A Wise Selection

It is highly improbable that any physician could be found who would deny there is a good big legitimate field where in a good liniment proves a welcome and powerful ally. When need arises, it is only a question of wise selection on the part of the purchaser. Internally for coughs, colds, sore throats, spasms, chills, etc., and externally for sprains, strains, muscular rheumatism, various aches, pains, and almost any soreness, he is twice fortified against many of the common ailments that all flesh is heir to. For over 100 years Johnson's Anodyne Liniment has proved to be just such a double value liniment. This prescription of Dr. Abner Johnson, an erstwhile old family physician, has attained its enviable record on its wonderful healing. As a tribute to its remarkable soothing and penetrating qualities thousands of grateful users speak of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment as "an angel in disguise."

BODY OF PRIEST LAID IN GRAVE

At the grave the priests gathered around the coffin and prayers were recited. The body was then lowered into the grave.

The sermon preached by Rev. Stephen Connolly, C. S. R., at the mass, was both eloquent and impressive, and many of the congregation were in tears before he had concluded. He spoke as follows:

"Have pity on me, have pity on me; I am a sinner, my friends, for the hand of the Lord hath touched me." (Job 19:21)

We are assembled here this morning to assist at the sad obsequies of one who has been a zealous priest of God, a religious, a faithful son of St. Alphonsus. We are here to honor the memory and to pray for the soul of one who was ever a kind father, a staunch friend, a devoted pastor, a true and nobleman, Rev. Martin J. Maloney. We are gathered within the hallowed walls of this sacred edifice. His Lordship, the head of this diocese, the clergy from surrounding parishes and the faithful laity, the pious and the good, are gathered here to pay for the happy repose of his soul.

The story of a priest's life is very brief, or rather, that portion of it which is consecrated to the public ministry. Placed over men-to-be the mediator between heaven and earth, he is the sacrifice of the Unspotted Lamb for the sins of men, he stands on a lofty pedestal, his life is a constant offering, a blend of the operations of grace and nature, the virtues as well as the follies to which human nature is inclined.

But there are hidden depths in the soul of every good priest, which no eye save the All-seeing one of God hath ever penetrated, and there are heroic virtues which would shun the light of day, but are known to Him, who alone can fathom the secrets of the heart. Such is the nature of the life of the priest, whose mortal remains lie before us, in the quiet repose of death.

Permit me, for our mutual edification, to recall to your minds a few of the hidden beauties of his character. His life is an open book in which we see strange, blended the operations of grace and nature, the virtues as well as the follies to which human nature is inclined.

Rev. Father Maloney was born in the city of St. John, at 10:30 a.m. on the 25th of April, 1854. He completed his sixty-two years of sojourn on earth, had lived another year, his spirit would have shined brightly on the face of his people, his strong faith and ardent love for his flock, his pure and noble heart, his parents moved to St. George, then to Chatham, Me. Here the lessons carefully taught by his father, and his own piety, were guarded by a God-fearing father, began to bud and blossom, and to bring forth fruit. He felt himself inwardly drawn to the holy priesthood, and he entered the seminary at St. John, N. B., in 1874.

His Vocation One day-it was during a mission given to the nuns by our own good Father James, Father a college student, he heard an interior voice speak to him, in a language there was no mistaking. "My Son, if I please, give me thy heart. I want it for myself." There was no hesitating reply. He gave the Divine Bridegroom, kneeling at the foot of his heart. Like Samuel of old, he bravely said: "I have myself consecrated to Thee." The die was now cast, he sacrificed himself, and he was no longer looking back. Henceforth he belonged wholly to God. He quietly and steadily began to prepare himself for the one great aim, the object of his life, to procure at least some of the necessities of his flock, and to be a true priest, the pioneer teacher of the Indian Village school at Dana's Point, Me., a school which flourished under the spiritual tutelage of the devoted Sisters of Mercy. I might mention, by the way, that in recognition of his services he rendered the Indians, he was adopted into their tribe and given a title of honor, which was "Father Maloney remembered with pride and gratitude to his dying day."

Worked Here After His Death He had followed the trade of a bricklayer, and when the fatal fire of 1877 had swept away one-third of the city of St. John, he was one of the sturdy laborers who did his "bit" to rebuild it. He was twenty-three, a period of life when most young men engage in worldly pursuits, he entered the preparatory college of the Redeemptorist Fathers at Thebes, Md., and made his religious profession in August, 1884. Having successfully completed his theological studies, he was raised to the dignity of the holy priesthood on August 5, 1888, being ordained by His Eminence James Cardinal Gibbons. The goal of all his ambition was to be a long teaching and preaching to the Catholic priest-hood of the Holy Mechisdeus, being and his life was a long and noble one. He was a true priest, the pioneer teacher of the Indian Village school at Dana's Point, Me., a school which flourished under the spiritual tutelage of the devoted Sisters of Mercy. I might mention, by the way, that in recognition of his services he rendered the Indians, he was adopted into their tribe and given a title of honor, which was "Father Maloney remembered with pride and gratitude to his dying day."

There is not on earth, nor has there ever been, a dignity which can begin to compare with that of the Catholic priest-hood. The priest is another Christ. He must embody and reproduce in his own life, the teaching and virtues of his Master-he must be shining light to lead others and show them the rugged way to perfection-his life is an unceasing sacrifice for the flock confided to his care.

