Divorced Life

By Helen Hessing Fuessle

A Stranger's Eyes.

That divorce could stand in the way of securing employment had never occurred to Marian. The point of view of the elderly woman who refused to employ her as her companion struck her as absurd. Yet, the other's words rankled. They filled Marian with a surging sense of defiance against the forces of convention which seemed to be arrayed against her.

She boarded a street car and was whirled downtown. She bought copies of two morning papers and entered one of the hotels to make a hasty study of the want-ads. She found a chair in the balcony overlooking the lobby, and began her search, checking off the most attractive advertisements for office help.

Seated thus, she soon became aware that a man was repeatedly passing her chair. In casual glances she perceived a man of perhaps forty, well-dressed, and dapper. Later she saw him seated nearby, and was astonished to see him looking fixedly at her. An utter stranger to her, she did not at first understand the meaning of his gaze. Again, a little later, she looked up in time to avert his eyes.

With an uncomfortable, resentful feeling, she got up, turned her chair around, and sat down facing in the opposite direction. Soon, to her surprise, she beheld the man on the other side of the balcony, seated near the rail, and again regarding her steadily. She let her eyes remain upon his for a moment, coldly, icily.

"Is there anything the matter with me?" she wondered. "Why should that fellow stare at me? If he respected me, he wouldn't do it. Is there anything about me to give him the impression that I'm not respectable? Do I look flighty—or fast?"

A sick feeling went through her. The indignity of the man's offensive eyes hurt her poignantly. Men had stared at her before, but never in this chthonous manner. Also, the fact that she was now alone in the world made the episode seem different today. Rarely, during her married years, had she entered a downtown hotel without her husband. Never, before to-day, had she realized the protection from offensive masculine eyes which her husband's presence had meant to her.

She fled from the hotel without further thought of search for work that day. Consumed with chagrin, her only thought was to escape the up and down the endless aisles with the currents of shoppers. And, as her thoughts reverted to the balcony of the hotel, the ugly memory of what had happened brought on a feeling of indignation curiously blended with helplessness.

She made no purchases, sorely though she was tempted by the arrays of merchandise. The thought of her depleted funds stiffened her determination to maintain unyielding economy, until she succeeded in obtaining work.

Work! Where! What kind? What a world—she mused in vague resentment—that fits its women primarily for the business of marriage alone! Dismayed, she scanned the array of shop girls back of the counters, toiling atoms in the great industrial scheme. Untrained woman that she was, she marvelled at the efficiency these girls displayed at their tasks. Then the thought of their low wages poked a taunting finger into her mind, and her heart sank.

To be continued Monday.

MARCH.

The month of March is full of starch, and pepper too, and a n d ginger; her divers gaits none imitates, there is no cheap infringer. One hour she's gay and mild as May, and makes you think of fishing, but while you look for line and hook, a blizzard comes a-swishing. March seems to sing of balmy spring until she has you grinning; and then, odds blood! your name is Mud, and Winter has an inning. March hums a tune suggesting June or dreamy, mild September, and while you list she gives a twist and brings in bleak December. This rattled maid, bold, unafraid, is playing tricks forever; to jolt our nerves with crazy curves is always her endeavour. She gives us rain till we complain of plunk pains in the gizzard; she gives us heat and winds and sleet, and thunderstorm and blizzard. She winks her eyes and springs July, and then rings in October, till we see red and wish her head were soaked till she is sober. But soon she'll slide, and bring her hide, and April's soft and tender, will come and smile in siren style, and fill the world with splendor.

Nerviline Ends Neuralgia, Brings Relief Instantly.

No Remedy Like Old "Nerviline" to Cure Pain or Soreness.

That terrible ache—how you fairly reel with it—that stabbing, burning neuralgia—what misery it causes. Never mind, you don't have to suffer—use Nerviline, it's a sure cure. Not an experiment, because nearly forty years of wonderful success has made a name for Nerviline among the people of many different nations. "There is nothing speedier to end Neuralgic headache than old-time 'Nerviline,'" writes Mr. G. C. Dalgleish, from Evanston. "It is so powerful and penetrating that it seems to eat up any pain in a minute. My family couldn't get along with out Nerviline. We always keep the 50c. family size bottle handy on the shelf, and use it to end chest, colds, sore throats, coughs, earache, toothache and pain in the back. My wife swears by Nerviline. For cramps its effect is astonishing and we believe it is better and speedier than any other household family remedy."

