Our Roof Garden Tests

ON THIS PAGE during the next 14 days we will give the results of nearly twenty-five years of roofing tests by the Ruberoid Roofing Company.

Scientific tests of each roofing have been made in their chemical laboratory, where roofings are analyzed and separated into their elements. Practical tests of each roofing have been made on their "roof garden," where a roofing gets the surest of all tests, the actual weather test.

The roof garden test tells them to a month how long each kind of roofing will last. And their chemist, by seeking out the hidden weakness, tells us why some roofings prove permanent, while others, looking much the same, go to pieces in a single summer.

These tests have cost the Ruberoid people more than $100,000. Yet the whole benefit may be yours if you will carefully read these proofs that will follow during the next 14 days.

THE ROYAL TOMBS AT WINDSOR.

No burial place perhaps has been so strictly preserved from the public eye as the sacred vault at Windsor where so many members of our Royal Families lie at rest. St. George's Chapel, in which Henry VI., Edward VI., Henry VIII., and Charles I. are buried, dates from Edward IV., though the present building owes its size and beauty to Henry VII. and Henry VIII., by whom it was completed. But the royal tomb-house was not built till the time of George III., and only occasionally is a privileged visitor admitted within its precincts. This crypt, 70ft. long and 28ft. wide, has an entrance at the east end of St. George's Chapel, and runs under the Albert Memorial Chapel, an appendage at the east end of the larger chapel. In the centre of the crypt are twelve low stone tables, designed to receive the remains of Sovereigns, and round the walls are niches to receive sixty-nine others. George III. and his two successors, George IV. and William IV., lie buried there.

The Albert Memorial Chapel above the royal tomb-house lies behind the east end of St. George's Chapel, and must not be confused with the Prince Consort's Mausoleum at Frogmore, where the remains of Queen Victoria were laid beside those of the Prince Consort.

Given to Wolsey.
 The Memorial Chapel was restored and beautified by Queen Victoria and renamed the Albert Chapel in 1874, but the building dates from the fifteenth century.

It was first begun by Henry VII. It is recorded, but left unfinished when he decided to erect the chapel named after him at Westminster Abbey. Cardinal Wolsey subsequently obtained it as a gift from Henry VIII., and proceeded with the work, but it was left incomplete on his disgrace, and though Charles I. made some progress, it was ravaged by the Parliamentarians and the movable decorations sold. The black marble sarcophagus made for Wolsey, however, survived and was removed to St. Paul's Cathedral by George III., where it was used as a tomb for Nelson.

James II. restored the chapel and had it fitted up for the services of the Roman Catholic Church, but after his reign it again fell into disuse, till revived by George III.

The chapel did not, however, gain its right to be regarded as "one of the most beautiful in the world" till Queen Victoria had it restored as a memorial of her beloved husband. On its small area, 68ft. by 28ft., was lavished all the splendour of marble and mosaic that the greatest artists of the time could devise. Even the floor was inlaid with richly coloured marbles, and the seats round the walls are of green marble.

The vaulted roof was made splendid with the glowing Venetian mosaics of Salvati, whose method for brilliance and permanency has never been surpassed. Venetian enamel mosaics were also used for the full length portraits which occupy the blank west window of twenty-eight persons connected with the chapel, including Henry III., whose chapel stood on the same site, Edward III., Henry VI., Edward IV., Henry VII., Henry VIII., Charles I., and George III.

King Edward's Medallion.
 The windows on the north and south sides represent ancestors of the Prince Consort with their heraldic bearings, including Witekind the Great A.D. 803. The beautiful marble mosaics of Baron Triqueti which decorate the walls of the chapel represent in etched and coloured marble various Biblical scenes typifying certain qualities of the Prince Consort. Above each is a medallion representing various members of the Royal Family, that nearest the chancel on the left and above the deanery door representing King Edward when Prince of Wales.

Immediately before the altar is the cenotaph of the Prince Consort, a beautiful monument of black and white marble. At the corners are angels, and at the sides are marble panels representing Truth, Honour, Justice, Charity, Piety, and Hope. At the ends are figures of the praying widow and of Science, weeping. A white marble figure representing the Prince Consort in chain armour with his favourite dog Eos at his feet lies on the top of the monument, with two angels bending above the head.

Next to the cenotaph of the Prince Consort is the tomb of the Duke of Clarence, the eldest son of King Edward, and beyond is the tomb of the Duke of Albany, Queen Victoria's youngest son.

Bishop in a Donkey Cart

One of the best stories told regarding Bishop Barry, whose death was announced recently, relates how on one occasion he had a good reason to travel in order to keep an appointment at Brentford, but for some time he failed to find a vehicle to convey him to the place of meeting. Then a costermonger appeared in sight, and learning of the bishop's difficulty, modestly offered him a lift. With equal modesty the prelate accepted, and the sight of a past Primate of Australia riding in the humblest vehicle known filled many persons with astonishment as the barrow and its strangely-contracted occupants neared its destination. One of the bishop's first tasks was publicly to express his thanks to the costermonger for enabling him to fulfill his engagement.

Freshwater Notes.

