Everything Has its Use. Everything Has its Use. The newly-made lord stood in his now-ly-made grounds, with a newly-made smile of proprietorship upon his face. He was monarch of all he surveyed. Eeyond the gilded gates that divided his estate from the road he espied a or uple of old country women. They were gazing thru the bars with admiration de-picted in every furrowed line of their features. "Some of my parishioners, by jove!" drawled the lordly one, turning to bis companion. "The admiration of the poor's very anusin". Wonder what they're say-in'."

As they drew within earshot they heard the elder woman exclaim: "Just what I was thinking myself, Jane --what a lovely spot that would make to dry the washing in!"

on Sunday conflicted with the Lord's Day acts. For the delegation opposing the use of the sides on Sunday, Rev. Wm. Rochester was the main speaker. He said that the delegation at hand re-presented the opinion of a large por-tion of the city. They had no inten-tion, he said, of discussing the leaf aspect of the matter, for in their opinion the question was one of public policy, and as such he believed that if the city permitted the use of the High Park slides on Sunday, they would be entering upon a campaign to scularize the Sabbath as well as in-titating a policy, which by its nature would be competitive to the church, the Sunday School and the home. Mr. Rochester was followed by Rev. A. L. Geggie, Rev. Dr Speer, Rev. Canon Bryan, Rev. Mr. Braithwalte, J. A. Paterson, K.C., and J. M. J. A. Paterson, K.C., and J. M. Mac-donald, all of whom strongly adwocated that toboganing on Sunday be pro-hibited. The other side of the question was presented by J. G. O'Donoghue, D'Arcy Hinds, J. Enoch Thompson, Edward Meek, K.C., Louis Gurofsky, J. N. Livingstone, Aubrey Bond and J. Doran. It was argued that Sunday was the only day many people had for amusement, and to seek to stop tobog-ganing on that day was an attack on the personal liberty cf the citizens. It was stated by Edward Meek that the city had no power to keep people from the slides, and the same mas aid that nine out of every ten people don't want them closed on Sunday.
