The Civic Campaign

Nomination day brought forth no urprises, but the proceedings were not without interest, and the general result was to clear the stronghere of several embarrassing points of importance to the ratepayers. Fo rexample, there was a clear and emphatic statement from the mayor on hydro matters, and incidentally the retiring executive took advantage of the occasion to rebuke the evening newspaper that has so persistently, in his opinion, misrepresented the situation. Then the gathering and it was a most representative one, gave a most flattering endorsation to the candidature of Controller Mc-Carthy for the mayoralty, while a couple of candidates for the board of control—Messrs. Thompson and Simpson—set clearly before the gathering their attitude on transportation matters. Controller O'Neill vigorously defended the administration during the year just closed and courageously upheld the work of the heads of several of the more important civic departments.

Perhaps the outstanding feature was the hearty welcome given Controller McCarthy. So deafening was the outburst upon his appearance on the platform that he could not be heard for some minutes. When he did get under way his remarks were punctuated thruout with applause. It was a revelation to his opponents and possibly a surprise to his friends.

In striking contrast was the relatively cool way in which the meeting received Controller Church. The latter protested that he wanted a clean friendly fight, said that he had no organization, was not in a position to spend large sums on his campaign, declared himself out for a closer regulation of board of education expenditures, and pledged himself to a policy of economy and efficiency at the hall. He had no apology to make for introducing the hydro matter in council, and expressed the opinion that the commission had imposed upon the small consumer.

He wanted the best thought of the city behind him, and was not the candidate of any party, clique or influence. He would not surrender his privilege of thinking and acting as he thought best in the interests of the city, and asked the public to vote seriously on New Year's Day.

Mayor Hocken rebuked the newspaper that has been so harshly criticizing the hydro policy, asking his hearers not to be swayed by the "intolerant, ignorant, bigoted and malicious" element that had misrepresented the situation. He showed the meeting that the small householder is already getting light below cost, and demonstrated the utter impossibility of lowering rates until the commission investigated and found out its real financial position. The Toronto real financial position. The Toronto hydro he claimed to be the best managed public ownership undertaking on the continent, and contended that a reduction before would have not only been disastrous but absolutely dishonest

He paid a high tribute to Chairman Ellis and declared that as long as they were subjected to such underhand attacks, just so long would the city be unable to get men of character and breadth to look after the civic interests in such matters.

Another interesting development was the telling reply by Joseph E. Thompson to the innuendoes that have been cast at him because of his relationship to R. J. Fleming. The re-

Layery G at the city hall, you would choose the same man as head of affairs."

The speaker proceeded to state emphatically that he believed the railway deal was dead and could not be resurrected. He personally was opposed in every way to railway pur-chase and warned the citizens that not purchase, but franchise extension is the real issue before the people. He knew of no greater danger before Toronto than the effort that would be made by railway interests to secure an extension of franchise.

"The street railway or its manage ment has no strings on me. I have nothing whatever to do with them.

I feel just as strongly as any other citizen on the question of transportation. I have to put up with the same annoyances as you on the back of the cars, and I resent the treatment I have received." He warned the citizens to be prepared for the inevitable fight later. In the very near future the company would be retaining eminent legal men to represent their interests and otherwise preparing for the struggle to get an extension of rights, and he insisted that the city should be ready to combat any such influence working against the civic interest.

Aldermanic duties have became part of Alf. Maguire's nature. He takes a particular delight in trying to meet the civic wants of his constituents and he is in deily contact with rate-payers in the south end of the ward. Alderman Maguire is a fair lighter and having once taken a stand on a question nothing but the most convincing arguments will avail to change his judgment. His views on city affairs are sufficiently wide to entitle his to be classed as a progressive
