WULD BROADEN SCOPE OF THE COMPENSATION LAW

ents Would Include Occupational Disease Seeks to Give Legislative Power to Regulate Industries in Tenements and Dwelling Houses.

Albany, July 20 .- The Committee on Industrial ations at the Constitutional Convention in sesan here reported favorably upon three proposed mendments to the State Constitution, one of which would greatly broaden the scope of the workmen's ation law. An amendment introduced by Mr, Alfred E. Smith ratic leader in the Assembly, would permit the regislature to extend the workmen's compensation law to include compensation for injuries to worknen who contract occupational diseases, while anther would recognize as constitutional the work of the present State Industrial Commission in dealing with labor problems.

VOL XXX. NO. 63

One of the amendments by Mr. Smith would provide that the Legislature may delegate to any board of commission the power to make rules or regulaor amplifying laws passed for tions supplementing he protection of the life, health or safety of work-The second amendment which was also favorably reported by the committee, would provide that no hing contained in the new constitution shall limit the power of the Legislature to enact laws prohibiting the manufacture of goods in dwelling houses or

The committee also endorsed a proposal to place cupational diseases under the operation of the workmen's compensation law. The three amend-ments were reported favorably, while Vice President Gould Schurman of Cornell University, Jacob acting as chairman in the absence of Elihu Root, who missed the first session of the convention since the gathering met on April 6.

The committee of which President Schurman is chairman, unanimously agreed to report favorably an amendment to the common schools section of the constitution. This amendment would settle the New York city school controversy against the city authorties and in favor of the Board of Education to prowide for a 4 mill tax annually for schools instead of 3 mill tax as now provided in the charter, while at the same time it would result, in the discretion of the egislature, in a board of nine members or less instead of forty-six members, as at present.

WESTERN UNION PROTEST.

New York, July 20.-There is strong opposition in the Western Union to the new organization, composed of sixteen companies, which has been formed to write sprinklered business in the West. At the start it was proposed to take in only companies having assets of not less than ten million dollars, but later this wa reduced to $5,000,000 assets, with a surplus of $2,000, 000 and $1,000.000 in premiums in the West.
