

HONOR VETERANS OF CRIMEAN WAR

Successful Function at Dominion Hotel on Anniversary of Inkerman

SPEECH OF THE EVENING

Delivered By Capt. Clive Philipps-Wolley on Events of Campaign

(From Friday's Daily)

The banquet in commemoration of the decisive victory of the British arms at Inkerman at the Dominion Hotel last evening was a brilliant as well as thoroughly merited success. The hotel dining room was handsomely decorated with British flags, while the ordinary and somewhat prosaic features of such a festival were elegantly relieved by means of numerous and delightful bouquets of deep scarlet carnations placed upon a background of green smilax and flimsy red and white paper.

The chair was taken at 9 o'clock by Lieut. P. S. Stern, the president of the association, having upon his right hand his Worship Mayor Hall, Judge Langman, and on his left, the Canadian club: Capt. Crawford, of H.M.S. Shearwater, Capt. Clive Philipps-Wolley, U. S. Consul Smith and Col. Hall, and upon his left hand Col. J. G. Holmes, A. E. McPhillips, M.P.E., Col. E. G. Prior and Col. R. Wolfenden. The arrangement of the decorations reflected exceedingly great credit upon the host Mr. Jones, as well as upon all who had anything to do with these appropriate and sometimes, at least in the case of our host, a little business compels rapid work, rather difficult preparations. Two great British ensigns covered the wall and windows, and the British admiral's chair, while directly in front of him the Royal ensign, Union Jack, the Canadian flag and the Irish ensign were placed in a row.

The menu card bore the following inscription: "Crimean Anniversary Banquet, given by the British Campaigners' association, at the Dominion Hotel, November the 10th, 1908, in honor of the Crimean veterans of Victoria, B.C." The menu was as follows:

- Rations
- Balaklava Cocktail
- Escampout on Hair Shell
- Consomme Royal
- Celery Olives
- Cowlishan Cohoe, Tartare Sauce
- Sweatbread Patties, Crimea
- Lamb Chops Breaded, Native Mushrooms, Russian Peas
- Pineapple Sherbet
- Roast Spring Chicken, Sage Dressing, Fernie, Devonshire Ham
- Crab Salad, Mayonnaise
- Campaigners' Plum Pudding, Hard Sauce
- Cake
- Bully Beef and Hard Tack
- Coffee

It was a military gala festival in every way, as well as in the sense of the word. The veterans were present in uniform, and many of the veterans present, both recent as well as of the earlier campaigners, proudly wore upon their breasts three or four most honorable medals and clasps, which furnished distinct and ocular testimony to their undoubted exhibition of true old British gallantry and valor upon the strenuous field of arms. And as the newspaper phrase goes, the excellent orchestra of the Fifth Regiment from time to time discoursed sweet and appropriate music.

The Crimean veterans present were: Capt. Curtiss, R. N., (retired); P. C. Fernie, Black Watch; Brinkley Robinson, Major Wilson, Jas. Brown, H. M. S. Penelope; John Hughes, H. M. S. Shannon, Baltic Sea; and Geo. H. Smith, H. M. S. Devonshire, Eastropol. The dinner, which was a splendid representation of fine culinary skill, was so leisurely despatched that coffee and tea were served at 10.30 o'clock.

Speaker Introduced.
His Majesty's toast having been loyally honored, President Stern said: "Gentlemen, as the chairman upon this very auspicious occasion, it becomes my duty to say a few words in appreciation of your attendance upon this happy celebration of an important event in our military annals. (Applause.) We will also take advantage of this opportunity to outline the steps which have been taken to bring about the formation of this association, as well as to give some idea of its present position. (Hear, hear.) Within some eight months ago, some 20 or 30 of us came together and in due course formed this association, and since then it has made very fair progress, and its membership is now somewhere between 70 and 80. (Applause.) Its aims, gentlemen, are:—friendly, friendly, benevolent and social; although as regards the social feature, this is our first public appearance. (Applause.) While I am glad to add that as we have also been able to assist a few of our distressed comrades, we have already in some small measure at least, justified our existence. (Applause.)

"When I look around this room, however, tonight I cannot avoid noticing quite a large number of gentlemen who are not only qualified to become members of our association, and whose addition to our membership would afford us extreme satisfaction. (Applause.) I have, therefore, sent I will read the following cablegram, which was duly despatched this evening:

"To His Majesty King Edward, London, England.—Crimean veterans assembled to celebrate Inkerman anniversary send loyal greetings.—British Campaigners' Association, Victoria, B.C. (Cheers.)

"I will now call upon Mr. J. H. Griffiths for the veteran's song." (Applause.)

