In it he says: "By this time you will have heard of the death of my son, Pte. W. L. Forsythe, 442955. Both myself and his comrades wish to express our deepest sympathy as he was very popular in the platoon, being not only a good soldier but a good comrade. In the course of time it must be of some consolation to know that his death was instantaneous and painless. Also that it came about in the cheerful pursuit of his duties. We buried him with several others of the same platoon and they lie side by side as good comrades should."

TREASON HEARING BEGINS.

Sir Roger Casement is Now on Trial for His Life.

LONDON, May 15.—The trial of Sir Roger Casement on the charge of treason will begin in the Bow Street Police Court this morning. The hearings will be public.

Three of England's leading judges will try Casement, including Lord Chief Justice Baron Reading, E. F. Smith, Attorney-General, will lead the counsel for the Crown. George Cavan Duffy will be the solicitor in charge of the prisoner's case, and Artemus Jones is expected to act as counsel.

Ever since Sir Roger was arrested, a few days before the revolutionary outbreak in Ireland, while attempting to land arms and ammunition on the Irish coast, which were to aid the rebels, the interest of the British people has been eagerly concentrated upon the cell in the Tower of London where Casement is awaiting trial. The prisoner has prepared a "patriotic address," but it is doubted whether he will be allowed to deliver it.

Rumor has it that when the formal preliminary proceedings which will take up to-day's session are begun a surprise is to be sprung by the prosecution. Deep mystery still veils the identity of the two other Irishmen who were arrested together with Casement. It is said that this veil will be lifted for the first time to-day.

According to Reynolds' Weekly Sir Roger Casement received three friends in the London Tower yesterday and discussed his case with them for nearly an hour. Sir Roger is in much better health than a fortnight ago. He has been permitted to read and has taken regular exercise. It is understood that the case for the prosecution against Sir Roger will last four or five days. The prisoner will be conveyed secretly to the police court and there will be no opportunity of seeing him unless admission to the court is gained, which will be most difficult as there are accommodations for only 60 spectators.

SMUTS WINS AGAIN.

South African General Defeats the Enemy With Heavy Loss.

LONDON, May 15.—The German forces in German East Africa have been on the offensive against the British expeditionary force under General Jan Christian Smuts there, but, according to an official statement issued Friday night, the German attacks were beaten off, the attacking forces losing heavily. The official statement says:

Telegraphing on May 12 Lieut. Gen. Smuts reports that the enemy, having effected a concentration of troops under the personal command of Colonel von Lettow-Verbeck (commander of the German Imperial troops in German East Africa) in the vicinity of Kilomatinde, made a considerable display of activity in the direction of Kondoa and Irangi since May 5. An attack at the latter place, preceded by a heavy bombardment, was attempted during the night of May 9-10, and was driven off with severe losses. "The enemy persisted in his offensive during the 10th and 11th, and after sunset on the latter day made a determined effort against the British left flank, which was repulsed. During the 12th there were no enemy attacks made. Our losses were considerable."

"A report received, but not yet confirmed, is that Belgian forces in Ruanda have penetrated to Kigali after encountering slight opposition."

The Belgian War Office Saturday issued the following statement confirmatory of the news received Friday from General Smuts, commander-in-chief of the South African forces invading German East Africa: "Kigali, the chief town of Ruanda, has been occupied by the Belgians; the island of Kiriviri, in Lake Kivu, has again been occupied."

MET ON THE PARAPET.

Scottish Troops Repulsed German Attack With the Bayonet.

LONDON, May 15.—The Germans continue to feel out the British lines, seeking a point for a general onslaught.

On Friday night, after a heavy bombardment, the Germans made three attacks against the British trenches between the River Somme and Maricourt, one of which succeeded in getting into the British trenches, but was at once driven out. Some dead Germans were left entangled on the defenders' wire.

On Saturday night after a heavy bombardment by guns of all calibres the Germans attacked the British lines about the Ploegstraete Wood. One party succeeded in entering the British trenches, but was immediately repulsed. The other parties were met on the parapet by Scottish troops and dispersed.

Early Sunday morning a British patrol entered enemy trenches south of La Bassée Canal.

Locked in Cupboard of Vacant House

PORT WILLIAM, Ont., May 15.—Arthur Haywood and Edith Wilson, young children, who have been missing since Thursday afternoon, were found locked in a cupboard of an unoccupied house at 177 Frederica street at five o'clock Saturday afternoon, one block from their homes. The little girl was barely alive when found, but she will recover. The boy was also in a famished condition, but is recovering.

They were found by a painter when he entered the house to do some renovating. They had turned on the water and could not turn it off, and afraid had crept into the cupboard, the doors of which were fitted with spring locks, which immediately closed and imprisoned them.

ONE POET OUT OF PLACE.

When Wordsworth, In Borrowed Finery, Attended a Royal Function.

It is not easy to imagine Wordsworth, the gentle poet, in the midst of the glittering artificialities of court life. Yet he once actually presented that picture. How slender was the tie that bound Wordsworth to the court during his seven years' tenure of the laureateship may be judged, says W. Forbes Gray in "The Poets Laureate," by the fact that he wrote no official poems and that on only one occasion did he leave his retreat in the heart of his beloved lake land to attend a court function. In May, 1845, he obeyed an imperative summons of the lord chamberlain to attend a state ball at Buckingham palace.

There must have been, as Professor Knight remarks, "something not a little incongruous in the severely simple, almost austere, poet of seventy-five years attending a ceremonial of this kind." Wordsworth went not only to the ball, but to the queen's levee, in a court dress belonging to Samuel Rogers and wearing a sword once owned by Sir Humphry Davy.

"What," exclaims Haydon, "would Hazlitt say now? The poet of the lakes in bagwig, sword and ruffles!" Haydon also remarks that the fitting of the court dress was no easy matter. "It was a squeeze, but by pulling and hauling they got him in. Fancy the high priest of mountain and of flood on his knees in a court, the quiz of the courtiers, in a dress that did not belong to him, with a sword that was not his own and a coat that he had borrowed." Haydon could not bear to "associate a bagwig and sword, ruffles and buckles with Helvellyn and the mountain solitudes."

On returning home the laureate wrote an interesting account of his novel experience to his American friend, Professor Reed: "The reception given me by the queen, at her ball, was most gracious. Mrs. Everett, the wife of your minister, among many others, was a witness to it, without knowing who I was. It moved her to the shedding of tears. This effect was in part produced, I suppose, by American habits of feeling, as pertaining to a republican government. To see a gray haired man of seventy-five years, kneeling down, in a large assembly, to kiss the hand of a young woman, is a sight for which institutions essentially democratic do not prepare a spectator of either sex and must naturally place the opinions upon which a republic is founded and the sentiments which support it in strong contrast with a government based and upheld as ours is."
