Quantity of Stolen Property Recovered in Woods at Ragged Point.

While walking through the woods at Ragged Point yesterday, Arthur Irvine, of Millidgeville, came across the tender of a yacht. Underneath the boat he found two bags, one containing a jib and mainsail, cut from a double end yacht, formerly owned by Chas. Cobden, who subsequently identified the property, which was stolen from the yacht while lying at Indiantown. The other bag contained an assortment of yachting supplies, including a steering wheel, belonging to a small power boat; brass fittings, several hack-saws, several cans of paint, and a few cans of peaches. Several other articles were also found under the boat. It is presumed that the section of the woods where the stolen property was found is the rendezvous of a gang who of late have been peeping into the summer houses in that vicinity with bullets.
