

THE PROTESTANT AND EVANGELICAL WITNESS.

"You cannot ask too much of spiritual good for your soul; you cannot ask more than Christ's death has merited; you cannot ask more than Christ's power can give."

THE Protestant & Evangelical Witness.

SAURDAY, APRIL 26, 1866.

FAMILY WORSHIP.

This is a duty which, we fear, is much neglected by many families in the island. That it is a duty, few, if any, will deny; yet many live in the daily neglect of that which they acknowledge they ought to perform.

One of these advantages is, that family worship promotes the spiritual prosperity of the heads of the family. When they engage in this duty, earnestly imploring spiritual blessings on themselves and others, they are then in a position to receive the fulfillment of their requests.

Family worship also greatly aids to prevent the formation of bad habits in the younger members of the family. Evil influences are operating to corrupt their minds, and fill on them the bands of wickedness.

RELIGIOUS MOVEMENTS IN LONDON.

The special services both in Exeter and St. James's Hall, and in several of the theatres, have been continued with interest and success.

SPAIN.

Martin Bonalton, the Bible collector, is still detained by the Spanish authorities. He is living at a hotel in Cadix, guarded by a policeman, whose presence, as well as the presence of the British Consul, is a constant annoyance.

earth" and "Head of the Universal Church," we find him a few months ago denouncing the massacre of his own subjects by the Swiss mercenaries in his employ; and now we hear of the same spirit which led him to denounce the massacre of his own subjects by the Swiss mercenaries in his employ.

THE Protestant & Evangelical Witness.

SAURDAY, APRIL 26, 1866.

FAMILY WORSHIP.

This is a duty which, we fear, is much neglected by many families in the island. That it is a duty, few, if any, will deny; yet many live in the daily neglect of that which they acknowledge they ought to perform.

One of these advantages is, that family worship promotes the spiritual prosperity of the heads of the family. When they engage in this duty, earnestly imploring spiritual blessings on themselves and others, they are then in a position to receive the fulfillment of their requests.

Family worship also greatly aids to prevent the formation of bad habits in the younger members of the family. Evil influences are operating to corrupt their minds, and fill on them the bands of wickedness.

RELIGIOUS MOVEMENTS IN LONDON.

The special services both in Exeter and St. James's Hall, and in several of the theatres, have been continued with interest and success.

SPAIN.

Martin Bonalton, the Bible collector, is still detained by the Spanish authorities. He is living at a hotel in Cadix, guarded by a policeman, whose presence, as well as the presence of the British Consul, is a constant annoyance.

the proper time, and allowed a reactionary Government to be established which rests on the priesthood and army, and receives its inspirations from the Vatican, have had little or no attention in the remembrance of the British Minister. The Spanish rulers only upon our efforts in relation to the question of the Pope's temporal power.

THE Protestant & Evangelical Witness.

SAURDAY, APRIL 26, 1866.

FAMILY WORSHIP.

This is a duty which, we fear, is much neglected by many families in the island. That it is a duty, few, if any, will deny; yet many live in the daily neglect of that which they acknowledge they ought to perform.

One of these advantages is, that family worship promotes the spiritual prosperity of the heads of the family. When they engage in this duty, earnestly imploring spiritual blessings on themselves and others, they are then in a position to receive the fulfillment of their requests.

Family worship also greatly aids to prevent the formation of bad habits in the younger members of the family. Evil influences are operating to corrupt their minds, and fill on them the bands of wickedness.

RELIGIOUS MOVEMENTS IN LONDON.

The special services both in Exeter and St. James's Hall, and in several of the theatres, have been continued with interest and success.

SPAIN.

Martin Bonalton, the Bible collector, is still detained by the Spanish authorities. He is living at a hotel in Cadix, guarded by a policeman, whose presence, as well as the presence of the British Consul, is a constant annoyance.

MARRIAGE. On Thursday, the 25th March, at the Church of St. Ann and Agnes, City, London, by the Rev. W. P. Wood, M. A., J. H. TOWNSEND, Minister of the Gospel, in ASSISTANCE, second daughter of Mr. John Wood, of Whitehall, and Miss Mary Ann Wood, of St. Ann's Church, Whitehall.

THE Protestant & Evangelical Witness.

SAURDAY, APRIL 26, 1866.

FAMILY WORSHIP.

This is a duty which, we fear, is much neglected by many families in the island. That it is a duty, few, if any, will deny; yet many live in the daily neglect of that which they acknowledge they ought to perform.

One of these advantages is, that family worship promotes the spiritual prosperity of the heads of the family. When they engage in this duty, earnestly imploring spiritual blessings on themselves and others, they are then in a position to receive the fulfillment of their requests.

Family worship also greatly aids to prevent the formation of bad habits in the younger members of the family. Evil influences are operating to corrupt their minds, and fill on them the bands of wickedness.

RELIGIOUS MOVEMENTS IN LONDON.

The special services both in Exeter and St. James's Hall, and in several of the theatres, have been continued with interest and success.

SPAIN.

Martin Bonalton, the Bible collector, is still detained by the Spanish authorities. He is living at a hotel in Cadix, guarded by a policeman, whose presence, as well as the presence of the British Consul, is a constant annoyance.

JUST PUBLISHED. Price in plain cloth, 4s., in cloth gilt, 6s. AND FOR SALE AT THE BOOKSTORE of Mr. HAZARD, 10, South Street, London, E.C.

THE Protestant & Evangelical Witness.

SAURDAY, APRIL 26, 1866.

FAMILY WORSHIP.

This is a duty which, we fear, is much neglected by many families in the island. That it is a duty, few, if any, will deny; yet many live in the daily neglect of that which they acknowledge they ought to perform.

One of these advantages is, that family worship promotes the spiritual prosperity of the heads of the family. When they engage in this duty, earnestly imploring spiritual blessings on themselves and others, they are then in a position to receive the fulfillment of their requests.

Family worship also greatly aids to prevent the formation of bad habits in the younger members of the family. Evil influences are operating to corrupt their minds, and fill on them the bands of wickedness.

RELIGIOUS MOVEMENTS IN LONDON.

The special services both in Exeter and St. James's Hall, and in several of the theatres, have been continued with interest and success.

SPAIN.

Martin Bonalton, the Bible collector, is still detained by the Spanish authorities. He is living at a hotel in Cadix, guarded by a policeman, whose presence, as well as the presence of the British Consul, is a constant annoyance.

See the Steamship Liverpool... The London Times... THE KING OF SA...