bottle as soon as emotied and then wash with hot water. This helps the milkman to supply clean milk.

Never take milk bottles into a sick norm. If there is an infectious or contagious disease in your home boil the milk bottles and do not return them without the express sanction of your local health officed or attending physian. Clean skim milk is a valuable food, ontaining all the nourishing elements of whole milk except the fat or cream. It is useful in cooking cereals, soups, cocoa, etc., and is a palattable, nourishing beverage.

Sour milk and buttermilk can be used with soda in making hot breads, or sour milk can be easily turned into cottage cheese or clabber. Sour cream is a good shortening for cakes and cookles and is useful for salad dressings and gravies for meat.

SPARED HER HOME.

Belgian Woman's Charity Touched the Huns.

Albert Rhys Williams, relating his experiences while "In the Claws of the German Eagle," tells the story of the Belgian peasant woman who saved her little home from the Germans by kindlittle home from the Germans by kindness. "Below Argentau," says Mr.
Williams, "there was a vine-covered cottage before which stood a peasant woman guarding her little domain.
Her weapon was not a rifle, but several buckets of water and a plea ant smile. I ventured to ask how she used the water. She had no time to explain, for at that very moment a column of soldlers came slowly plotding down the dusty road. She moding down the dusty road. She mo-tioned me away as though she would free herself from whatever stignal law presence might incur. A worried clouded her face, as though she saying to herself: "I know the have been spared so far by all the brigands which have gone by, but per-haps here at last is the band that has been appointed to wipe us out.' Thi water, then, was a peace-offering,

"As soon as the soldiers looked her way she put a smile on her face, but it ill concealed her anxiety. She pointed invitingly to her pails. At the sight of the water a thirsty sol-dier here and there would break from the ranks, rush to the pails, take the proffered cup, and hastily swallow down the cooling draught. Then re-turning the cup to the woman, he turning the cup to the woman, he would rush back again to his place in the ranks. Perhaps a dozen men removed their belmets, and, extracting sponge from the inside, make signs to the woman to pour water on! it; then, replacing the sponge in the hel met, marched on refreshed and rejoincing.

"A mounted officer, spying this little oasis, drew rein and gave the or-der to halt. The troopers, very wear-ied by the long forced march, flung themselves down upon the grass while the officers' horse thrust his nose deep into the pail and greedily sucked the water up. More buckets were being continually brought out. Some of water up. More buckets were being continually brought out. Some of them must surely have been confisticated from her neighbors who had fled. The officer, dismounting, sought to hold converse with his hostess, but even with many signs it proved a failure. They both laughed heartily together, though her mirth I thought a bit forced.

"I do not remember witnessing any finer episode in all the war than enacted in this region where the sky was red with flames from the neighbors' houses, and the lintels red with blood from their veins. A frail little soul with only spiritual weapons, she fought for her hearth against a venging host in arms; facing these rough, war-strained men, she forced her trembling body to outward calm and graciousness. Her nerve was not unappreciated. Not one soldier returned cup without a word of thanks and a look of admiration.

"Nor did this pluck go unrewarded. Three months later, passing again through this region as a prisoner, I glimpsed the little cottage still standing in its plot by the flowing river. I want to visit it again after the war. It will always be to me a shrine of the spirit's splendid daring."

$35,000 of Ambergris in a Lump.

A prize lump of ambergris secured by the whaling brig Viola is reported by Capt. John A. Cook, of Provinceton, owner of the vessel. The chunk of ambergris taken from a sperm whale captured just south of Cape Hatteras, weighed 121 pounds, and was valued at $35,000. Each man of a crew of sixteen will have a share in the prize.

Another old whaling barque of the New Bedford fleet returned to port recently after a four years' cruise. This was the Wanderer, built at Mat-tapoisett in 1878 and still apparently as sound as the day she was launched. The Wanderer had pretty good luck on her return cruise. In all she took 6,200 barrels of sperm oil, valued at

Most of this was sent home via the Azores and Barbadoes. Capt. Antoine Edwards, commander of the vessel fig. ured that an average catch of $40,000 a year was not so bad these days.

Precedence ruled in all things at the Count of Louis IV., at Versallies. Even the king's morning toilette was nade in the presence of the courriers, who were continually arriving. As the king yeu to a his outer garments, these were handed to him by the nobleman of the highest rank in attendance.

The story is told that, as the king was pulling on his waistcoat one morning, pulling on his waistcoat one morning, but was handed to him by a count; but before the count had passed the garment to the king, a duke came in.

This made it necessary for the count to hand the waistcoat at once to the duke, as it would have been against etiquette for a person of lower rank to pass the garment. And as it must be handed with the bare hands, the king had to wait the duke removed his gloves.

When this operation was performed, and the duke was about to advance with the waistcoat, the door again opened and a royal prince of a younger branch of the family entered. This duke, of course, at once presented the waistcoat to a new comer, as he was a higher rank.

But the prince was "iso gloved; and when he had performed that somewhat tedious operation for ungloving, there arrived on the scene another prince, who happened to be of the elder branch. So the unfortunate king had to wait once more, and as the room was cold, it is recorded that he took a violent chill.