At the City Hall

The weekly session of the City Council took place yesterday afternoon.

Permission to repair a house, asked for by J. Laymond, was granted, subject to the approval of the Engineer.

T. Lawlor was given leave to build annex to stable on Fleming Street.

On motion of Councillor Ryan, Inspector Barnes was instructed to clear all drains in the East End.

Plans of proposed shop on Hamilton Avenue, submitted by Henry North were approved.

Miss Hogan was given permission to make repairs to house on Duckworth Street.

Plans of building to be erected on Pleasant Street, presented by W. H. Bradbury, were not approved.

Water service will be given new houses on Fleming Street.

The meeting then adjourned.

Dr. and Mrs. Morris

AT PUERTO PLATO.

Mr. Morris, Jr., gave us the appended translation of a notice of a visit to Dr. and Mrs. Morris to Puerto Plata, in South America, which appeared in a newspaper called Ecos del Norte.

Dr. Morris is a brother of Sir Edward and Mr. F. J. Morris.

Dr. and Mrs. Morris are guests of our high society. They came from their residence in Sosua to spend with us a holiday during carnival times. Mrs. Morris who visits us for the first time since her arrival in the country is a distinguished and agreeable lady. Everybody in the town is impressed with her sweet and noble character.

Of Dr. Morris, we will say he is a perfect gentleman and a great friend of our best society in Puerto Plata. We feel exceedingly sorry to learn that Dr. and Mrs. Morris are leaving shortly. They beg to thank their many friends for the many acts of kindness extended to them. We hope to see them back soon and we wish them a very pleasant trip.

SATURDAY, March 28, 1914.

Anti-dys-pep is an old English prescription put up in convenient form for general use. In cases of dyspepsia due to loss of tone of the stomach or sluggishness of the liver, it does especially well, and has relieved many and cured outright some stubborn cases. In simple loss of appetite its good effects are very quickly seen. It is not a cure all but for the purpose for which it is recommended it is unsurpassed. Price 25c. a bottle.

Have you rheumatic pains in your joints? There is no external application to equal Chittie Paste as a counter-irritant and anodyne. It can be depended upon to give adequate relief in all such cases. A little rubbed in at night will do the trick. Price 25 cents a bottle.

LO.B.A.

Davidson Lodge, No. 160, L. O. B. A., held a most successful and enthusiastic meeting in the Oddfellows Hall last night, when three candidates were admitted and several applications received. Mrs. Beattie Thistle, Worthy Mistress, was unanimously elected delegate to the Grand Lodge, which meets in Regina in June next.

Had Itching Piles For 27 Years

Often Laid Up for Days at a Time—A Wonderful Tribute to Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Few people were ever more enthusiastic in praising Dr. Chase's Ointment than the writer of this letter. When you read the description of his case you will not wonder why Mr. John Johnson, Coleman, Alta., writes: "Three years ago I was cured of blind, itching piles of 27 years' standing by using Dr. Chase's Ointment. I used to think that death would be the only relief I would ever get from the terrible misery of piles. Often I was laid up for three days at a time, and at other times worked when I should have been in bed."

"Dr. Chase's Ointment is worth sixty dollars a box instead of six cents. I am a different man since using it. I am farming all the time, and never miss a day. Words fail to express my gratitude for the cure this ointment made for me. I cannot tell half as much about it as it deserves. Anyone doubting this can write direct to me."

I Had A Dream The Other Night.

I had a dream the other night. A dream I can't forget. It seemed so real, so true to life. The memory haunts me yet. I thought an edict had gone forth That every man must wed. And I approached my awful fate, My whole soul filled with dread.

Arriving where the ladies were, I saw them, ranged in line. Each ready with her loving arms, A husband to entwine. The other men were all paired off, And blessed by persons deified. And there, when all but me were wed, Were thirty fair ones left!

