LARGE PROJECTS

Sir Robert Perks, in an interview which appears in this issue, points out that the few large shipbuilding plants are established in Canada the people must consider the question whether they are willing to be taxed to assist in the establishment of the industry.

There will be no hesitation on that score, so long as the demands are reasonable. The people of Canada have never hesitated to tax themselves to build up new industries, improve the transportation system and develop the resources of the country. Shipbuilding has become a necessity, and the initial expenditure involved will be as cheerfully agreed to as that to provide for the establishment of dry docks.

The statements made by Sir Robert Perks touching the magnitude of a modern shipbuilding plant emphasize the importance of such an industry to St. John. It would involve a large increase in the working population of the city, and extensive shipbuilding operations to provide homes for the army of mechanics engaged. Allied industries would be attracted to the city, and as Canada developed the extent of her shipbuilding plants would grow constantly larger.

Sir Robert states that the plans for the proposed dry dock at St. John are ready, and he is here to decide upon the location. He anticipates that a definite announcement relative to both the dock and the shipbuilding plant may shortly be expected.

These are matters of vital interest to St. John, and if the port secures these industries, in addition to the development that will come in connection with the Grand Trunk Pacific terminals, and connection also with C. P. R. terminals, the St. John of ten years hence will be a vastly different city from the St. John of today.

MADE IN ST. JOHN

The people of St. John will feel an especial pride in the "Made in St. John" exhibit at the Dominion Exhibition. In the same building with the fine display made by the provincial government, it will be one of the features of the fair. This exhibit signifies much. It brings forth samples of the products of the various St. John industries, not to advertise the manufacturers, but to advertise St. John as a location for successful industries. Local pride will be stirred not only by the great variety of articles made in St. John, but by the excellence of the work, which will compare favorably with that shown in any market.

While the visitor looks over the large display he will also read, in large letters and figures on the wall behind the story of St. John's rapid growth in trade during the last ten years, a statement that will not only prove present prosperity, but that will suggest to the man who is looking for a location the desirability of casting in his lot with a growing community having the very brightest prospects for the future.

The board of trade has done well to assemble as it has done the products of St. John's advantages as a manufacturing centre.

A FAIR SAMPLE

The first question a prospective advertiser asks about a newspaper is the extent of its circulation. If a daily paper with five thousand circulation asked the same rate as one having ten thousand, both being newspapers going to the same class of readers, the advertiser would at once turn on his heel. When a man is buying publicity, other things being equal, he must consider circulation, and the paper that can convey his message to the most people is worth most to him.

The St. John Starboard yesterday endorsed the amazing doctrine that where rates of two newspapers are the same there is no discrimination in choosing one end of the other. That is to say, in a paper that conveys a desired message to a million persons would be of water value, in the treasury board's view, than space in one which conveys to two people. The rate for both is the same, says the treasury.

is a fair sample of business and business methods at city hall, it is not surprising that the city so often pays for one thing and gets something else of far less value. When the city officials purchase publicity they are spending the taxpayers' money, and should be as careful to get the most for the money as if they were purchasing any other article. This policy is not pursued.

TARIFF AND THE EMPIRE

Hon. Mr. Lemieux told the London Morning Post yesterday that Canada was united to the mother land in heart and life, independent of all tariff arrangements. Sir Wilfrid Laurier has made the same statement more than once during the progress of his western tour.

This is not the attitude of Liberals alone. The more broad-minded and far-seeing Conservatives hold the same view. It is one thing to desire an imperial preferential policy (if that could be worked out in a practical way) and quite another to say that such a preference is the price of loyalty and the guarantee of the empire's integrity. The Victoria Colonist (Conservative) states the case in a nutshell:—

"Let the people of the United Kingdom do just exactly what in their opinion is best in their own interests, and the empire will take care of itself. You must not try to raise the British Empire in a foreign house. It is doing pretty well as it is. All that is needed to accomplish the consummation of the loftiest expectations is a little common-sense and patience. Let no one fear to go to sleep at night for fear the empire will break up before morning. It was forming during long years, when only a few enthusiasts out on the edge of things considered it worth thinking about."

THE IMMIGRANTS

A Montreal despatch of Aug. 30th, says: "No fewer than 6,171 new settlers, mostly bound for the western provinces, will arrive at the port of Montreal this week on ten steamships. The great majority of them hail from England and Scotland." This information should be passed on to Premier Hazen. Occasionally the Standard devotes much space to the joyous boast that a few more boys have been sent out by a Scotch gentleman who has a farm near Gagetown, or that a few more young women have come out to go into service, or perhaps a farm hand has miraculously appeared on the horizon. But while six thousand settlers in a week arrive at Montreal for the west, the best of the government of New Brunswick do do is to print in its party press statements as those alluded to, or boast about the new ornamental office opened in London.