Mr. Griffiths responded to a very hearty cheer.

The chairman: "I have now much pleasure in calling upon the speaker of the evening, Capt. Clive Philipps-Wolley, of Pler Island, who is altogether too well known to the gentlemen present to require any introduction at my hands."

Capt. Philipps-Wolley was visibly affected by the extreme heartiness of his reception.

Captain Clive Philipps-Wolley, the honorary president of the association on rising to deliver the address of the evening had a very pleasant and most hearty reception.

"My chairman and gentlemen, I find myself to-night in a position of great honor and of some embarrassment. I have the very good luck to be chosen as your honorary president and as your spokesman on this your first public function, and yet many if not more of you are my betters in this respect, that you have had that baptism of fire which has been denied to me. It is, however, gentlemen, true that I have twice received Her Majesty's commission as consul-officer of the Crimean War, and I wear no uniform because I never had a chance of winning it in the firing line, and I do not take honor in the proper sense. (Hear, hear.)

"But I can say for your sakes who have chosen me for this purpose that I have done my duty as a Briton in learning something in the art of war; in teaching musketry to the men of my country in the Crimea, and in my commission when I was yet young and in volunteering ever since, whenever I have had the opportunity. (Hear, hear and applause.) I have even had the honor of doing some rather important work for the intelligence department of the British army, and I have been rewarded for which I was for several weeks detained as a prisoner upon the Caspian sea, while I was subsequently thanked by the British Government for my services. (Applause.)

"Now gentlemen, I of course maintain that the British were in the wrong, for they ploughed me for the army for my ignorance of arithmetic, although I can prove that such is not the case. (Hear, hear.) I have the greatest leaders. (Some laughter and applause.) At Balaclava, Scarlett thought that our only chance was to charge ten times his number, and uphill too, at that, putting 3,000 against 30,000, and the one after all did it. (Hear, hear.)

"Then on the same day Lucan and Cardigan seem to have agreed that 800 were equal to an army of several battalions of the Crimea. (Hear, hear.) I proved it by riding through them, whilst at Plassey a neighbor of ours in Charlestown decided to fight on the opinion of his staff that one Englishman was equal to 17 1/2 men of mixed nationality and an Elephant and the rest of his staff. (Hear, hear.) I proved it by riding through them, whilst at Plassey a neighbor of ours in Charlestown decided to fight on the opinion of his staff that one Englishman was equal to 17 1/2 men of mixed nationality and an Elephant and the rest of his staff. (Hear, hear.)

"Then again, gentlemen, they would not fight in South Africa because they were rude enough to say that my legs were no good. (Laughter.) I was here to do our duty, and I have done it. (Hear, hear.) I have done my duty, and I have done it. (Hear, hear.) I have done my duty, and I have done it. (Hear, hear.)

"If this first duty should be to any good its very first duty should be to press home Lord Roberts' most important lesson that it is absolutely the duty of every Briton to fight for his country, when his services are required at his country's need. (Cheers.) And now, gentlemen, what is that you want of me? I say that you are calling upon me as your forefathers called upon their hard to tell them of the stories of their gallant ancestors. (Hear, hear.) And I am to remind you of the soldier's battle inkerman, the battle which we commemorated on the 10th of November, have some qualifications for my task, because it so happens that I have stood upon the very ground where it was fought. (Hear, hear.) There fill your pipes and your glasses and give me your applause.

"I have seen your own prairie country from say the Cypress Hills district, where it is somewhat rolling and somewhat brown, besides being slightly wooded and producing a gloominess of your seas, and then you will have something which will not be altogether uninteresting to you. (Hear, hear.) For no man who has seen both stretches of country can help being struck by the general likeness of the two. (Hear, hear.) I have seen, as a carpet of flowers in early summer, a waving cornfield in autumn and in the winter when the wind has raised the dust, a prairie across it a veritable abomination of desolation. (Hear, hear.)

"Until November 6th, England had played the part of a conqueror, and she had been offered a bribe in Egypt to induce her to keep out of the war, and being unpurchaseable she had refused it. (Cheers.) And then she set to work with her home officials and her parliamentarians to handicap herself as much as possible. (Hear, hear.) I have seen, as a carpet of flowers in early summer, a waving cornfield in autumn and in the winter when the wind has raised the dust, a prairie across it a veritable abomination of desolation. (Hear, hear.)

thing at the right time and in the right way. (Hear, hear and applause.) And that up-hill charge of 3,000 against 30,000, when the Scotch ate their way through the foggy air, and spilled their lives for their country, and you cannot with any propriety call such a deed and such a determined climb as a charge. (Hear, hear.) I have done my duty, and I have done it. (Hear, hear.)