Sweet, lovely creatures every one! Some slender and some stout, Some dark, some fair, some rich, some poor—

I looked at them with doubt. "And which shall be my bride?" I asked—

Some short there were, some tall— When some one said, in firm resolve: "Why, you must wed them all!"

Me! Wed them all! Jehosaphat! Was that my awful fate? Must I look out for thirty wives, And keep their hats on straight? I looked to see who fixed my doom. Just who it was that spoke, The thirty smiled at me—and then, Thank Heaven! I awoke!

400,000 Prairie Dogs Killed.

According to Dr. A. K. Fisher, of the Biological Survey of the Department of Agriculture, more than 400,000 prairie dogs, gophers, ground squirrels and mice have been killed in the Government's campaign of destruction. The forage these rodents feed on would be sufficient for about 15,000 sheep or about 1,600 to 1,800 head of cattle, worth at least $150,000.

THE GREATER QUESTION.

At this season of the year for Farmers with up-to-date ideas is, what are the best means to use to get the best returns from the land.

Fertilizers must be used liberally if large returns are looked for. There are several good chemical fertilizers which may be recommended, but Sulphate of Ammonia has been proved to give the best returns, and is the most valuable and economical source of Nitrogen for agricultural purposes.

For vegetables, grass, and all leafy crops, about one and a half cwt. per acre is the best quantity to use, and this should be applied when the plant is making its growth, as well as before sowing the seed.

If a liquid manure is preferred, a 14 oz. of Sulphate to one gallon of water should be used, and applied once a week for a month. This quantity should not be exceeded.

It is a good plan to reduce the Sulphate to a fine powder, and mix with four or more times its own bulk, for the purpose of diluting the manure, which is very powerful.

For potatoes the following mixture is strongly recommended:— 10 lbs. Superphosphate. 25 lbs. Fine bone meal. 10 lbs. Carbonate of Magnesia. 15 lbs. Sulphate of Potash. 21 lbs. SULPHATE OF AMMONIA.

1 cwt. Apply at the rate of 10 to 11 lbs. to 40 square yards.

The use of Carbonate of Magnesia, in conjunction with Sulphate of Ammonia, is of great importance in potato culture.

For turnips use the following:— 66 lbs. Superphosphate. 13 lbs. Fine bone meal. 13 lbs. Sulphate of Potash. 20 lbs. Sulphate of Ammonia.

1 cwt. Apply at the rate of 10 to 11 lbs. to 40 square yards.

The demand promised well in the beginning of the last week, but fell off towards the end. We hope, however, that this is only a temporary relapse and that sales will improve from now on. Stocks of Norwegian cure are light and but small supplies are expected.

Billiard Tournaments.

In the B. I. S. tournament, plains are now leading by 6 points, and 18 more games are to be played.

There is only one more match to be played in the T. A. Club's tournament, and it is the general opinion that spots will win out, as they now lead by over 100 points.

Relapse in Market.

The following has been received from Oporto:— The demand promised well in the beginning of the last week, but fell off towards the end. We hope, however, that this is only a temporary relapse and that sales will improve from now on. Stocks of Norwegian cure are light and but small supplies are expected.

The City's Health.

Two cases of diphtheria were reported to the health authorities during the week. There are at present in hospital eleven diphtheria patients and one suffering from scarlet fever, while two diphtheria patients are being nursed at home.

During the week one residence was disinfectant and released from quarantine.

Special Opportunity for Investors.

MARITIME TELEGRAPH & TELEPHONE COMMON.

We draw the attention of the investing public to the merits of this stock. The annual statement of the Company shows a large increase in business for the year ended December 31st, 1913,—an increase of 2379 subscribers, and the Directors state that it would appear from present indications that this growth will continue for some time to come. The stock pays an annual dividend of 6 per cent.

Public Utility Securities are always very popular. The statements of well managed companies show constant increases in receipts in prosperous times, and only a minimum of disturbance in periods of business reaction.

We are in a position to offer a block of Maritime Telegraph & Telephone Common at an attractive price, and would advise investors to write at once for full particulars.