When the king was about to drink, a chamberlain announced the fact at the op of his voice, and two functionaries, whose duty it was to taste the wine or water in order to prove that it had not been poisoned, stepped forward, poured out a little, and drank it off. Then the king drank.

They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Erockville, Ont.

Preserve Eggs Now

The indications are that eggs will be dear next winter, dearer than they were last winter, so those who want eggs had better put some down now, while they are comparatively cheap. of packed eggs.

Respecting the addition of salt, it must be stated that our experiments—conducted now throughout fifteen sea sons-do not show any benefit to be derived therefrom; indeed, salt frequently imparts a limey flavor to the egg, probably by inducing an inter-change of the fluids within and without the egg. Our advice is, do not add any salt to the lime-water.

WALLOON AND FLEMING.

The report coming from Amsterdam to the effect that the German Governor-General of Beigium is to divide that country's Ministries of Agricul-ture, Industry, Art and Science and Labor into Flemish and Walloon ministries elicited from the United States National Geographic Society the following defining territories in the two districts:

"In point of population the Walloon district of Belgium is considerably smaller than the Flemish, the latest census showing some 3,000,000 Walloons and 4.000,000 Flemings, but in area the Walloons have a slight advantage. The advantage in population grows out of the fact that three of the four cities of the kingdom which boast of more than 100,000 inhabitants-Brussels, Antwerp and Chent—are in Flemish territory, while Liege alone lies south of the roughly drawn imaginary boundary line running in a southwesterly direction from Aix-la-

Chapelle (German, Aachen) to Lille.
"The term Walloons is used to desig nate those Belgians who speak French or a French dialect, while the Flem-ings are those who speak Dutch or a Dutch dialect. Designated as pro-vinces, the Walloons are in the main confined to Hainaut, Namur, Liege, Luxenberg and a part of Brabant, comprising an area about five times as large as the State of Rhode Island, while Flemish territory approximates the area of the State of Connecticut. "In the veins of the Walloons runs a strain of Celtic blood, for they are the descendants of the Belgae of Julius Caesar's day. They exchanged their own language for that of the Latins.

"During the fierce religious conflicts of the sixteenth century the Walloons as a rule sided with the Spaniards and won the coithet of 'The Malcontents,' In fact, they furnished the Catholic monarch with many of his mercenaries the days when the Duke of Alva, Don John of Austria and Grand Commander Requesens were endeavoring to put down revolt in the Low Countries.

"The Walloons are generally accredited with more vivacity and nervous energy than their Flemish countrymen, and in a country where industry and thrift are universal character istics a comparison which awards the palm for these virtues to the Walloons is perhaps not odious. Among the lower classes, however, the Flemings are said to excel their brunette com patriots in personal neatness.
"Among the most distinguished Wal loon men of letters in the middle ages was the famous chronicler Froissart.

THE BABY LIONS.

Isung to the tune of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."]
The Lion Cube are coming from their homes across the sea, For the Mother Lion calls them on a trip to Germany;
They're going to see the Kaiser, do you think it's glad he'll be.
When the Baby Lions come?

Chorus: Growling like the distant thunder, German hordes they'll rend asunder, Making them disgorge their: plunder, When the Baby Lions come.

Canada responded with a roar across the world. Australia and New Zealand too their bat-tle flags unfurled. India, South Africa, the Islands of the Sca.

They all come marching on

All the highways of creation see them speeding to the fight,
To help the Mother Lion in her battle for the right;
The Kaiser and his vandals they will surely see the light,
When the Baby Lions come.

They've left their sun kissed deserts and their distant fields of ice. They're left their maple sugar, kangaroos and crops of rice, Quite expensive, but the Prussians will most likely pay the price, When the Baby Lions come.

They are looking very brawly, very strong, and very fit.

And their souls are filled with burning that the flowes of Flanders lit;

Kalser Mill will find he can't chew up the mouthful he has bit.

When the Baby Lions come.

Yee, the Lion Family's coming, not a member of it wanes,
To the rescue of a dainty Belgian maid that's bound in chains,
And if need be they will pour out every drop within their velns,
When the Baby Lions come.

GET BACK TO NATURE.

Live the Simple Life and Win Health and Happiness.

The movement to return to nature and The movement to return to nature and simple life is the satution offered to the high cost of living problem, but health experts and enthusiasts have found it to be the only way of right living or healthful living kwown to-day. They have adopted it as a safe road to health. They say that a return to nature means good digestion, sound sleep, a clear head, a placid mind, contentment and joy to be alive.

close to nature—living out of doors as much as possible by working, playing and resting in the open air and, above all, by sleeping in the open air. "Outdoor sleeping is the best life preserved known." It means also going to the gardson and surchard for your bill of faire-tomatom, lettuce, celery, spinach, tumbps, beans, corn, pess, melons, berries, apples, peaches, plums and all other fruits and green stuffs untouched by the tire.

The real value of adopting the simple life, according to the health experts, lines in the pleasure we find in living it. To do it grudgingly or without knewing and sourceisting its benefits we botch it and fall, but to love health more than appetite and seek it is to have health, comfort, efficiency and a long life.