"Riot of charges, revel of blows, in a sparkle of swordplay splendid—The long, lithe sword in the hand became. As a leaping light, as a falling flame and never a thrust was wasted." (Cheers.)

"Upon the night of the 4th of November, the Russians had decided to attack us, and we were to fight. (Hear, hear.) I have done my duty, and I have done it. (Hear, hear.) I have done my duty, and I have done it. (Hear, hear.)

"I have done my duty, and I have done it. (Hear, hear.) I have done my duty, and I have done it. (Hear, hear.) I have done my duty, and I have done it. (Hear, hear.)

and because he had heard no other word of command, sang out 'Charge!' and went through his foes! (Cheers.) Oh how the wonderful half hundred of the foggy air, and spilled their lives for their country, and you cannot with any propriety call such a deed and such a determined climb as a charge. (Hear, hear.) I have done my duty, and I have done it. (Hear, hear.)

HEADACHES ARE DANGER SIGNALS

They Tell Us Plainly That Something Is Wrong Inside.

There are tablets and powders that will stop a headache promptly—but removing the danger signal does not take away the danger. In nearly every case a headache of whatever kind is a symptom of poisoned blood, due to Bowels, Kidneys and Skin failing to thoroughly remove indigestible food and waste, worn-out tissue from the body. Then digestion is poor, causing sick headache or uric acid is formed and deposited on the nerves, causing neuralgia.

Not only the danger signal, but the danger itself as well, is quickly removed by 'Fruit-a-tives.' 'Fruit-a-tives' are tablets made of the combined juices of oranges, apples, figs and prunes, containing all their medicinal properties, concentrated and intensified. They cause the liver to secrete more bile, which moves the bowels freely and regularly, and cures the most obstinate cases of Constipation. They stir up kidneys and skin and throw off all the urea, or dead tissue, which has been poisoning the system. They sweeten the stomach, improve digestion and tone up the whole body. The headaches disappear—because the source is removed. 50c Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

am quite sure we ever knew before. (Applause.) But gentlemen, there is one lesson which he has learned, and which we as Britons should all learn to do our duty. (Cheers.) In conclusion Mayor Hall trusted that the citizenship of Victoria would joyfully and generously subscribe to the Veterans' Benefit Fund of the Association. (Cheers.)

Mr. Fairly sang the 'Midshipmite,' and at the request of the chairman, Mr. Porter recited, amid the most lively applause, Tennyson's famous lines, 'The Charge of the Light Brigade.' Mr. McPhillips, in seconding the motion, in vivid terms expressed his extremely high appreciation of the address of the evening and referred to the conspicuous bravery which had been exhibited by Irishmen, not only in the defence of the British, 'the mightiest empire which the world has ever seen,' (cheers), but also in the case of Marshal Maomahon, in the French army, in foreign lands. (Cheers.)

The motion having been declared carried amid tumultuous plaudits, Mr. J. G. Brown most acceptably sang 'The Deathless Army.' Capt. Curtis, R.N., one of the Crimean veterans, spoke humorously of the omission of mention of the 'handy man' in the oration of Capt. Wilson, and another veteran of the Crimea, who fought with the 42nd Highlanders, responded to the toast of Col. Holmes. He recalled the cold gray November morning, 54 years ago. The number of Crimean veterans, he said, was gradually decreasing, but he was satisfied that they had handed over their work to successors who were fully able to carry out the sacred trust and uphold the honor of the Empire. The toast of Col. Holmes, in the Indian Africa, and elsewhere, and he had not the slightest doubt but that they would always uphold the honor of the Empire. Mr. Evans sang 'Soldiers of the King.'

Reminiscences were given by Mr. Miller, who fought with the Northumberland regiment, the 'Fighting Fifth,' at the Siege of Lucknow; Tom Harmon, who served on a warship in the Crimean war; and Mr. W. R. G. Blakemore, who was paymaster of Gordon's Green Turbans in China, and Mr. Curtis, who spoke of the naval work in the Sea of Azov. Corporal Cooney gave a splendid recitation, 'The Wreck of the Armory-Traitor.'

Judge Lampman responded to a toast to the Canadian club, a toast was drunk to Host Stephen Jones, who died recently, and the successful function was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem and 'Auld Lang Syne.'

The following gentlemen were present: Col. Holmes, D. O. C., Captain McPhillips, Lieut.-Col. R. Wolfenden, L. S. O. V. D., Lieut.-Col. E. G. Prior, P. C. Fernie, Major Wilson, H. M. S.
