Mr. J. A. Wright has disposed of his black-smith shop here to Alex. Lindsay, who for-merly owned it in connection with Harry Campbell. A farmer from the north of Ekfrid drove into Glenese one day lately and when the tolling of the village bell called the weary sons of toil to partake of their mid-day meal, proceeded to lay an appetizing repast before his faithful equine. One of our village dad-dies happening along the 'farmer was then informed that there was a by-law on the cor-poration books which prohibited the feeding of stock on the public streets, and requested him to find a stable for the animal. This the n. e. f. refused to do, but instead hunted up " the man that puts pieces in the paper " and handed him fitty cents to keep the affair quiet. The Riddle was evidently new to Brigham.

Brigham. The entertainment and maple sugar festi-val held in the Town Hall, on Tuesday even-ing, under the anspices of the South Ekfrid Lidies' Brass Band, was successfully carried out, and reflects much credit on the band. The attendance was fair, and might have been much larger had the roads been anyways favorable. The programme was principally taken up by the debate, "R solved that the Earth is flat." The athrmative side was ar-gued by Messrs Murphy and McRoberts, cf Longwood, and the negative by Messrs Bous-neld and Smith, of the village. At the close, the chairman, Mr G J Fryer, decided to leave the dicision to the andience, with the result that the majority were in favor of the adirmative. Owing to the late hour at which the debate concluded, the balance of the pro-gramme was necessarily abridged. Several musical selections, songs and readings were rendered in good style, however, and the audience left the hall well pleased with the evening's entertainment.
