

CLASSIFIEDS

The Rules: Classifieds are a free service offered by The Brunswickan to the staff and students of UNB and STU. Content: 30 words or less each of which should be inoffensive on its own, or in conjunction with others. Duration of publication: One week. Disclosure: Classifieds are not confidential. If you are ashamed to submit your name with your classified, then it's not for us. Please don't use someone else's name. We will check. (Names are not necessarily printed, but we like to have them for our own records. We're anal that way.) When submitting a classified in person, bring your ID. Inclusion: Acceptance of a classified does not guarantee publication. There are many places to lose things in this office. Especially if that thing is your sanity. And finally: The Brunswickan reserves the right to refuse to publish any classified. Offensive classifieds have as much chance of getting published as the Cellar has of its annual sales figures overtaking the Social Club's monthly loss due to spillage.

Claire G. Cupples, PhD
Associate Professor, Biology

Professor's DNA "repair shop" may help save human lives

Maria Koutroumanis, MSc student, Biochemistry/Molecular Biology

"DNA is a genetic database that defines who we are, which is why it is so useful in crime solving," says biology professor Claire Cupples of Concordia University. "Like any database, it must be up-to-date and error free." Cupples' research on DNA repair in the bacterium Escherichia coli contributes to a broader understanding of how certain enzymes snip out damaged sections of genes and fill in the gaps with correct genetic information, thus keeping the DNA "database" current and accurate. In time, this work may provide additional clues about why defects in DNA repair in human cells lead to cancer. That is why the National Cancer Institute of Canada is funding Dr. Cupples' research.

For Maria Koutroumanis, a trilingual second year MSc student in biochemistry, working with Dr. Cupples and being trained in the very latest molecular biology techniques represents "...an outstanding opportunity to get hands-on training in an environment that allows me to develop and prepare for the real world."

And there are other valid reasons Concordia is the right university for so many people: more than 160 undergraduate and graduate programs with strong reputations in business studies, communications, psychology, fine arts and engineering; a college system offering a personalized approach to education; a friendly atmosphere with professors who are known for their accessibility; a remarkable choice of programs on a full- and part-time basis; and two campuses with a student body truly representative of Montreal's diverse population.

When you consider that Concordia is also known for being in touch with the real world, you can be assured that what you learn here will go farther out there.
