WESSLIN REVIEW
The grain deliveries have been good during the past week as compared with the same week last year, and prices ruled fairly steady. Wheat was the only kind in with what fluctuations occurred, keen compared with making things lively on one or two days.

Death of an Octogenarian.

A telegraphic message was received yesterday from Vancouver, B. C., announcing the death of Mr. John Kent, one of London's pioner settlers, who had been visiting in that city. The deceased came to Canada with his parents in 1823 and together with his father worked a 200-acre farm where London West now stands. After his marriage to Miss Sarah Shoff, the daughter of a London township settler, he purchased a farm about three miles east of the city, where he remained until 1858. Strauss on Friday.

On Friday evening the great Strauss and his orchestra will be at the Queen's avenue rink. Harper's Weekly say: "The opening of the Madison Square Garden was an event of interest, as introducing the Strauss orchestra to New York. That it is an admirably well-drilled body of musicians for its peculiar work, there is no doubt. The father of Mr. Strauss was the father of the modern waitz, and his band preserves all the traditions of the music to which 50 years ago the gayest circles of Edrope and America glided and swayed with delight. The waltz music has a singular charm. It is to be enjoyed not by comparison, but for itself, for its own suggestions and associations. Our recent musical taste in the city has been trained in a somewhat different school, and we are doubtless disposed to greet the Strauss measures as Berlin greeted Flotow's—'Ach Himmel! Tanzmusik!' But it is preciselylfor the enjoyment of such music that the Strauss orchestra should be heard. The sentiment and romance of the waitz are expressed most fully and sympathetically by De Quincey, whose glowing words can be now tested by listening to the orchestra of Eduard Strauss, the most famous waltz orchestra in the world." to nimsell. Blasphemy, intemperance, extravagance in dress, and lust—these were the sins of the period, which were calling down the wrath of God. Referring more especially to intemperance, he said that at the very moment when he was speaking there were taverns in the parish where fathers of families and young men were assembled reveiling in blasphemy and profane songs. The keepers of these taverns had had their license certificates signed last winter, and they would get the necessary signatures again next winter. Otherwise very respectable citizens, knowing well how such houses were kept, had not the places were properly kept. Where was the sense of responsibility in all this? The disorders referred to were public scandals, and the responsibility and consequences rested on the whole community.
