

STENSLAND TRED TO TOWN RAISULI

Fugitive Chicago Bank President Turned Down by Noted Moroccan Bandit

Jerome Opens His Campaign for Governor of New York, But Only a Few Attend--Hearst Now Turns His Guns on Insurance Investigator Hughes--General Opinion is That the Apostle of Yellow Journalism Will Capture Democratic Nomination--Punch Pokes Fun at Roosevelt.

New York, Sept. 5.—It appears that Paul Stensland, the defaulting Chicago bank president, who was captured the other day in Morocco, was planning to become the dime novel sort of bandit as a change from the modern civilized sort. According to a despatch from Chicago, the careful preparations which Stensland had made for his departure and his investigation by the police of his movements were revealed yesterday by the accidental discovery of his communication, through the means of an Arabic interpreter, with the Moroccan bandit Raisuli, whose self-assumed title is "Emperor of Sahara."

Two letters, one sent in April to Mogadore, in South Morocco, probably to the agents of Lebaudy, and another to one Khalil Elhami, a notorious financial agent of trouble makers in the Orient at present acting for Raisuli at Ceuta, Morocco, were translated into Arabic for Stensland by a professional guide and interpreter, George Theodorin. This fact was learned yesterday through Frederick Leimer, local agent for the National Safe Company, who received his information through one of the hangers on at the Greek consulate. The letter to Raisuli's agent read as follows:

Writes Raisuli. "Dear Sir:—The arrangement for the purchase of rifles has been completed with the reliable person. Expect to see you personally at Gibraltar late in month of August (July). He delayed in seeing you in Ceuta about end of August."

The fact that he was also in communication with the agents of the Emperor of Sahara is also shown by the fact that when arrested he was preparing to leave Tangier for Mogadore, which is the nearest port to Lebaudy's domain touched by these visiting northwestern agents of Africa. It has been known for some time that the finances of the empire of Sahara have been running low and it may have been Stensland's idea to join hands with Lebaudy in the event of the desertion, in the event of his advances to Raisuli not proving profitable or attractive.

From the fact that he returned from Ceuta to Tangier it would seem that Stensland was not satisfied with the amount of cash brought by the fugitive and denied him refuge in the bandit camp.

Hughes Returns. The political developments today were the return of O. E. Hughes, the insurance investigator, from Europe and the formal opening of Jerome's active campaign at a gathering in Albany. Hughes is looked upon as the only man who can make the Republican running for governor this fall with a pretty good chance of winning.

O'Neil said that he had had assurance that Hughes would take the nomination. Hughes today declined to commit himself. He denied positively that he had given anybody any assurance that he was willing to be a candidate. It is generally believed that he would take the job if he were convinced that he had a pretty sure thing.

Hearst makes a characteristic attack on the insurance investigator, following up his policy of hitting Roosevelt as hard as he can. His newspaper says that the big grafters of Wall street want Hughes because he can be depended upon for their gross schemes as Jerome can be depended upon for their little dirty work. Hearst says that Hughes exposed the big insurance companies at the expense of Tom Ryan, who having bought the Erie, which by that time everybody knew was rotten, wanted the other big companies put in the same boat and Hughes, Hearst says, was careful not to tread on the toes of any really big men.

Jerome Opens Campaign. Jerome's demonstration at Albany today was somewhat of a frost, although it served

NICE POLITICAL ROOM IN BOSTON

Man Willing to Run With Moran Objects to Being Held Up

A SCATHING LETTER

Tells District Attorney a Friend of His Wanted to Know Size of His Contribution, John B. Declares He Will Make Him Prove His Story Before the Grand Jury.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 5.—Henry T. Schaefer of Boston, who has stated that he would accept a nomination for lieutenant governor with John B. Moran, is out in an address to the voters of the state, in which he alleges friends of the district attorney have approached him on the subject of a campaign contribution if he wished to be nominated.

John B. Moran.

