LOBSTER BILL BEFORE CONGRESS

Proposed Legislation Regarding Canada Products of Interest to Maine

A bill regulating the sale of lobsters is pending before Congress, which, if passed, will materially affect the lobster industry of the Maine coast. Another bill is being framed by the Department of Commerce which would go a step further and affect the lobster industry of the entire country.

The first bill is to prohibit the bringing into this country of lobsters caught inside the three-mile limit of Canada, during the closed season on lobsters in Canada. It has been the practice of fishermen near the territorial waters of Canada to catch lobsters just outside the three mile limit and bring them to the United States for sale. Canada claims that this interferes with her lobster industry and the matter was thoroughly thrashed out at the conference between the Canadian and United States commissions recently held in Boston. Such a bill is now before the House committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries of which Congressman Wallace Windley of Lewiston is a member. The committee has held numerous hearings and has decided to refer the matter to the government of Maine, New Hampshire, Connecticut, Massachusetts and Rhode Island before taking further action regarding a report on the bill. The committee wants to ascertain the sentiment of the fishermen of those states.

Pending that the committee will defer action despite the fact that the joint fisheries conference and the Department of Commerce endorse such action. Secretary Redfield states that the Canadians are greatly irritated at seeing United States snappers come in and take lobsters at a time when Canadians themselves are prohibited by law from doing so.

The proposed bill would prohibit snappers from the United States from taking lobsters during that season from the territorial waters of Canada and the waters adjacent to such territorial waters. The closed season in Canada is about half the year, while in the United States the fisheries are conducted practically all the time. Most of the lobsters caught off Nova Scotia and the Brunswick coast are canned. These are caught principally in shoal water but the Fisheries Commission has informed the House Committee that lobsters are caught in water as deep as 250 fathoms, although the greater part of the United States lobsters are caught in less than 100 fathoms.

The second lobster bill referred to is not yet framed, but it would place restrictions in international transportation of lobsters, and such a bill is now being prepared by attorneys of the Department of Commerce.

TWILIGHT OF TITLEDOM.

(Grain Growers' Guide.) On the whole the most of the Canadian titles have been given to men who have succeeded in building up large fortunes either by fair means or foul, or to politicians. Titles have been looked upon in Canada as a sort of political blunder. The whole system in Canada has brought titles into disrepute among the rank and file of the citizens. No man is entitled to public honor simply because he is a politician. As a matter of fact these titles have no place in a democratic country, and the sooner they are abolished the better it will be for our relations with Great Britain. Canadian support to Great Britain does not need to be purchased by any such trumpery. We are no longer children seeking gaudy playthings.

WHERE THE TANKS ARE MADE

Birmingham, England, April 2—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—A little village in the Birmingham district has the distinction of being the birthplace of the tank, that terrible engine of war which has done such effective work in British offensives and which is to be found in every theatre of war where British troops are fighting.

A wagon manufacturing company with many factories scattered throughout England was entrusted with the construction of the first tank and they chose their factory in this Midland village to do the work, well out of sight of prying eyes. The factory, which before the war, was engaged in the manufacture of rail-vehicle equipment, is now greatly enlarged and still growing and is engaged in manufacturing tanks, which are turned out much as standardized automobiles in America. With the exception of the engines, every part needed in the construction of a tank is manufactured by this company, and thousands of workmen and women are engaged on the work.

Joy-riding in a British tank means hanging on for dear life in a deafening roar of machinery while the machine lurches up and down the grades, alternately tossing its passengers first one way and then the other. A trial trip is thus described:

"We accepted, with some trepidation, an invitation to make a journey in the machine. About half a dozen of us entered by the narrow door and were crammed up on the little platform which runs on each side of the machinery. We held on like grim death with our hands. For a few moments everything went well. Then there was an upward movement of the fore part of the tank and in a trice we found ourselves without a foot-hold and were suspended by our hands from the 'hold-fasts' which are fixed for the purpose to the roof of the car. We knew we were mounting the steep gradient and were not sorry when we reached the top.

"The vessel jerked violently as she started on her downward course. In the twinkling of an eye we were thrown into the same position as before
