HUNTING FOR HIS WIFE.

Practical Joking by a Sandwich Man Results in Serious Consequences.Windsor, July 6.—Last "April fool's day" Fred Steers, of Sandwich, perpetrated a practical joke that he thought was too good to keep. He told a friend that he had married a girl named Robair to Frank Moore, and that the two were living together, believing they were legally married.
Steers found the joke was on him a few days later, when he was arrested and placed in jail. The couple were properly married by Rev. D. H. Hind, and Steers was released.Now Moore is hunting for his wife and claims she has been spirited away from home, but for what reason he cannot understand. Constable Wilson, of Sandwich, has been appointed to and requested to make a search for her. Wilson is under the impression that she is somewhere in town.

Worth Ten Dollars a Bottle.

Any person who has used Polson's Nerviline, the great pain cure, would not be without it if it costs ten dollars a bottle.
A good thing is worth its weight in gold, and Nerviline is the best remedy in the world for all kinds of pain. It cures neuralgia in five minutes; toothache in one minute; lame back at one application; headache in a few moments; and all pains just as rapidly. Why not try it to-day? Large bottles 25 cents, sold by all druggists and country dealers. Use Polson's nerve pain cure—Nerviline."Papa, what is a king?" "A king, my boy, is a person whose authority is practically unlimited, whose word is law, and whom everybody must obey." "Papa, is mamma a king?"

Scotchmen, Attention!

What About London?

Hotel-keeper Martin, of Guelph, was fined several months ago $20 for not having the blinds of his bar room removed during prohibited hours. He appealed from the conviction to the county judge, who Tuesday gave judgment quashing the conviction with costs, on the ground principally that the commissioners have no power to make such a rule. The inspector talks of appealing to the Court of Appeal. A similar regulation was enacted by the license commissioners of this city. Will it hold good?

Police Court.

Some of the saloon-keepers in this city are seemingly not aware of all the provisions of the new regulations. Mr. Joseph Deacon, of the Hodgkins' House, appeared in the Police Court yesterday and stated that he should have been notified that windows were to be left unobstructed during prohibited hours. Mr. McKillop explained that no such condition existed. All the light-giving apertures in any saloon had to remain unobscured, unless a special one was designated by the license commissioners. P. C. Howie, who laid the charge, and whose evidence was substantiated by P. C. Monahan, swore there was only one window in the bar in question.
The magistrate imposed a fine of $20. Etie Wilson was convicted of disorderly conduct and fined $2. The young men who furnished bail for her will not lose their money after all.

Grand Officers' Visit.

The regular meeting of London Council, No. 233, Royal Arcanum, held Wednesday, was an unusually interesting session and largely attended. After the business had been disposed of, Grand Regent Bro.
Joseph Hickson, who by the way is an old London boy, and well-known by most of the younger men in the city, gave an interesting address and spoke most accom-plishingly to the brothers. He was accompanied by the grand secretary, Bro. Lyman Lee, who spoke at length of the growth and prosperity of the Royal Arcanum.
He claimed that this order is the peer of any and superior to many. Bro. Lee showed the interest he takes in the work by his ready knowledge on all points of interest to workers in the order. Other members also made congratulatory addresses, all uniting in declaring Bro. Lee the right man in the right place. At the close of the meeting many of his old friends took occasion to have a pleasant social chat with Grand Regent Hickson.

Origin of the Word Picnic.

The word "picnic" is said to date from about the year 1802. Then, as now, when such an entertainment was being arranged for, it was customary that those who intended to be present should supply the eat-ables and drinkables. A list of what was considered necessary would be drawn up and passed around, each person picked out such articles of food or drink as he or she was willing to furnish. The name of the article was then ticked off the list. Hence this form of fete champetre became known as a "pick-and-nick," which by natural transition degenerated into picnic. But though the word is comparatively recent, the thing that it designates is at least two centuries older. There is extant an account of a celebration of this sort, which took place in the early part of the seventeenth century, upon the birthday of Charles, Prince of Wales, afterwards Charles I. of England. Mainwaring, in a letter to the Earl of Arundel, bearing date Nov. 22, 1618, says:"The prince his birthday has been solemnized here by the few marquises and lords which found themselves here; and (to supply the want of lords) knights and squires were admitted to a consultation, wherein it was resolved that such a number should meet at Gamages and bring every man his dish of meat. It was left to their own choice what to bring; some chose to be substantial, some curious, some extravagant. Sir George Young's invention bore away the bell; and that was four brazen pigs, piping hot, bitted and harnessed with ropes and carriages, all tied to a monstrous log-pudding."London's lovely ladies like lovely colored pills, so they now all take Duncombe's Dark Pills, No. 2.
