HOT FOR HEALTH.

An Engineer's Narrative of His Lively Adventure With a Certain Mrs. Brain In the Early Railroading Days in Pennsylvania.

The fat engineer had been trying to finally succeeded in getting the attention of the members of the roundhouse stove

"Yes, yes." he said. "Pennsylvania used to be a wild state in the days when I did my first throttle pulling on the Royal Blue line, and many were the hair rais lng experiences we had. Bears? Why, they were thicker than dead flies on sticky fly paper. They were a little shy when the road first went through, but after the novelty wore off they got so they enjoyed a ride on a freight train as much as any hobo living, and it was as much as any hobo living, and it was as much as any nobo living, and it was no uncommon sight to see a bear sitting on the edge of a box car, letting his legs dangle over the edge, just like a real brakeman. Yes, yes. That's a fact.

"In about the wildest part of the councasing the councasing the second second try we ran through there was a passing siding which was called Haskin's Switch. This was a regular hanging out place for the bears. One day an old female bear was giving her cub a boost to get him on a flat car for a little outing when slipped and fell under the cruel els, his young life being crushed out tantly. The old mother bear took it the passed by the engine.

ery soon. A couple of days after that came along to Haskin's and had to ake the siding for a passenger train. The boys of the crew and my fireman thought they, would go up in the woods about a quarter of a mile and get some good spring water, as we had a few minutes to wait before the first class train ame along. They left me all alone with "The running gear of the engine on the left hand side, forward under the boiler, had been working badly, so I thought I'd ook things over. I took my long necked il can and, lighting my torch, got off be engine and went forward to look over roublesome gear. I found that a link hanger needed attention, necessitat-ing my getting down flat on my belly inder the engine with legs projecting wer the rails. I had been at work in this position for some minutes when I felt a strong tugging at my left trouser leg. "'It's the boys back from the spring," I thought to myself, 'and they're trying to get gay with me. I'll just pay no atention to them whatever.

"I kept right on at my chore, but the boys kept right on fooling with my legs. Finally my temper got the better of me and I shouted angrily:

"'Harry, by jiminetty, if that's you I'll come out there and kick you so hard that you won't be able to sit down for a week.' Harry was my fireman's name.

"The only answer I got was a low growl. I will admit that I got frightened, although such a thing is unusual with me. Nevertheless having finished my work, I began to back out from under the engine, keeping my torch and oil can "Well, you could have knocked me over with a feathers for when I got out so's I could see, the first thing my eyes lit on was that old she bear, sitting on her haunches waiting for me to come out. She was ugly, too, and growling. The look on her face seemed to say: 'You are the cause of the death of my offspring. If you'd been more careful, it wouldn't have happened. I'm here to settle "When I got out, she made several movements toward me, but I kept her at a comfortable distance by waving my torch in her face. She was getting bolde all the while, however, and I knew I would have to devise some scheme to get on the engine, as I didn't want to try an argument in close quarters with her, because a bear in as ugly a mood as she was is not a thing to be sneezed at.

was is not a thing to be sneezed at.

"So I set my wits to work. Glancing around I saw that I was nearer to the pilot of the engine than I was to the step on the side of the tank, and if I could reach the pilot before the bear did. I could get to the can via the purpose. I could get to the cab via the running board along the side of the boiler and laugh at Mrs. Bear. "I decided to try for it, and, making a feint lunge at my animal friend with the torch to get her farther from me, I dusttorch to get her farther from me, I dusted for the pilot. I reached it before she did, but just as I was drawing my leg up the bear grabbed it with both her fore paws. I tried to break away from her hold, but it was useless. Turning, I saw her jaws wide open within easy reach of my arm, and something superhuman seemed to tell me what to do. I stuck the torch in her wide open mouth. With the other hand I brought my oil can into play and poured the coal oil from the can on the lighted torch in the bear's wide open mouth. The effect was very disas trous for the bear. The inflammable oil took fire going down her throat, and, exploding, almost blew her head off, killing her instantly.

"The boys got back shordy after that, but they wouldn't believe my story until I showed them the bear's carcass."

Phillips Brooks as a Nurse, Dr. Brooks was calling on some of his poorer parishioners one day and found one woman looking very tired and miserable, with several little children and one small baby under her care. He told her she ought to go out and take a walk with the older children, the day being a She renlied that she had with the older children, the day being a beautiful one. She replied that she had no one with whom she could leave the baby. "Leave it with me." answered Dr. Brooks. And he remained with the baby until the woman returned, brighter and better for the breath of fresh air she had obtained.—Ladies' Home Journal.

CATARRHOZONE CURES CHILD OF CATARIRH.

