Tea-Table Talk

Word comes from Re-Here's gina that the Women's As-A New sociation of a certain Methodist Church there have hit upon a novel scheme for raising money. They are doing darning and mending for young businessmen and businesswomen boarding in the city.. A moderate charge is made, and the mending done at the weekly meetings of the association. The idea is a welcome change from church bazaars, socials and suppers as a means of raising funds, and the possibility of getting his or her hosiery mended neatly or a patch set when needed will doubtless be gladly seized upon by many a businessman and wo-

Perhaps some folks will say that there is nothing to hinder a girl doing her own mending, even if she is ousiness-girl. But again, perhaps if those sane "folks" sat all day at an office desk, stood all day behind a counter, fed a hungry machine all day admidst the whirring of many hungry machines, tick-tacked on a typewriter all day, or endeavored to drive "readin', writin' and 'rithmetic" into the heads of half a hundred young urchins and this day in and day out, perhaps then these sane folks wouldn't feel any more like sitting down to a basket of mending than the girls who really are engaged in these various

And besides commending itself as a means of raising funds for church uses, surely this would be an excellent method for the wife of the manout-of-work to add to the contents of the family purse. It should be worthy of a trial, at least!

In cold weather, when the body needs an extra supply of fuel-producing foods, the housekeeper's conscience may permit her to serve pies.

Prunes and raisins offer excellent filler materials for winter pies, especially when the pies are wanted to "top off" a dinner that has not contained a very generous meat course. Raisin fillings are compounded in
