The New Eleventh Edition of the ENCYCLOPÆDIA BRITANNICA

Is Being Published Simultaneously In These Seven Countries

The appearance within a period of a few weeks in all English-speaking countries of the completed 11th edition of the Britannica is a notable editorial and manufacturing triumph. The last wholly new edition (the 9th) was issued volume by volume over a period of fourteen years, from 1875 to 1889. Only the world-wide demand for this greatest of all works of reference justified the lavish expenditure necessary to publish simultaneously the 29 volumes of the new edition.

The New Encyclopædia Britannica

The new edition has been written on the same lines of comprehensiveness and unquestioned authority which have given the Encyclopædia Britannica a world-wide reputation since the issue of the First Edition in 1767-71. It constitutes an entirely new survey of universal knowledge to 1910. No completely new edition has appeared since the issue of the Ninth (1875-1889). The 11th edition consists of 28 volumes and index, comprising 40,000 articles, 7,000 text illustrations, 450 full-page plates, and 417 maps. The entire contents of the work were kept under editorial control before a single page was sent to the printer, so that all the volumes are practically of even date. The contributors number more than 1,500, including scholars, specialist authorities, and practical experts in all civilized countries; £230,000 ($1,150,000) was spent on the work (to contributors and editors, as well as for plates, maps, illustrations, typesetting and corrections, office expenses, etc.) before a copy was offered for sale.

The new work combines comprehensiveness with brevity; many thousands of short articles having been introduced for the first time. Among the new features are dictionary definitions (dealing with technical or scientific words), biographies of living celebrities in all countries, a complete history, under alphabetical headings, of classical antiquity, bibliographies of all important subjects, exhaustive accounts of all new countries, the first connected history of modern Europe, detailed and authoritative articles on industries and all practical subjects, and the latest results of archaeological research, of exploration, and scientific discovery. The new work contains more than twice as much information as the Ninth Edition, but in the India Paper format occupies about one-half the space.

Any reader who has not yet received particulars of the new Encyclopædia Britannica may obtain illustrated prospectus (40 pp.) 56 specimen pages (printed on India paper, to show the attractive character of the work in this popular form), and order form giving the present low rates and terms of purchase, by applying to the Canadian office of the The Cambridge University Press.

Particulars of this and other bookcases which have been specially designed to hold the volumes of the new Britannica, will be given on request.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

BY THE PRESS OF THE University of Cambridge.

THE LAST DAY on which you can post your order for the new Encyclopædia Britannica in order to take advantage of the low advance-of-publication prices is Wednesday, May 31st. Orders bearing a postmark of a date later than this can only be received at the higher prices, which will come into effect on Thursday, June 1st.

It is certain that hundreds of readers of this notice intend to purchase the new Britannica, but are waiting to send in their application until nearer the closing date, under the impression that a few weeks delay cannot greatly matter. It matters this much to them, that the delay of even one week means that thousands of other applications will have been registered ahead of theirs, with a consequent and inevitable delay in getting their sets; for all orders are filled strictly in the order of receipt, and the supply cannot at this period keep up with the demand.

Australia, India, South Africa, New Zealand, each have to get their share; there is the home demand to meet; and we in Canada are cabling to England every week the number of sets in the various styles which the week's orders call for, so that we may get them out with the least delay possible; but—and this must be emphasized—there is a limit to the speed with which the home office can fill our requisitions, which are rapidly growing to formidable figures; and five other countries have to be simultaneously supplied. Moreover, there is a limit to the speed with which Printers and Binders can turn out the work.

It is calculated that if the sheets of the two thousand tons of paper used for this edition were joined together they would stretch from North Pole to South with a few hundred miles to spare; that if the volumes were stacked one on top of the other they would make a pile 12 miles high, or twice the height of Mount Everest, with two miles to spare. Figures such as these drive home the immensity of the task of issuing at one time so vast a work, they are given here to show that the interval of time between the delivery of the first sets and the last must necessarily be considerable.

If you have made up your mind that the new Britannica is a book you need, whether for your business or your home or for the benefit of your children, we urge you to send in your application without any loss of time. By doing this you will secure for yourself early delivery and at the same time you will be helping us to make provision for an adequate number of copies to be received here in Canada within a reasonable time. Applications may be made on the form printed on this page.

Larger Usefulness of the New India Paper Format

The convenience of the new dress in which the new Encyclopædia Britannica is offered constitutes an advantage which cannot be fully appreciated unless it is considered in connection with the uses to which the book is intended and designed to be put.

Incomparably the greatest benefit resulting from the innovation of India paper is the more intimate character of the new format. The delightful handiness of the India paper volumes, their readableness, the fact that they can be picked up and held in one hand and (in either of the leather bindings) bent back as easily as a magazine, are a sure guarantee that when people come to discover for themselves how absorbing a story these volumes have to tell they will fill the void of many an otherwise empty and wasted hour.

It was Thackeray who said that the great sacrifices of life were comparatively easy, but that it took a hero to face its minor discomforts. On the same principle a book that is uncomfortable to read is only too likely to end up by not being read at all.
