TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

SUBJECT NOT REACHED.

DUBLIN, Aug. 18. Dail Elreann spent three hours in ecret session this morning, without eaching the subject of Irish peace egotiations. Time was spent in the iscussion of reports of various minters, the first time this has been posble without fear of police interference.

Dail Efreann resumed its sessions at four o'clock this afternoon, but just before the session Arthur Griffith told newspapermen that there was no pos-sibility of the subject of negotiations being reached before Saturday at the earliest, as reports were still under consideration. There will be no ses-sion of Dail Eireann to-morrow as

QUEBEC, Aug. 18. the Canadian Government Merchant Marine, was sunk off the Stone Pillars, at Traverse, at 10.30 o'clock to-night steamer Maskinonge of the Dominion Coal Co. Service. The accident hap-pened about 45 miles below Quebec, at head of the Traverse, where a dense fog had settled over the river. The Canadian Recruit was so badly damaged that an attempt was made to beach her and this was eventually partly successful, for it was reported that she was sunk, but not entirely submerged. The crew of the Recruit were rescued by the Maskinonge, which suffered little damage, and will return to Quebec as soon as the fog

HIGH SEAS JURISDICTION.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18. Formal notice that it cannot recog nize the jurisdiction of United States over the high sea, beyond the three mile limit fixed by international law for many years, has been served by the British Government in connection with the seizure, twelve miles off Long Island coast, of the British schooner Marshall, reported to have been laden with liquor. It is expected, however, that the British authorities will await the outcome of court pro-ceedings and the final establishment of the vessel's registry, before any further diplomatic step is taken. It has been deemed necessary, however to give notice in advance that Great Britain cannot acquiesce in the ex-tension of American jurisdiction over the high seas beyond the usual limit.

war services of the Dominions and of India, and dealt with the consequence of the changed character of the Conference compared with conditions before the war. He said the Conference had fuly discussed the foreign policy of the Empire, including Silesian and Asia Minor issues, reparations and disarmament of Germany. The Premier emphasized how strengthened he and Earl Curson were at the Su-preme Council, and how impressed were the other members of the Council by the knowledge that they repre sented the views of the whole British Empire. Lloyd George said it had been decided in war time to have discussions on the constitutional aspects of the Empire, and he was bound to include that in the agenda but the concensus of opinion was tha it would be a mistake to lay down rules, because thereby, the indefinable things that make the British Empire would be limited, and its unity weakened. Two and a quarter millions of fighting overseas men were better than written rules. The gigantic events of the war had consolidated the Empire in so fast a fashion, that events of the war had consolidated the Empire in so fast a fashion, that a generation could not otherwise have land at Placentia. They came to the done. The thing, he said, that mat-

But experiments in airships will have to have gone long further before I will agree to go to Australia through a typhon in one, he said. The most effective way, continued the Premier, of securing the unity of the Empire was by means of conferences, hence he hoped the Prime Ministers would shortly be able to consult with their parliaments in this regard. It was the concensus of opinion at the conference that the Empire must have naval forces equal to the Parade Grounds to the Parade Grounds to the parade Grounds to the said.

Empire must have naval forces equal to any country in the world, and that it would be unfair to leave to the Motherland the whole burden of a naval defence, but the extent of the nature of contributions must be left nature of contributions must be left to the Dominions and India, because each naturally is anxious to guard its own independence. Some would like to contribute by means of naval stations, and some by having their own fleets, he stated. These questions must be decided by the Parliaments of the respective dominions. Observation is a quality that is easy to cultivate if you make up your mind to do so. Try to notice the birds and beasts, the men and things you see every day. Ask yourself at night what you have seen during the day. At first your answers will be very short, but soon you will find that you are beginning really to see things. It is not difficult, and it is well worth while.

Allied with observation is the power of imagination. The first enables us to see things as they are; by means of the second we see things as they might be. Imagination makes use not of the outward eye, but of the mind's eye. Until the middle of the last century screws were made with blunt ends. Calvin's Grave Revealed

Geneva, (Associated Press)-Leaders of the Protestant church throughout Europe are showing lively interest in the announcement that the burial place of John Calvin, the Swiss divine and reformer, has been revealed after having been unknown for 357 years. Calvin died in 1564, and was buried somewhere in the Plain-Palais cemetery here, but no stone has marked the spot. According to the legend, he was buried secretly from fear that his grave would be desecrated. Knowledge of the location of the grave is said to have been held by one family for more than three and a half centuries. The secret is said to have been handed down from father to son for all these generations. Disclosure at this time is accounted for by the statement that the last holder of the secret. Eugene de Speyr, has no descendant and, being 71 years old, decided to reveal the site of the grave to the Council of the Protestant Church in Geneva. and reformer, has been revealed after