A TARIFF WAR PROBABLE

What May Be the Result of a New United States Law

Canadian Beef Might Be Barred --The Packers and the U. S. Secretary of Agriculture in Conference on a Matter of Great Importance.

Washington, Aug. 31.—What is said to be a secret of world-wide importance is the effect of most insular and pure food laws, with a view of hitting upon some plan by which both laws can be got into operation by October 1, with all the tags and labels necessary. The public was excluded from the meeting.

One of the questions brought up was what would become of foreign stuff now in the hands of packers, and what would be the effect of the new law on the packers, the secretary of agriculture, Dr. Melvin, and some other government experts, who gathered to talk over the effect of most insular and pure food laws, with a view of hitting upon some plan by which both laws can be got into operation by October 1, with all the tags and labels necessary.

Another fact revealed today is that after October 1 the only preservatives which will be sold, salt, pepper, sugar and vinegar.

The packers are in fine feather, and will remain so until some way is found by which the new law can be put into operation.

It is pointed out that if Canadian beef cannot come in under the secretary's ruling, the alternative would be that Canada would permit American officials to inspect the meat before shipment and affix the American tags. It is said that Great Britain has had an inkling of the view of the law taken today by the secretary of agriculture, and that an agent of the maker of tags has gone to England to furnish the needed bits of tin.

MARCONI LOOKS OVER GLACE BAY STATION

New Machinery Being Installed to Add to Transmitting Power—Off to England With His Wife.

Halifax, N. S., Sept. 5.—Signor Marconi, who has been inspecting the wireless station at Glace Bay, left there this morning, accompanied by his wife, for Montreal, where he will take his departure via New York for England.

Speaking of the progress made at Cape Breton station, Signor Marconi stated that he was satisfied, but that new machinery was being installed which would add effectively to the transmitting power of the station. It was proposed also to extend the building and add a mechanical department for the manufacture of Marconi apparatus, all of which would entail the expenditure of about $40,000.

Marconi is now engaged in perfecting a process whereby the location of any ship can be determined in all kinds of weather. This will be tested during the coming winter, and he regards it as of prime importance in the navigation of the St. Lawrence.

CALAIS MAN HELD FOR THEFT AT WOODSTOCK

Woodstock, N. B., Sept. 4.—William Tracy, of Calais, was arrested on Sunday evening on a warrant charging him with the theft of $80 from Frank Lovely, of Florenceville. He was taken before John Farley, J. P., of Bristol, and sent up for trial at the next court. Most of the money was found on the prisoner, a 25 cent piece being the amount in cash which was found on him. Lovely is a well known resident of Calais. The prisoner has been brought to the jail here.

THE DRAIN OF KIDNEY STRAIN

Tells on every the strongest kidney kindness are maintained by the occasional use of Dr. Hunsinger's Kidney Pills. Dr. Hamilton, Mandrake and Bitternut Pills, 25c. at all dealers.

PROMOTER HAD A GOOD THING TO SAY

Managing Director of Monarch Life Insurance Co. on the Gridiron

STOCK SOLD SLOW

Had to Abandon Ontario Field and Work Manitoba—Big Commissions Paid—Provisional Directors Got $25,000 for Starting Company and Originator $50,000—Other Spicy Details Told Insurance Commission.

Toronto, Sept. 4.—The insurance commission resumed its investigation into the methods of insurance companies this morning at city hall. Judge MacLachlan presided and Commissioners J. W. Langmuir and B. L. Kent were also present. Geo. F. Shepley, K. C., and W. N. Ely conducted the inquiry for the Ontario government. I. E. Hellmuth, K. C., and K. V. Geary were in attendance for the Ontario government and Lebowitz, K. C., watched the proceedings for the Quebec government.