Perth, Ont.: "I cannot withhold my cestimony as to the great value of Catarrhozone as a remedy for Catarrh, one bottle having cured my daughter of that trouble, and I heartily recommend it to all suffering from that disease. No house should be without it." Mrs. J. A. Morris.

So pleasant, babies use it; so safe, grandmothers employ it; so certain to quickly relieve and cure that doctors, lawyers, merchants and public speakers rely upon Catarrhozone as their standby for Catarrh, Branchitis, Asthma and Hay Fever. It is cheap because it lasts so long, and because it is so sure to cure even the poorest can afford to buy it. Every dollar outfit is guaranteed to cure, or your money back. WHEN DOGS ARE SICK.

Way to Give Medicine to The Highly Sensitive Patients. In all treatment of a sick dog re nber you are dealing with a highly ensitive and nervous patient. Be very gentle, avoid roughness or anything likely to alarm him. In giving him any id medicine do not open his mouth placing him between your knees, his face looking in the same direc tion as your own, gently raise his jaw and, pulling his lips away from his teeth on one side of his mouth, to form a cup or funnel, very slowly pour from pottle or spoon the quantity he is to have into it.

Keep his head raised for a minute or two and if he does not swallow the dose insert a spoon between his front teeth. This will have the effect of drawing off his attention from the medicine and he will usually swallow at once. If the dose is a pill, bolus or anything solid, hold his head the same way as before mentioned, but with the left hand under lower jaw, press firmly on each side with thumb and finger at the junction of upper and lower jaws. This will usually cause him to open his mouth, when the dose should be put into the mouth as far back as possible over the tongue (or he will spit it out) and close the jaws somewhat sharply, and in most cases the deed is done. If any trouble arises with the action of his front paws this may be got over by wrapping him round with a shawl or coarse apron. When once you have got into the way of it, you will be surprised how simple it is. I am quite sure a practiced own er or kennelsman would dose a dozer dogs while a novice was making a bungle over one.-"All About Dogs," by Charles Henry Lane.

THE COLLAR BUTTON.

Its Blessings Realized Only by Those Who Have Lived Without It. "In looking over a trunk full of old truck the other day," said the elderly man, "I came across a lot of old shirts with the buttons sewed on, and as I looked at them I realized anew what the collar button means to humanity. There have been greater inventions, surely, but not many that have conferred a more unmixed blessing on markind.

"The younger person of today, ac customed to the collar button always, cannot realize what it was to be without it. He can never know what it was to have shirts with the buttons sewed on-or not, as the case might be. Not so very many years ago, when the collar button was yet comparative-ly new, before persons had come to keep, as everybody commonly does now, a lot of buttons on hand, the man who had lost his collar button thought himself entitled to the sympathy of his fellows, but wrung as he might be by that loss he could not even guess at the anguish that in the sewed on button days filled the heart of the man who, when he came to put on his last clean shirt, found that key button, the one on the collar band, most important one of all, gone entirely or only just hanging by a thread! "I knew a man once who had this happen to him and didn't swear. That was the only great thing he ever did, but I have always thought that that alone was enough to stamp him as a most extraordinary man.".

Ditched the Bishop.

"I remember once driving across the country with Bishop —," writes Rev. Cyrus Townsend Brady of "A Missionary In the Great West" in the Ladies' Home Journal, "while discussing the nature of the soul. That is, the bishop was discussing. I was only prompting by a question now and then. We were on the rear seat of a wagon, with the driver on the front seat. It was a very dark night. In the middle of the bishop's exposition the wagon took a wild plunge, there was a crash, and over we went into the muddy ditch.

"'I beg your pardon, gents!' said the driver, who had retained control of the horses as we scrambled to our feet. 'I was so interested in hearin the man discussin my immortal soul, which I hardly ever knowed that I had one before, that I clean forgot where we was and drove you plump into the ditch."

Better to Have Waited. The other morning Jones turned up at the office even later than usual His employer, tired of waiting for him, had himself set about registering the day's transactions, usually Jones' first duty. The enraged merchant laid his pen aside very deliberately and said to Jones, very sternly indeed, "Jones, this will not do!" "No, sir," replied Jones gently, drawing off his ceat as he glanced over his employer's shoulder, "it will not. You have entered McKurken's order in the wrong book. Far better to have waited till I came!".

A Thieves' Trick. A mastiff was trained to assist thieves in Paris. It was in the habit of bounding against old gentlemen and knocking them over in the street. A "lady" and "gentleman"-owners the dog-would then step forward assist the unfortunate pedestrian to rise, and while doing so would ease him of his watch and purse.
