Germany's Downfall.

As Empires of old for crimes against God and man were brought down, so has the German Empire, which was given so many talents and failed to use them properly, been brought from its high estate, and instead of being the mighty and powerful nation to which the ambition of its ruler and people aspired, its greatness has vanished and its might has been taken away. Submissive and beaten by the countries it despised, Germany now is a suppliant at their feet. Its one time Emperor William Hohenzollern is a fugitive, but he cannot long expect to escape the just penalty of his numerous crimes. He will yet be haled before the tribunal of civilization to hear the sentence which shall be imposed upon him. Of him and such as him has Isaiah written—"How art thou fallen, O Lucifer! how art thou, which didst weaken the nations cut down to the ground; for thou saidst in thy heart, 'I will exalt my throne above the stars of God: I will sit also upon the mount of the congregation: I will ascend above the heights of the clouds: I will be like the most High.' The punishment for the self-exaltation of the late Kaiser has, in the first instance, been visited upon him. He is now an outcast and a wanderer and his country is no longer a monarchy. The navy at Kiel is in a state of revolt and the last reports from Germany state that the revolution movement is spreading throughout the country, the Government being in the hands of a Socialist-Bolshevik element. The Chancellor is a Socialist and outwardly at least, the assumption is that an early settlement of the peace conditions are desired. But it would, perhaps be unwise to assume at once that the present rulers may remain long in office. Germany is on the verge of going the same way as Russia. Having brought about the ruin of the Czar's kingdom, of Turkey, of Bulgaria, and of Austria-Hungary, it may be written that she will follow the same path, for the abdication of the Kaiser leaves the German Empire completely disorganized, which may cause complications more or less serious. There is now no head with which the Allies can properly treat technically speaking. The Reichstag never had any actual constitutional power. Created by the Kaiser it was his instrument alone, and with his fall, it follows him.

Notwithstanding this it is very evident that the Allied Governments will find some way to deal with the German people, and they have the power to deal or treat with them as they please and also the power to enforce their decrees, no matter what form they may take. Having beaten back the forces of autocracy, the Allies will discover some means to reach the forces of democracy, no matter what confusion at present reigns in Germany. They have repeatedly affirmed their intention to negotiate only with the German people, and out of the welter and confusion existing, they will find some way of carrying out their plans. Germany must have representatives acceptable to the Peace Commissioners. Their acceptability therefore rests on their appointment being confirmed by the people. The peace negotiations will, possibly, be delayed until such time as the voice of the German people is heard. Germany is in a state of chaos, and law and order are not. The German mob is notorious for its extreme lawlessness, and having been systematically trained in brutality for two generations, with a vicious hereditary record behind it, it is not likely to be an easy animal to tame when once aroused. Allies, however, holding the whip hand, the German mobocracy cannot hold out indefinitely, and must eventually accept the terms offered them, for neither they nor the alleged Government have any alternative but absolute submission.

Into the Breach.

Our esteemed contemporary the Advocate, wound a wet towel around its head last Thursday night and the result of its lucubration is found in yesterday's issue. The people know full well the numerical strength of Dr. Lloyd's following (?) in the House of Assembly, and they know also how much Newfoundland will benefit by being represented by Dr. Lloyd, whose "sixteen months" education in statesmanship has made him "fully acquainted with every phase of Imperial policy and its effect upon our local conditions." Also, to again quote our a.c. we have one "who is fitted by nature, and study to deal with the great problems that will come up, in an intelligent manner." The Advocate is really too rich in jest at the expense of the good doctor. "Fitted by nature," it is to laugh. Notwithstanding the "sixteen months" education, we are still of the opinion that the Premier by accident, is absolutely without the qualifications and ignorant of the first principles of statesmanship.

Whatever ridicule attaches to our Imperial Envoy, is blameable to the Advocate, whose boast of a sixteen months' education in statesmanship and diplomacy for a Privy Councillor, will be received with considerable amusement, not only in Newfoundland, but on the other side as well. The man "fitted by nature" for the job, will be apt to cut a poor figure, when the Advocate's praise gets abroad. And there you are.

Versailles.