Mr. Tilley, who conducted the examination on behalf of the Ontario government, inquiry taking up the case of the Monarch Life Insurance Company, a new institution which only received a license to do business in July last. T. Marshall Ostrom, managing director, told Mr. Tilley how he promoted the company and was to get $40,000 in stock and $10,000 in cash for copyright policies he held while the provisional directors were to get $25,000 for starting the company. The prospectus compiled by Livingston Ostrom had no mention of $30,000 he was to receive for the Ontario stock. Ontario had been abandoned as this place was "flooded with coal mining shares" and insurance sold quickly and easier in Manitoba.

An Elastic Contract. T. W. Stevenson, before incorporation, agreed to sell all the capital stock for $4.90 a share remuneration. He did not sell any and Ostrom was given $3.50 share for all he sold and Stevenson got $1.40. Nothing out of stock sold for $2,000 a year as manager. He said he made nothing out of this as it all went in expenses. After incorporation his salary was put at $150 month and $5,000 per year. This lasted till March 21st, 1906, when he was given a five year contract at a rate of $5,000 a year and $1 for each $1,000 of new insurance obtained.

After he ceased to be manager, if such occurred, he is entitled to collect $1 on every $1,000 of insurance in force during his term of office. It is noted that the directors at the time of the meeting were at least 1,400 shares to himself. He admitted that the directors at the time of the meeting were at least 1,400 shares to himself. He admitted that the directors at the time of the meeting were at least 1,400 shares to himself.

"Then the directors did not know until this evidence came out that you had these certificates," said Mr. Tilley.

"All this knew if I did not get Gordon to sign them I could get some other director to do it."

"Were those certificates signed out in your name, when Gordon signed them," asked counsel.

"Yes," was the reply.

It transpired that all certificates which Gordon signed were afterwards cancelled by Gordon, except one for fifty shares which was transferred to Denham, of Winnipeg. When they had passed the meeting at which Gordon was elected a director at the Winnipeg meeting a short time since, Denham was to pay $1,750 for the stock but Ostrom said he had not yet received the money.

"Is it not a fact that Gordon stopped signing these certificates when he learned they were part of the 1,400 and then you got the money signed by the president and that Gordon's statement of the meeting was incorrect?"

"I will not swear it was incorrect. I say his statement was incorrect," said Mr. Tilley.

"Continuing, witness admitted that the meeting at Winnipeg was a hot one and in reply to Judge MacLachlan said he did not contradict Gordon because he was very much excited. It took three hours to get him to take the chair.

"Gordon had cooled off by the time he reached Toronto, had he not?" suggested Mr. Tilley.

"No, he had not," was the reply. The inquiry goes on tomorrow.

STOP FIGHTING IN LAST EMBRACE

LOVERS DROWN

Hundreds See Young Man and Affiliated Die in Prospect Park Lake

MARS DOUBLE WEDDING

Herman Ruden and Rose Folk Go Down to Death, Companions Barely Escape—Changing Seats in Pleasure Boat Causes It to Turn Turtle, Costing Two Lives.

New York, Sept. 3.—Locked in each others arms in death, the bodies of a young man and a young woman lay at the bottom of the Prospect Park lake for two hours last night. Within a month they were to have been married. Hundreds in carriages, automobiles and afoot had seen them go down to their death, while the brother of the man and another girl, upset while rowing with them, had escaped a like fate by the narrowest of margins.

Turning to each other as they realized their last moments of life had come, the two sank to the bottom. Their lives passed, but even when breath was gone from both their last embrace endured to bear testimony to their undying affection and almost to toll the heroic of others who were sweeping the waters for the bodies.

Among the crowds who thronged to the Prospect Park in the pleasant autumn weather yesterday were Miss Sara Levine, eighteen years old, of No. 319 Henderson street, Jersey City; Herman Ruden, nineteen, of No. 5 Lathrop street, New York, to whom she was engaged to be married; William Ruden, twenty years old, of No. 5 Lathrop street, and Miss Rose Folk, eighteen, of No. 30 Market street, New York, to whom William was engaged. William Ruden and Miss Folk were drowned.

In October there was to have been a double wedding of the two brides and the girls. They were spending Sunday together, and after watching the crowds at play in the park and on the lake they hired a rowboat about seven o'clock and roved the length of Prospect Park's little sheet of water. They were passing among the three little islands which are called the Three Sisters when the two girls, who had been sitting in the stern seat of the boat, found it uncomfortable there. Miss Folk decided to change her seat to the forward thwart of the boat, where she would be near her fiancé, William Ruden. The men were rowing. In attempting to make the change the boat was rocked violently and it mistook of the girl who was making her way forward completely obliterated it.

In an instant the rowboat had turned turtle and the four in it were in the water. Along the east drive of the Park were throngs of visitors of every kind, and all about were other boats, with hundreds sitting and walking by the shore. The little islands among which they were passing had many occupants, also.

None of the four could swim, and when the boat upset William Ruden and Miss Folk, coming to the surface near together but far from the boat, were hopeless. They were too far from the boat to grasp it and they thought only of each other. Floundering toward each other they clung together as both sank again. They never returned to the surface until their bodies were drawn up an hour later.

Miss Levine rising again after her first plunge came up close beside the overturned boat. Her husband, Ruden, came to the surface farthest of the four from the boat, but nearest to her. Charles Gunkle, who operates a life guard electric launch in the park, was near by, and threw a life preserver to Ruden, which the latter grasped, and was able to keep afloat until rescued. The launch then went to the overturned boat, and picked up Miss Levine, who was unconscious and about to sink to her death.

Dr. Ryerson, of the Kings county hospital, who had been summoned to the scene, while the police and park employees began to drag for the bodies of their companions.

Ending that her relief was but temporary, Dr. Hutchinson, shortly after midnight, had Mrs. Lyndell removed to the Newton Hospital, where she steadily grew weaker. Her husband arrived at 4:30 a. m. and found his wife barely alive, though she recognized him, and their greeting was heartrending. At 5 o'clock Mrs. Lyndell died, having been sitting beside her. Later the body was taken home.

Mr. Lyndell stated that his wife, who was 33 years of age, had had an invalid for a long time. Although they had no children, he said their life had always been happy. On Saturday, he said, he attended a lodge meeting and urged his wife to go with friends to Greenvale Beach. When she did not return at night, he imagined that she had gone home with the party.

Dr. Eaton said the world was richer than ever from the viewpoint of money, but in the race for wealth men had failed to build for the hereafter.

"Men today in the fight for wealth and recognition have turned their backs upon the old-time sanctuary of the soul, have shut their hearts to all but the call of gold," said the pastor. "They may have wealth of goods, position, recognition; they may be judged great world powers, but most of them are poor, miserably poor. I say. They are not living for the hereafter."

Dr. Eaton said the public today based everything upon a monetary value, but money was the last of all things needed in life. He would put first sanctity of the soul, love of the beautiful, knowledge, power and last of all money.

Additional Sentences for Convicts. Donchester, N. B., Sept. 5.—(Special)—In the circuit court two cases on the docket were disposed of. The King vs. Charles Clarke, a convict in the prison, was found guilty of escaping from the penitentiary and was sentenced to three months additional. In the case of the King vs. Charles McAmber, the convict, who was found guilty of escaping from prison, received one year additional time. The court is now engaged with the other cases on the docket.

WIFE ENDS ILLNESS BY POISON, IN BOAT

Mrs. Henry Lyndell of Malden Takes Paris Green on the River Near Norumbega.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 3.—Dependent on account of ill health, with no prospects of recovery, Susanna Lyndell, wife of Henry Lyndell, of 27 Stanton street, Malden, swallowed Paris green in a row boat on the Charles river at Auburndale late Saturday, and died in the Newton Hospital at 2 a. m. yesterday.

Mrs. Lyndell was at Norumbega Park Saturday afternoon for several hours. At about 5:30 she engaged a canvas covered row boat, asking for plenty of cushions, and started out alone. When the boat house closed for the night, Proprietor Young discovered that the boat had not returned, and detailed two employees, Joe Morehead and Richard C. Jacobs, to look for it. They put out at 11:30 and paddled an stream. When they had passed the recreation grounds at Greenvale they saw the missing boat near the opposite shore, in a small cove. They found Mrs. Lyndell lying among the cushions, apparently asleep. The boat was not moored, but was run on the shalving bank so that it could not drift.

Suspecting something was wrong, the police returned and notified the park police. Officers found the woman unconscious, with traces of Paris green about her. She was hurried to their headquarters and Dr. C. P. Hutchinson of Auburndale was called. After three hours' work with the stomach pump and restorative he restored Mrs. Lyndell to consciousness and she told her name and address. She said she was suffering from colic and that her condition had preyed upon her mind.

Ending that her relief was but temporary, Dr. Hutchinson, shortly after midnight, had Mrs. Lyndell removed to the Newton Hospital, where she steadily grew weaker. Her husband arrived at 4:30 a. m. and found his wife barely alive, though she recognized him, and their greeting was heartrending. At 5 o'clock Mrs. Lyndell died, having been sitting beside her. Later the body was taken home.

Mr. Lyndell stated that his wife, who was 33 years of age, had had an invalid for a long time. Although they had no children, he said their life had always been happy. On Saturday, he said, he attended a lodge meeting and urged his wife to go with friends to Greenvale Beach. When she did not return at night, he imagined that she had gone home with the party.

Dr. Eaton said the world was richer than ever from the viewpoint of money, but in the race for wealth men had failed to build for the hereafter.

"Men today in the fight for wealth and recognition have turned their backs upon the old-time sanctuary of the soul, have shut their hearts to all but the call of gold," said the pastor. "They may have wealth of goods, position, recognition; they may be judged great world powers, but most of them are poor, miserably poor. I say. They are not living for the hereafter."

Dr. Eaton said the public today based everything upon a monetary value, but money was the last of all things needed in life. He would put first sanctity of the soul, love of the beautiful, knowledge, power and last of all money.

PROMOTER HAD A GOOD THING TO SAY

Managing Director of Monarch Life Insurance Co. on the Gridiron

STOCK SOLD SLOW

Had to Abandon Ontario Field and Work Manitoba—Big Commissions Paid—Provisional Directors Got $25,000 for Starting Company and Originator $50,000—Other Spicy Details Told Insurance Commission.

Toronto, Sept. 4.—The insurance commission resumed its investigation into the methods of insurance companies this morning at city hall. Judge MacLachlan presided and Commissioners J. W. Langmuir and B. L. Kent were also present. Geo. F. Shepley, K. C., and W. N. Ely conducted the inquiry for the Ontario government. I. E. Hellmuth, K. C., and K. V. Geary were in attendance for the Ontario government and Lebowitz, K. C., watched the proceedings for the Quebec government.

Mr. Tilley, who conducted the examination on behalf of the Ontario government, inquiry taking up the case of the Monarch Life Insurance Company, a new institution which only received a license to do business in July last. T. Marshall Ostrom, managing director, told Mr. Tilley how he promoted the company and was to get $40,000 in stock and $10,000 in cash for copyright policies he held while the provisional directors were to get $25,000 for starting the company. The prospectus compiled by Livingston Ostrom had no mention of $30,000 he was to receive for the Ontario stock. Ontario had been abandoned as this place was "flooded with coal mining shares" and insurance sold quickly and easier in Manitoba.

An Elastic Contract. T. W. Stevenson, before incorporation, agreed to sell all the capital stock for $4.90 a share remuneration. He did not sell any and Ostrom was given $3.50 share for all he sold and Stevenson got $1.40. Nothing out of stock sold for $2,000 a year as manager. He said he made nothing out of this as it all went in expenses. After incorporation his salary was put at $150 month and $5,000 per year. This lasted till March 21st, 1906, when he was given a five year contract at a rate of $5,000 a year and $1 for each $1,000 of new insurance obtained.

After he ceased to be manager, if such occurred, he is entitled to collect $1 on every $1,000 of insurance in force during his term of office. It is noted that the directors at the time of the meeting were at least 1,400 shares to himself. He admitted that the directors at the time of the meeting were at least 1,400 shares to himself.

"Then the directors did not know until this evidence came out that you had these certificates," said Mr. Tilley.

"All this knew if I did not get Gordon to sign them I could get some other director to do it."

"Were those certificates signed out in your name, when Gordon signed them," asked counsel.

"Yes," was the reply.

It transpired that all certificates which Gordon signed were afterwards cancelled by Gordon, except one for fifty shares which was transferred to Denham, of Winnipeg. When they had passed the meeting at which Gordon was elected a director at the Winnipeg meeting a short time since, Denham was to pay $1,750 for the stock but Ostrom said he had not yet received the money.

"Is it not a fact that Gordon stopped signing these certificates when he learned they were part of the 1,400 and then you got the money signed by the president and that Gordon's statement of the meeting was incorrect?"

"I will not swear it was incorrect. I say his statement was incorrect," said Mr. Tilley.

"Continuing, witness admitted that the meeting at Winnipeg was a hot one and in reply to Judge MacLachlan said he did not contradict Gordon because he was very much excited. It took three hours to get him to take the chair.

"Gordon had cooled off by the time he reached Toronto, had he not?" suggested Mr. Tilley.

"No, he had not," was the reply. The inquiry goes on tomorrow.

STOP FIGHTING IN LAST EMBRACE

LOVERS DROWN

Hundreds See Young Man and Affiliated Die in Prospect Park Lake

MARS DOUBLE WEDDING

Herman Ruden and Rose Folk Go Down to Death, Companions Barely Escape—Changing Seats in Pleasure Boat Causes It to Turn Turtle, Costing Two Lives.

New York, Sept. 3.—Locked in each others arms in death, the bodies of a young man and a young woman lay at the bottom of the Prospect Park lake for two hours last night. Within a month they were to have been married. Hundreds in carriages, automobiles and afoot had seen them go down to their death, while the brother of the man and another girl, upset while rowing with them, had escaped a like fate by the narrowest of margins.

Turning to each other as they realized their last moments of life had come, the two sank to the bottom. Their lives passed, but even when breath was gone from both their last embrace endured to bear testimony to their undying affection and almost to toll the heroic of others who were sweeping the waters for the bodies.

Among the crowds who thronged to the Prospect Park in the pleasant autumn weather yesterday were Miss Sara Levine, eighteen years old, of No. 319 Henderson street, Jersey City; Herman Ruden, nineteen, of No. 5 Lathrop street, New York, to whom she was engaged to be married; William Ruden, twenty years old, of No. 5 Lathrop street, and Miss Rose Folk, eighteen, of No. 30 Market street, New York, to whom William was engaged. William Ruden and Miss Folk were drowned.

In October there was to have been a double wedding of the two brides and the girls. They were spending Sunday together, and after watching the crowds at play in the park and on the lake they hired a rowboat about seven o'clock and roved the length of Prospect Park's little sheet of water. They were passing among the three little islands which are called the Three Sisters when the two girls, who had been sitting in the stern seat of the boat, found it uncomfortable there. Miss Folk decided to change her seat to the forward thwart of the boat, where she would be near her fiancé, William Ruden. The men were rowing. In attempting to make the change the boat was rocked violently and it mistook of the girl who was making her way forward completely obliterated it.

In an instant the rowboat had turned turtle and the four in it were in the water. Along the east drive of the Park were throngs of visitors of every kind, and all about were other boats, with hundreds sitting and walking by the shore. The little islands among which they were passing had many occupants, also.

None of the four could swim, and when the boat upset William Ruden and Miss Folk, coming to the surface near together but far from the boat, were hopeless. They were too far from the boat to grasp it and they thought only of each other. Floundering toward each other they clung together as both sank again. They never returned to the surface until their bodies were drawn up an hour later.