There never was so good an opportunity to boom New Brunswick as a home for settlers from the old country. Sir Robert Perks states that he has urged intending settlers for Canada to come to these provinces, and that the Church of England has encouraged a similar movement with some success. The provincial government would best heartily co-operation in several instances if it would inaugurate a well-planned scheme to attract immigrants to this province.

A WESTERN EXAMPLE

The press of Montreal has been directing public attention to the report brought from St. Paul by a representative of that city who attended the great municipal convention in St. Paul. The following summary by the Witness is both interesting and suggestive:— "It is like a fresh breeze from the west to hear Mr. Wanklyn's account of the city of St. Paul, where he has been in search of civic instruction. St. Paul is an old French-Canadian town; so we may not more readily learn from it. The people there not only pay higher taxes for their city's development than we do, but each street pays for its own sidewalks. They do so spontaneously. The proprietors agree on what they want and agree to pay for it. There is thus a powerful emulation between different parts of the city as to which can do most and best. The business men actually united to install a superb system of lighting—five lamps to the post, and those modern ones—and then the whole equipment to the city. That reveals a public zeal and interest from which we could learn. Mr. Wanklyn also found that St. Paul could get profitable work out of its prisoners, greatly to the advantage of the city and much more greatly to their own. Their work pays the cost of a consumptive hospital and the city greenhouses."

BORDEN AND MONK

The Borden opposition missed chance after chance to do its duty and eject F. D. Monk, M.P., from his place in the party's affections.

And the Ottawa Journal was lost in wonder, love and praise of the leadership that outraged the ideals of the whole Conservative party rather than offend the prejudices of Mr. Monk.

The situation was allowed to drift far beyond the time when the Borden leadership could have nobly isolated itself from Mr. Monk, to its own great advantage.

The day finally dawned when F. D. Monk, M.P., kicked the Borden leadership down the front steps of his allegiance.

Whereupon the Ottawa Journal rejoiced that F. D. Monk, M.P., has dispensed with the services of the Borden Opposition.

The Ottawa Journal might have been useful in helping to get rid of F. D. Monk when Mr. Monk's departure might have enabled the Opposition to do its duty and win votes.

But the Journal chose to be a flatterer rather than a friend to Mr. Borden. The Kourpalkins of the Conservative press now say that the departure of Mr. Monk was the best thing that ever happened to the Borden Opposition.

Two years ago these same strategists were worshipping the retention of Mr. Monk as one of the triumphs of the Borden leadership.

STOMACH DISTRESS INDIGESTION AND HEARTBURN VANISH

A Little Diapiesin Will Make
Your Out-of-order Stomach
Feel Fine in About Five Minutes

Every year regularly more than a million stomach sufferers in the United States, England, and Canada take Page's Diapiesin, and realize not only immediate, but lasting relief.

This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome a flat, gassy or out-of-order stomach five minutes afterwards.

If your meals do not sit comfortably, or if you have a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of indigestion.

Go to the nearest drug store and get a 50-cent case of Page's Diapiesin and take a dose just as soon as you eat. There will be no sour risings, no belching of up-roasted food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, nausea, dizziness, headaches, dizziness or intestinal gripes. This will all go, and, besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Page's Diapiesin is a certain cure for out-of-order stomachs, because it takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

Relief in five minutes from all stomach misery is waiting for you at any drug store.

These large 50-cent cases contain more than sufficient to thoroughly cure almost any case of Dyspepsia, Indigestion or any other stomach disorder.

TO SLEEP

Out of what boundless ocean cometh this tide To blot out all the headlines of our day?

It calls not, but it whispers, and we stray Into its ghostly arms, well satisfied That glided hope and tears and love and pride Should for a little season pass away:

The ivory gates unfold, till faint and grey, The undiscovered country stretches wide. Our night is the soul's day-time and no care.

No languor doth oppress it; all its hours Are measured by our slumbers; it is repelled To mystic questionings from the outer air, Looks up to heaven to renew its power.

And flashes its quick answer to the skies, "Why, when the evening comes, I'll be there!"—Alas! Sullivan, in the July Canadian Magazine.

IN LIGHTER VEIN

"He is a very kind-hearted man." "Very," whenever he runs over anybody with his automobile he always stops and offers to take him to a hospital."

"JUST A BILL." He lit his cigar with a $10 bill. "Was his pocket depleted?"

Not through losing this bill, for its value was nil. It was still unreciprocated. —Kansas City Journal.

