One conclusion to be drawn is that the disease is much more prevalent among cattle than has been generally supposed, and another is that it may very readily be transmitted to human beings, through the mediums of the milk and the meat. Dr. Hickingbotham, provincial inspecfor of live stock, has entered upon a vigorous inspection, of cattle especially, this vicinity, the result being that he has already destroyed a number of dairy cattle about whose condition there can be no doubt. He has begun'at the pared with the balances in question. The west and will continue his work eastwards. Yesterday he made an inspection of three herds on Lulu and Sea islands and discovered the distemper to an alarming extent in each herd. In one a valuable Holstein, amongst the best in the province, one cow, a prime animal, , and a splendid milker, costing her owner a short time since $150, was when killed and a post mortem made, it was discovered that she had been afflicted with the fell malady, and that it must have been present in her system for some time. There is no cure that we are aware of for tuberculosis. It is as contagious as is smallpox, or any other malady that becomes epidemic, either in the human family or the brute creation. We are pleased to learn that many in the districts where the disease is known to exist are determined upon stamping it out, no matter what the cost or the consequences may be. Their desire now is to be able to boast of a clean bill of health for their herds-or whatever is left of them. The determination of the authorities