Freshwater was not behind in paying its tribute of respect to the departed monarch King Edward VII. The Church was draped and a Memorial Service arranged. This circuit has two Orange Lodges working within its boundaries. Anglo-Saxon Lodge, Freshwater, and Edward VII. Lodge, Cove. Could there be a better combination? On Memorial Day the bell tolled for one hour, and at 1.30 the Orange brethren, loyal to flag and country, walked solemnly into the Church while the "Dead March in Saul" was played. All the Burial Service was read except the committal and interspersed with suitable hymns and usual lessons. The pastor, Rev. C. Lench, delivered a panegyric emphasizing the salient characteristics of Britain's Peacemaker, based on the good and great King Hezekiah. The service was very impressive.

At the request of Anglo-Saxon Lodge, Mr. Lench lectured in their hall in the evening taking as subject: "Our New King and Britain's Expectations." The life of George V. was reviewed and what the nation expected from its new King clearly set forth. "The King is dead, God Save the King."

Sabbath was a high day in Freshwater, it being Sunday School Anniversary, the young people's day of the year. About 1,000 people, old and young, were packed in the church from towns and villages miles away. The singing by the choir and Sunday School, and the recitations, dialogues, etc., were splendidly rendered as the result of long and faithful drilling. A very pleasing feature of the Anniversary was the presentation to the popular Superintendent, Mr. Augustus Noel, of an address of appreciation and a large Family Bible, subscribed by the teachers and adult class. For eleven years Mr. Noel has rendered efficient and faithful service as Superintendent and many years as teacher. All concerned had kept their secret and Mr. Noel was greatly affected, but his reply spoke volumes for "real worth from humble life," and the men who are doing the bulk of the world's work for the benefit of the coming generation.

The people of this busy and independent village and surrounding hamlets are all astir. Gardening this season a specialty. Traps ready for the water to-morrow. Preparations complete for Labrador. Tuesday and Thursdays — days of farewells, as crowds leave for Grand Falls, Sydney Mines, Chelsea, Boston and other American cities, where men are needed, labour abundant and wages certain. They will turn up towards Xmas with pockets lined and families well provided for. Freshwater and surrounding villages are enjoying a succession of years of unbroken prosperity, and there is a most unique condition of things, an entire absence of poverty and want.

Carthaginian Arrived.

The Allan Liner Carthaginian, Capt. Bamber, got in here at 7 p.m. yesterday. Leaving Philadelphia at 2 p.m. Thursday last the ship had a fine run down until she was about 12 miles east of Cape Race when she had thick weather and her speed had to be decreased incurring a delay. The fog is very thick in that section of the coast and greatly impedes navigation. She had 150 tons cargo and her passengers were—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rendell, Mrs. Croucher and child, and a steersman.

Ferrovium, the invigorating tonic, contains Beef, the most strengthening food in the least bulk. Iron, which makes rich red blood and gives strength and vitality to the whole body and just enough pure Spanish Sherry Wine to stimulate the digestion and thus aid the assimilation of the Iron and Beef. $100 per bottle at drug-gists.

Seamen Are Scarce.

Vessels now in port and loading for Brazil and other places find considerable difficulty in getting crews to man them. This is mostly owing to the fact that employment can be obtained along shore, at the fishery and rail-roading for wages greatly in excess of which seamen generally get. Four vessels now in port want from two to four men each but none can be had at the rates which are offering.

College Cricket.

The first inter-collegiate cricket match of the season will be played at St. George's, Peld next Saturday between the Pelidians and the Methodist. Both teams have lost some of their best men, but have drafted in new players who will no doubt give a good account of themselves at the wickets. The college games will no doubt attract crowds as in the past.

ST. MICHAEL'S GUILD.—The postponed sociable of St. Michael's Guild will be on to-morrow.

Bay de Verde Notes. Men Leaving Country.

Now that the frost and snow are over the people do not know what is the matter with them. Such a rush on stage building you never saw. Wherever you look you see a man with a hatchet and saw. Other men are turning their attention to farming.

Friday being the 20th of May, the day of the King's burial, Bay de Verde was in mourning—flags at half mast. Both Roman Catholic and Church of England bells were tolling. But why are they tolling, and for whom? The answer is this: There is one gone from our midst—one for whom there is heartfelt sorrow in the person of His Most Gracious Majesty Edward VII., the Peacemaker. Why is he styled the Peacemaker? Because he did all in his power to bring about peace between all nations of the world. He is gone, but he left behind him a title—a title which everyone honours and reveres. He was a good King, a wise Sovereign, and a gentleman in every respect. Therefore Bay de Verde joins in sympathy for the Royal Family.

Some traps are out here but there is a poor sign of fish.

The shore train which arrived here last night brought up 140 men yesterday from different parts of Trinity and Conception Bays, about 100 of whom boarded the Bruce express at Brigus Junction to proceed to different parts of the United States and Canada. The remainder went to Shoal Harbor to work on the new branch railroad all the summer.

Children Had Eczema

Treatment prescribed had no effect—DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT made thorough cure.

Mrs. Oscar Vancott, St. Antonio, Sack, writes:—"I have found Dr. Chase's Ointment to be a permanent cure for Eczema and other skin diseases. One son, while nursing, broke out with running watery sores all over his head and around the ears. Many salves were prescribed to no effect. The child's head became a mass of scabs and he suffered agony untold. He became weak and frail and would not eat and we thought we would lose him."

"Providentially we heard of Dr. Chase's Ointment and it soon thoroughly cured him. He is seven years old now and strong and well. An older boy was also cured of eczema by this Ointment and we hope more people will learn about it so that their little ones may be saved from suffering."

As a cure for eczema and itching skin disease there is no treatment to be compared to Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, at all dealers of Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto. Dr. Chase's Recipes sent free.
