

years. St. James' has now a seating capacity of 1,100, which is double that of the original church. The appointments are complete throughout. A chancel screen, of beautiful workmanship, has also been erected and the open spaces on either side of the choir have been screened off. There is little to be desired in the way of improvement. The congregation may rejoice in the possession of as well-furnished a church as there is in the Diocese.

On October 25th, 1914, the Jubilee services were held. There were very large congregations present both morning and evening. The order of service was as follows:
