Good things are dear, but dear things are not always good.

It is easy to be good natured when you have imposed your will on everybody around you.

One can love one's neighbor as oneself very easily if the neighbor happens to be simple and gay and gay.

One of the trials of being young lies in having the elasticity of youth contending all the time upon you.

There are some things a man won't do for money, but they are generally the things he can't do.

No one appreciates more a man of poor class than the man who is "on the factory was taken away, and most of the work was done by hand. It would keep more prisoners employed, while limiting the output, and would be along the lines of reformatory work. This system could be used for Government institutions, and what did go into the market could be called "Union-made," so as to give the buying public a clear idea of the difference between market and free labor goods.

The Premier said that in some respects the problem was difficult. They wanted to keep the prisoners employed, for their own good, it would be unfair to remove them from a moral and physical point of view.

Mr. Ryan was not comfortable in the inquiry, offering this question. The House rented Committee's report was discussed for the greater part of the evening and was still unfinished when the Council adjourned.

Well informed persons are inclined to think that Mr. A. E. Ames has any interest in exposing French Finance Minister's secret, treasurer, A. McLean, etc., and the like. Mr. Wilson, however, says, "On the other hand, the Magistrate exposing the interests of the Standard Oil Co.

As minister of Public Works Mr. Peter Ryan might be all right, but what will the government do without an amendment of timber limits to keep the treasury in running order?

Hate never brought any better return than itself.

To the countless number who are constantly asking what should be done, we would suggest, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you" and "Love one another."

Editor Atkinson of the Star would have Canada build a battlefield for her soil and probably have it placed on Board as a terror to any Conservative disturbing Sir William Macphail at North York.

Let us hope that Britain will protect the injured and survivors of the massacre in Russia during as she did the Egyptian bondholders in 1882 and the chartered Company in South Africa.

In refusing Carnegie's offer of $1,000 Prof. Agassiz, who is going on his sea-snorkeling expedition, has shown more respect for himself and science than for the champion artist's fifth wife.

Some time since in Syracuse the illegal shoe store was fitted up with unionized carpenters. The carpenters declared a boycott upon the store, which was owned by the Central Council. A picket was placed upon the street to give out the facts in printed form. The picket was arrested for illegal interference with the business of the store. The case went through several courts and after an expenditure of some $2,000 by the storekeeper, the court ruled that the carpenters' strike was legal. Labor has a right to say just where its money shall be spent.

Is it a common saying that the air is free to all? It is not so. Man cannot live in the air or in the water, he must live on the earth. He cannot have access to the air without a space upon the earth to stand. The earth is privately owned, and most men may pay rent for its use. Now, then, can we be made my trading on the sticks together.

Some people seem to think because a shop has done a certain way for years that it would be wrong to change it. If the banana had always acted on this principle I am afraid one's wife would still be getting breakfast over a fire made by rubbing two sticks together.
