencing public opinion in such a way as to ensure the defeat of the plebiscite, or at least its defeat in Quebec, which gives him a valid excuse for refusing to introduce prohibitory legislation.

ANOTHER SHOOTING FATALITY.

Mr. J. Biscoe Dies From Injured Received by the Discharge of a Revolver—Huntman's Gun. Georgetown, Sept. 27.—(Special.)—A very sad accident occurred here Saturday evening, resulting in the death of Mr. Jefferson Biscoe. Mr. Biscoe, in company with two companions, went on a shooting expedition, and on emerging from the woods in the evening, they proceeded to unload their guns, when, by accident, David Toast discharged the contents of one barrel into Mr. Biscoe's chest, hitting the flesh, and fracturing the bone to such an extent that he died from the wound a few hours later. Mr. Biscoe was buried this afternoon at St. James' church. He was a member of the 20th Lorne Rifles. Mr. Biscoe was a son of William Biscoe, a prominent farmer, living about two miles from here. The deepest sympathy is felt here for the parents in their sad and sudden bereavement.

STEAMER HORSA ASHORE.

High and Dry on Sand Heads With a Cargo Worth $25,000—Returning Klondiker's Broke. Vancouver, B.C., Sept. 27.—(Special.)—A curious case has been reported from the Klondike, where a steamer named the Horsa ran aground on the sand heads, at the mouth of the Fraser River. She arrived from Vancouver on Sunday, having taken on board 10,000 cases of goods, valued at $25,000. The cargo was all lost, and the steamer was damaged. The cargo was all lost, and the steamer was damaged. The cargo was all lost, and the steamer was damaged.

Several Thousand on the Trail.

Sixty-five Klondiker's were on the steamer Horsa when she put in here. The majority were broke. Two men, one named William Lundstrom and the other, one from Chicago, came out, having been traveling all the time since a year ago last August, on the Edmonton. They were very tired and had no money. They were very tired and had no money. They were very tired and had no money.

WITH THE SOCIETIES.

Tour of the Halls Last Night—Meeting Notes. Canadian Order of Home Circles No. 222 held a session last night in Forum Hall, at the corner of Wood and Queen streets, for the purpose of electing officers and members to membership and a report on the suitability of the tent at the Fair grounds during the Exhibition was very encouraging. The meeting was held in the evening, and the attendance was very large. The meeting was held in the evening, and the attendance was very large. EXITS AND ENTRANCES theater, presented by beautiful Marie Wainwright, puts in concrete form a question that has puzzled moralists and social reformers from the earliest times. "Grace," a London orphan, goes to Australia as the betrothed of Neil Garth, a former playmate. Neil turns out a double-dyed vagabond and Grace lives in bondage with him, till chance helps her to return to London. She reforms, joins a church and becomes noted for her charity. She marries Oliver Wood, an engraver. Years after, Neil Garth turns up and the humble part of Grace becomes known to her husband. A pathetic estrangement takes place. The problem is crystallized into, Should her husband forgive her? To everyone's delight, the curtain falls on united hearts.

Marie Wainwright, not stranger to Toronto, having played at the Grand several seasons ago in "Amy Robson" and her appearance at the Toronto speaks volumes for the enterprise of the management. The part portrayed by her is intensely human, as is the whole play. From the rise of the curtain till the fall the sympathy of the audience is wholly with the wronged woman, turned virtuous. The problem has been treated in a clever way and there is not the slightest suggestion that would offend the most fastidious. The audience applauds when Paul Ellsworth, a musician, kneels down before Neil Garth, and goes into raptures when the person says "Daisy." He has many more lines to say and says them with a force that carries conviction. The company is a strong one, every role being assayed by a competent actor.

The whole play is a stimulating tonic, teaching the lesson better than a sermon that, "Charity endureth all things." It matters what real life may present, the fact remains that the forgiving of a wronged woman is a step towards the time when God's great charity will rule the
