The Canada Life vs. The Ontario.

220 Yonge-street, and 1011 King-street West, In our published articles we gave official figures showing up the matter of interest "advan-tage" claimed by THE CANADA, and full evidence of our repeated assertion, that whatever "surpassing advantages" THE CANADA claims or enjoys do not accrue to and are not enjoyed by its Policy-holders—its Stockholders being the fortunate recipients.

We now consider the arst source of profit, viz.: "Saving from estimates for death losses," claimed by THE CANADA as an "advantage" over THE ONTARIO, and philosophically treated by THE CANADA in its "EXPLANATIONS, published June 3rd, 1887, as follows: "As regards the first of these, with at least equal experience and care in the selection of risks, it cannot be doubted that THE CANADA LIFE is at least able to equal the profit of THE ONTARIO MUTUAL from favorable mortality."

We give the official figures below, showing the annual amounts at risk in each Company during the past 16 years, the amount and percentage of mortality for the corresponding years of each Company, and the practical result, which is explained below. The years and figures given are from the Government Reports and Company's circulars:

The above column headed Dis-advantages shows that even "the experience and care" exercised by THE CANADA in its "selection of risks" have not saved it from an immensely higher death-rate than that of THE ONTARIO, amounting in those sixteen years to no less a sum than $1.345,037, being over 45 per cent, of its total mortality in excess of THE ONTARIO. RIO'S ratio. This is a very sad reason why assurance in THE CANADA during these years has cost more than in THE ONTARIO.