The city in which the peace terms will be considered by the various representatives, is the capital of the department Seine-et-Oise and is but eleven miles by rail S.W. from Paris. It is a city more of pleasure than industry, is the See of a Bishop, contains a public library of 50,000 volumes, many palaces, public fountains, spacious squares and elm planted avenues, and has a population of 45,000. Its greatest sight is the famous palace of Louis XIV. said to have cost £40,000,000, which is surrounded by imposing, but stiff and artificial grounds. In 1793 the peace between England and the United States, following the separation of the colonies, was signed at Versailles, taking its name from the city. Down to the French Revolution, Versailles was a court residence, and it was here that Marie Antoinette faced the mob, thirsting for her blood in 1793. From September, 1870, till the conclusion of peace in 1871, after the Franco-Prussian war, Versailles was the German headquarters in France, and it was from the palace that William I. was proclaimed Emperor of Germany. The capitulation of Paris was signed here. After the peace, Versailles was the seat of Government till 1879, and was the headquarters of the French Army during the commune. There will be a poetic justice in the submission of Germany being made where, 47 years ago Bismarck humiliated France.

The Suez Canal.

There were great festivities in Egypt on November 16, 1869, when the celebrations connected with the opening of De Lesseps' great work, the Suez Canal, began with a benediction of the Canal by Sheikh Agadada of Cairo. The prodigal Ismail was then Khedive, and he seized the opportunity to make a display of that lawlessness which eventually caused his deposition and brought about English intervention in Egypt. The Empress Eugenie was there, representing Napoleon III.; all the great European Courts sent Royalities, and humbler visitors flocked from all parts of civilization. Ismail played host to all, and all along the Canal's extent anybody could have what hospitality he required for the asking. An opera house costing £90,000 was built at Cairo, and a palace equally expensive rose, like Aladdin's, at Ismailia. Estimates vary as to the total bill, the lowest being two millions, the highest twice that figure. Anyway, it all went on the fellah's back, destined soon to prove not broad enough for the burdens heaped thereon. But Ismail had still many years to run, and before he reached his tether's end England, which originally opposed the Suez scheme, was to become the predominant partner in it, for in 1875 Ismail's 175,602 shares were about to be placed on the market, when Disraeli's Government was acquainted with the fact by the well-known Journalist, Frederick Greenwood, and bought them privately for £2,575,552. Their direct value to-day is some ten times greater, and indirectly the purchase contributed much to our subsequent action in the land of the Pharaohs, which events of this war have since made a British Protectorate, severed in some as well as in fact from the suzerainty of the Ottoman Sultan.

(11) Doxology.
(12) Benediction.

Trains Delayed.

As a result of the heavy rain storm and a high tide, a big washout has occurred just west of Cape Ray, and as a result there will be no express until Monday. The Reid Nfld. Co. have set a big gang of men to work, and under Roadmaster Cobb repairs will be made as quickly as possible. Two westbound express trains are held up at Little River and two east-bound trains are held at Port aux Basques. No express, consequently, will leave here to-day.

Educational Co-Operation.

Now that the schools are opening on Monday and there is a greater need than ever for trained workers owing to keen competition in business, therefore it is all the more necessary that young people should take advantage of their opportunity to prepare themselves by day or by night for the coming commercial conflict. Heads of industrial enterprises and leading firms in the country could increase the enrolment of Night Schools five hundred per cent. if they would grant some fixed increase of salary for their employees according to regular attendance at these evening classes. One thing is certain, four years of experience in Night School work have shown that the co-operation of leaders in business and industrial lines of work is absolutely necessary to insure its success, and a well organized and well conducted Night School should produce this spirit of sympathy, spontaneously and effectively, as Commercial Night School work is necessary for increased efficiency now that Peace has been declared.

Prospero Sails.

The s.s. Girls! Draw A Moist Cloth Through Hair Double the Beauty.

Try this! Hair gets thick, glossy, wavy and beautiful, at once. Immediate!—Yes! Certain!—that's the joy of it. Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a Danderine hair cleanse. Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil, and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. A delightful surprise awaits those whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—grow, but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair, and lots of it, surely get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter for a few cents.

Use ZYLEX and forget your skin troubles. At McMurdo's, 50c.—nov16,11