No better understood this than Father Maloney. He fashioned his life according to these high ideals and strove to live up to them. His great work was among the people, he was one of them and to them he gave everything that he was great and noble in his heart. He was not endowed with the gift of eloquence, but he amply made up for this by bringing the conditions of religion to the poor, the sick, the suffering and dying, whom no human eloquence could thrill or quicken into life. His love and devotion to the sick and poor were remarkable; whatever moments he could spare from his busy day were spent in waiting on the sick. His very presence brought warmth and sunshine, cheer and hope to the weary heart, and many a dull hour was made pleasant by his genial, sympathetic nature.

There was the one virtue which set him out bold and prominent in his priestly life-his charity and intense sympathy for the suffering.

The Monument at Grosse Isle With the exception of a few years when stationed at Brooklyn, N. Y., his whole priestly life was spent among the Canadian people, whom he loved so

Had Awful Attacks of Heart Trouble FOR 5 OR 6 YEARS

Diseases and disorders of the heart and nervous system have become frightfully prevalent of late years.

One can scarcely pick up a paper but he will find recorded instances of sudden deaths through heart failure, or of prominent men and women unable to prosecute their ordinary business or profession on account of a breaking down of the nervous system.

We do not desire to unnecessarily alarm anyone, but to sound a word of warning.

When the heart begins to beat irregularly, palpitates and throbs, has shooting pains through it, it is time to stop and think.

To all sufferers from heart and nerve troubles Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills can give prompt and permanent relief.

Mrs. Frank Arsenau, Newcastle, N. B., writes: "I had awful attacks of heart trouble for the past five or six years, and as I had tried many kinds of medicine without getting any better I decided to give Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills a trial, and to my surprise I found case from the second dose. I continued taking them until I had used six boxes, and now I feel as well as ever."

"At the present time my sister is suffering from nervousness, and finds great comfort by their use."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are sold in three boxes for $1.25, six boxes for $2.50, or by mail order on receipt of price from the second dose. I continued taking them until I had used six boxes, and now I feel as well as ever."

HOW GEORGE A. FITCHER DIED It was reported previously that Thomas Evans, of 197 British street, received word on Saturday that his brother-in-law, George A. Fitcher of Boston, had been killed. No particulars were given in the message.

The Boston Globe of Saturday says: "George A. Fitcher, sixty years old, great confidence, and a man of high standing, was killed while at work on Building 22 at the Charlottetown Navy Yard this morning."

"Fitcher was sailing a board with a circular saw, when in some manner part of the board was thrown up and struck him in the chest. He was taken to the Naval Dispensary but was dead before he arrived there. He was the shock of the accident rather than the injury itself caused death."

JUST LIKE A FIRE-DEPARTMENT The machine gun is the weapon of this great war. Of all arms in the allied forces, it will be the most effective in concluding peace on our behalf and preserving to us our national and imperial heritages. Machine-gun men are called men who are continually on call like a fire-department. They work hard while at it, but the steady state of mind. Every machine-gun man must be a fast worker, as there is no heavy work connected with it, but it is a hard job. OTHER NEUTRALS MAY FOLLOW UNITED STATES INTO WAR

A dispatch to J. M. Robinson & Sons quotes the London Statist as saying that "if the United States declares war on Germany it is quite possible that other nations now neutral may follow suit."

New York dispatch says: "Germans will not be interested here except for plots against the United States or rather offenses."

"Secretary Lansing intimates that Pres. Wilson will not ask congress to declare war but will ask West body to decide on state of war."

"Governments of Entente Powers oppose the idea of United States presenting to those countries $1,000,000,000."

Washington dispatch says President Wilson considering appointment of E. R. Stettinius of J. P. Morgan & Co. as secretary of manitons in event of war."

LOOKS FOR BIG FRESHET. A resident of Grand Lake, speaking to a Times reporter this morning, said that if the mild weather continued it would not be long before the ice in the St. John river would be honeycombed, break up and float on. He said that there is an exceptionally large quantity of snow in the woods and that when it commences to melt it will cause the water to rise and this will help break up the ice. He thinks the freshet this year will be a record breaker.

Had Chronic Indigestion Thought She Would Die After Years of Suffering Attributes Cure to Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills

Eating too much or using foods that do not agree is the usual cause of indigestion.

The trouble usually begins not in the stomach, but in the liver, since it devolves on this organ to filter the excess waste matter from the system.

Now, since Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are the greatest of liver regulators, it naturally follows that they are unexcelled as a cure for chronic indigestion.

With the liver, kidneys and bowels active, the poisonous waste matter is quickly removed from the system and there is nothing to interfere with the natural and healthful working of the organs of digestion. In this way only can lasting cure be effected.

Mrs. Rebecca Elliott, Magnetawan, Ont., writes: "I feel it my duty to write you in regard to Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I had gastritis of the stomach for three years, and could get nothing to stop it until I tried Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I would have an attack of this trouble with my stomach every three or four weeks, and was so bad at times that my friends thought I would surely die. Thanks to these pills, I have not had an attack for six months and believe that the cure is thorough. My husband has had very satisfactory experience with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. He was much run down, and very pale and weak. I persuaded him to use the Nerve Food, and after having taken five boxes he looks and feels real well."

It is such experiences as these that have made a place for Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 28 cents a box. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50. All dealers, or Ed. Manson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.