IN JUNE

First Beggar—"What are you doing here, Peter?" I thought you were on the bridge.

Second Beggar—"Oh, I gave that to my son as a wedding present."—Meggendorfer Blätter.

THE EVENING HUSH

"That deaf mute says he is certain his love is not reciprocated."

"Why? Because of his affliction?" "No, the girl is a deaf mute, too. But she always turns out the light when he calls in the evening."—Brooklyn Leader.

JOYS OF THE RETURNED VACATIONIST

A real bath in a porcelain tub. Cold, hard butter. Sharing by a chrome mirror. Home cooking.

A flyless dining room. Genuine coffee. And a bedroom that doesn't leak.

THEN IT HAPPENED

"What made you think he would propose to me?"

"Why, when I refused him he said he didn't care what became of him; but perhaps he wasn't serious."—Houston Post.

DOWN THE LINE

Her—Do you like my biscuits, dear? Him—Well, they're fair, but you should have seen the ones my great-grandmother used to bake.

Her—Why, you never saw your great-grandmother.

Him—No, but I have heard grand-father mention those biscuits to grand-mother.—Cleveland Leader.

WAITING

He waited and waited and waited—The curtain arose at eight—She said she had only to put on her gloves.

And little he dreamed of his fate. So he fingered his hat and he waited, And he waited and fingered his hat, And—and—he fingered his hat and he waited.

And waited and fingered his hat, —Detroit News.

About 200 persons were present at the reception given to Rev. H. Archer Collins, the new assistant priest at the Mission church, last night. Rev. Father Convery, priest in charge, presided and extended a hearty welcome on behalf of the meeting. The following clergy were present: Rev. J. W. Millidge, Rev. E. H. Hooper, of St. Paul's (Valley) church; Rev. LeBaron McKel, of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Fairville; Rev. H. A. Cady, of St. James', Broad street. Musical selections were rendered by Professor Emery.

RADWAY'S READY RELIEF
Cures Cholera Infantum

This complaint is chiefly caused by a parasite between the ages of six and seven months, and occurs most frequently in the summer months. It is characterized by vomiting, diarrhoea, and pain in the bowels. The child is restless, and the parents are often alarmed. The remedy is simple and effective. It is given in the form of a powder, which is mixed with water or milk. The child is given a small quantity at a time, and the dose is repeated every few hours. The child is kept in a cool, airy room, and the mother is advised to nurse the child frequently. The child is given a small quantity of food at a time, and the dose is repeated every few hours. GOOD SCHOOL SHOES

Beware of trash!

Many stores are crying school shoes at prices wonderful small. What of it, if the shoes are poor—coarse leather, spongy soles, carelessly made? Economy doesn't lie along that route.

Pay as much as you can for school shoes; get Goodyear welt, if possible. It is stronger, easier, holds its shape better and is cheaper, though it costs more.

STRONGER, because only the best leather can stand the terrific pounding of the machine.

EASIER, because the welt gives flexibility, and because the stitches are side-ways, not up and down; no hard ridge inside and no tacks in the shoe.

CHEAPER, because it wears longer and can be repaired better—the new sole can be sewed on—in others it must be pegged or nailed on.

Goodyear Welt Shoes for Boys and Girls, $1.50, $2.00 and $2.50, all sizes.

Other good School Shoes at $1.50 and $1.75.

THE KING'S PRAYER

BOOK GIFT TO CHURCH

AT ANNAPOLIS ROYAL

As stated in a cable to the Times-Star King George is presenting a prayerbook to the Anglican church at Annapolis Royal, Nova Scotia, where the first Anglican service was held in Canada, in commemoration of the celebration of the bicentenary of the establishment of the church in Canada. The presentation will be made by the Bishop of London on behalf of His Majesty.

The book is bound in red Niger Morocco, with leather joints, green levant morocco doublures and fly-leaves, and the whole is elaborately inlaid and gold toolled and set with amethysts. The dominant feature of the design on the front cover is a decorative representation of a cross, composed of an intricate arrangement of interlaced lines and with the sacred monogram I. H. S. inscribed in the centre. The doublures are decorated with a border of a similar type of design and with the Arms of His Majesty on the back one and the Canadian arms on the back one. The book is printed by the Oxford University Press and is 19x12 inches in size.

About fifty members of the Natural History Society yesterday afternoon enjoyed the outing to the Gleebe, the summer home of James Manchester, near Bay Shore. The refreshments were served by the ladies. Votes of thanks were extended to Mr. and Mrs. Manchester for their hospitality and to Senator Ellis, who paid the expenses of the outing. Speeches were delivered by Senator Ellis, Prof. Bailey, and Dr. Matthews.
