Forestalling Ridicule.

BY RUTH CAMERON.

To make fun of others, as we all know, is neither kind nor wise. To make fun of one's self is sometimes both. For the best way to take the sting out of ridicule is to forestall it. Among my acquaintances is a very oddly matched couple, physically I mean. She is very stout, and because of that looks easily ten years older than she is. He is slender and boyish with a debonair curl on his forehead and the quick step of youth. The result of course is that they give the appearance of being almost fifteen years apart, although I believe that in reality there is not more than a year or two in his favor. Naturally, whenever they go to a new place they arise more or less comment. But although this woman is necessarily slow in movement she is quick in wit. She knows their dissimilarity is sure to be a subject of amused whispers and she forestalls any such secret comment by, frankly and openly referring to it herself. She freely admits that Robert weighs thirty pounds less than she does; she insists that he is only a year and a half younger than she, although, she says, with a comic sigh, she scarcely expects anyone to believe that. She tells how at a large reception she asked a little daughter of the man or the State." This is the central idea of a magazine article by Marcus Seymour Pettibrey, lecturer in physiology at Guy's Hospital medical school, which is attracting attention here.

This prominent biologist contends that the old-fashioned view of women's place in nature is supported by the latest biological knowledge. He criticizes late marriages as bad for the health and morals of both sexes; and he for the State, and ascribes the tendency towards these deferred alliances to the higher education of women and their employment in posts which can be filled by men.

"To become a mother," is Professor Pettibrey's highest ideal for woman whom he urges, if she cannot get a husband in England, to go and seek one in the colonies, where men are superabundant.

Well-Poisoning Sensation. Woodstock, Ont., July 14.—A serious case of well-poisoning has been discovered on the farm of Dr. J. B. Colledge, Mayor of Ingersoll, nine miles south of that town, which has been lately bought by the doctor.

There was some dispute between those in possession and the new owner, but the latter took over the farm and put Mr. Furtney on as manager. On taking a drink of water from the well Furtney became ill, and his case was diagnosed as poisoning.

On the well being examined it was found to contain bags of dried turnips, old clothes, the body of a calf, and other articles. Provincial Detective Mueller and others are working on the case.

Twice Proven Cure for Nerves. Irritable, Hysterical, Sleepless, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food Restores Health.

There is a message in this letter for thousands of women who are suffering from broken-down nervous systems. Sleepless nights, much irritability over little things, spells of dizziness and nervous sick headaches are among the symptoms.

You may not realize the nature of your ailment until nervous prostration comes upon you. But, in whatever stage you find yourself, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is ready to help you.

Mrs. W. J. May, 88 Annette street, Toronto, writes: "Some years ago I suffered from nervous trouble, and took Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which completely cured me. About six months ago I received a shock which again shattered my nervous system to such an extent that I was irritable and hysterical, and could not sleep nights. I began to use the Nerve Food again and was not disappointed. Improvement was apparent from the first box, and now I am entirely well."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50, all dealers.

Organist Dies At Instrument.

Detroit, Mich., July 12.—When the lifeless body of Albert Langlois, organist of Holy Trinity Church, was found in his studio yesterday morning by his son, tenants of the Gladwin building here understood why they had listened in vain the previous evening for the closing chords of "Then You'll Remember Me."

It was the musician's heart, not his hand which failed. Physicians called after the finding of the body beside the piano said Langlois had been dead many hours. Langlois was a musician of more than local reputation. He had discovered and trained many grand opera singers. He came to Detroit from Windsor, and leaves a widow and four children and many relatives throughout Ontario.

Plan to Blow County Jail Up

New York, July 14.—Sheriff O'Grady has put a special watch over Armond Fauchon in Richmond County Jail since discovering a prison breaking plot.

Fauchon is one of the five Frenchmen indicted for robbing and burning the cottage of Jacques Dier in Ellingville, H. L., on June 6. He is an escaped convict from Devil's Island.

The Sheriff found that the man had instructed his sixteen-year-old daughter Louise to get him a pair of shoes and have six tiny saws concealed in the soles. He says he also found evidence that Fauchon would attempt to blow up the jail with dynamite rather than be returned to Devil's Island.

Can Place Cattle in State of Hibernation

St. Petersburg, July 14.—Professor Bakhtmetieff, of Moscow, announces he has been experimenting to determine the source of life and has obtained some remarkable results along a collateral line,—the suspension of life by the use of a substance which he calls "Anabiose."

He has been a specialist for seventeen years in the study of hibernation and the results of cold upon animals, particularly bears, and his discoveries are in this field.

He has progressed to the point, he says, where he can place an entire herd of cattle in a state of suspended animation during a severe Russian winter, thereby saving the cost of fodder, shelter and attendance, and revive them in the spring in good condition.

Babies Better Than Certificates.

London, July 11.—"The possession of a baby by a woman is more valuable to the State than her ability to display a first-class certificated classics or a silver trophy won at sport. The so-called higher education of women is not a good ideal for women,
