Polliteness.

I kicked an agent from my porch, but did it so politely, he handed me a ten-cent torch, and said I acted rightly. With bows and becks and a wretched smile all working well together, I handed him some forty styles of alligator leather, and he felt honored when he hit the walk and rolled upon it, and gathered up his peddling kit, and went away, doggone it. And thus a smile will take the sting from each unpleasant action; instead of rousing ire, by jing, you're giving satisfaction. It's easy, friend, to make a foe—you'll make a new one hourly if you insist on saying "No," abruptly, sternly, sourly. It's just as easy, when a guy comes round, your house to borrow, to greet him with a twinkling eye, and answer, "To my sorrow, old Dobbin has a festered ear, and also yaller janders, and he has symptoms, too, I fear, of chickenpox and glanders. 'Would please me to accommodate, and let you have my charger, if he were fit to pull his freight—just ask me something larger." And then he'll leave you feeling good, and say you are a dandy. "I know, he'd help me if he could," he'll tell his wife, Mirandy.

MINARD'S LINIMENT RELIEVES NEURALGIA.

Laxative For Old People—"Cascarets"

Salts, Calomel and Pills act on Liver and Bowels like pepper acts in Nostrils—Danger!

Get a 10-cent box now. Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. For age is never so active as youth. The muscles are less elastic. And the bowels are muscles.

So all old people need Cascarets. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at fifty.

Age is not a time for harsh physics. Youth may occasionally whip the bowels into activity. But a lash can't be used every day. What the bowels of the old need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be constantly used without harm. The only such tonic is Cascarets, and they cost only 10 cents per box at any drug store. They work while you sleep.

No Sign of Missing Woman

Search parties, including squads from the C. C. C., were out again last night looking for Mrs. E. J. Landy, who is missing since Sunday evening, but saw no sign of her. Early yesterday afternoon it was reported that the woman was found on the Torbay Road, where she entered a house and asked for something to eat. Mr. E. J. Brophy drove there hurriedly but found the story to be entirely without foundation. Another report was given in currency that the woman was picked up on the White Hills, but equally untrue. Police should exercise a little more consideration before attempting to intensify the trouble of the relatives of the missing woman.

Personal.

By the S. S. Mongolian, sailing on Saturday next, one of St. John's best known and most esteemed young ladies, Miss Hilda LaMessurier Long, leaves for her future home in the Old Country where she will be married to Thomas Row, Esq., one of England's master mariners. Miss Long carries with her the best wishes of numerous friends and kind remembrances in the many valuable and useful presents which she has received. Her late employers, Messrs. Gray and Goodland, with whom she worked for fourteen years, presented her with a well filled purse of gold as an appreciation of her services, and their regret at her resignation. The Telegram joins with many others in wishing Miss Long good-bye and many years of happiness in her new home.

Fads and Fashions.

Quaint little bead tassels appear on the basques of some of the new basque designs. Many of the fashions now in favor have been inspired by the costumes worn in Russia. A charming finish to a gown is a little hood lined with velvet and finished with a tassel.

The more simple tailored suits have coats a little shorter, not exceeding half-lengths. No collection of frocks is complete without one of the black-and-white combinations.

The fad of the hour in footwear is the fawn, tan, gray or brocade cloth topped boots. Beads are playing an important part in dress. They trim girdles, blouses and gowns.

Do not forget to add the collar and cuffs of black velvet, when planning your new suit. Dalmatians are seen again, usually on a color contrasting with the under-tone and edged with fur.

The new dance frocks are very short and their skirts are wider than they have been for some time. Upside-down ruffles are very effective on black satin afternoon gowns; they are used even on the skirts.

The spall of the evening frock is folded about the normal waist line and tied low over the back of the frock in a loose bow.

Britain's Army Only Her Advance Guard.

TROOPS STILL AVAILABLE MUST BE COUNTED IN MILLIONS. "WE HAVE HARDLY BEGUN"

London, Oct. 17.—The Times military critic, replying to the Frankfurter Zeitung's statement that Great Britain was unable to raise more than six hundred thousand troops, says: "We have at the present moment exactly double that number namely one million two hundred thousand men and the number grows almost faster than we can cope with it. This is only the beginning.

"It is our way to begin to raise our arms after war breaks out and to go on raising them until our ultimate end is reached.

"One million two hundred thousand men at home, the army in the field, and the thousands of thousands forming in India, Canada, Australia and elsewhere are merely the nucleus upon which our armies will eventually be built.

It is only a question of time. It stands to reason that an empire of four hundred million can never lack men. This war for us has hardly begun. We have sent merely an advance guard into France. In the spring the remainder of the advance guard will follow and somewhere toward the end of 1915 the main body will begin to come within view.

"We are sorry for the Allies that we are even slower than Russia in making our weight felt, but a year or so hence, when the Allies need a rest, we shall be in a position to make good war.

"Nothing can arrest the steadily ascending figures of our army. Their cost is of little account since Germany will ultimately have to pay—in territory as well as in money. "Imagine things at their worst. Imagine the last Cossack from the Urals and the last French doorkeeper evicted from Bordeaux. Then we would begin a maritime war against Germany and still be no worse off than when we carried on war against Napoleon at the height of his power."

Prisoner of War.

Sergeant Kent, of Placentia, came in by last night's train, bringing along a German named Frederick George Burhardt, who was taken to the Penitentiary as a prisoner of war. The German was a seaman on the schooner May Morris, which had landed fish at Burn and was about to sail for European markets, when he was arrested and put on board the cruiser Fiona, and brought to Placentia.

STEPHANO AT HALIFAX.—The Red Cross Liner Stephano reached Halifax yesterday from this port. The run was made in forty hours.

War Reveals Waste of Food

Apprehensive over food shortage, the London press is advising the English people to save and utilize every article of food value, including the bran coating of grain. Why? The outer coat of grain holds the precious mineral elements which means so much in vital building and up-keep of body, brain and nerves. And yet the modern miller throws out about four-fifths of these priceless food elements just to make the flour look white and pretty!

Isn't it astounding that it took war to wake people up to such a fearful waste! Nearly twenty years ago the crying need of a food which would fill the lack caused by demineralized white flour products led to the making of —a wonderfully nourishing and appetizing food containing all the nutriment of wheat and barley, including the vital mineral elements, just as nature designed them for our use. A daily ration of this crisp, wholesome, ready-to-eat food along with other food will soon prove

Grape-Nuts