Miss Levine rising again after her first plunge came up close beside the overturned boat. Her husband, Ruden, came to the surface farthest of the four from the boat, but nearest to her. Charles Gunkle, who operates a life guard electric launch in the park, was near by, and threw a life preserver to Ruden, which the latter grasped, and was able to keep afloat until rescued. The launch then went to the overturned boat, and picked up Miss Levine, who was unconscious and about to sink to her death.

Dr. Ryerson, of the Kings county hospital, who had been summoned to the scene, while the police and park employees began to drag for the bodies of their companions.

Ending that her relief was but temporary, Dr. Hutchinson, shortly after midnight, had Mrs. Lyndell removed to the Newton Hospital, where she steadily grew weaker. Her husband arrived at 4:30 a. m. and found his wife barely alive, though she recognized him, and their greeting was heartrending. At 5 o'clock Mrs. Lyndell died, having been sitting beside her. Later the body was taken home.

Mr. Lyndell stated that his wife, who was 33 years of age, had had an invalid for a long time. Although they had no children, he said their life had always been happy. On Saturday, he said, he attended a lodge meeting and urged his wife to go with friends to Greenvale Beach. When she did not return at night, he imagined that she had gone home with the party.

Dr. Eaton said the world was richer than ever from the viewpoint of money, but in the race for wealth men had failed to build for the hereafter.

"Men today in the fight for wealth and recognition have turned their backs upon the old-time sanctuary of the soul, have shut their hearts to all but the call of gold," said the pastor. "They may have wealth of goods, position, recognition; they may be judged great world powers, but most of them are poor, miserably poor. I say. They are not living for the hereafter."

Dr. Eaton said the public today based everything upon a monetary value, but money was the last of all things needed in life. He would put first sanctity of the soul, love of the beautiful, knowledge, power and last of all money.

Additional Sentences for Convicts. Donchester, N. B., Sept. 5.—(Special)—In the circuit court two cases on the docket were disposed of. The King vs. Charles Clarke, a convict in the prison, was found guilty of escaping from the penitentiary and was sentenced to three months additional. In the case of the King vs. Charles McAmber, the convict, who was found guilty of escaping from prison, received one year additional time. The court is now engaged with the other cases on the docket.

DOMINION DENTAL COUNCIL AGAINST FOREIGN DEGREES

Nova Scotia and New Brunswick Were Willing, But They Were in a Minority.

Montreal, Sept. 5.—The Canadian Dental Association began its session this morning shortly after the Dominion Dental Council had finished its business. Between 200 and 300 delegates, among whom are several eminent dentists of the world, are to be present during the sessions.

The chief matter of business before the Dominion Dental Council was the question of accepting foreign degrees. Herein the council has refused to accept those on the ground that they were of inferior standard and because Canadians are not given any standing in foreign countries. Nova Scotia and New Brunswick favored accepting foreign degrees of a standard equal to our own but the council negatived the proposition, they holding that reciprocity could not be obtained by yielding all our privileges for nothing.

DICKIE'S LABRADOR SAWMILLS BURNED

St. John's, Nfld., Sept. 4.—The lumber mill owned by the Dickie Company, at the headwaters of Hamilton Inlet, Labrador, where the Quebec government recently seized 48,000 logs belonging to the company on the ground that they had been cut on land that province, was destroyed by fire Aug. 11. The news was brought here by the Labrador mail boat, which arrived last night bringing 42 lumbermen who were working at the mills. The loss is estimated at $20,000.

Cancer of the Bowels

Stoltz & Sons, Bowmansville, O., will gladly send you the names of Canadians who have tried their medicine treatment for cancer in all parts of the body. Some of the cures are simply marvelous.

BODY OF UNKNOWN MAN FOUND ON DIGBY SHORE

Had Been in the Water a Long Time as Head and Other Parts Were Gone

Digby, N. S., Sept. 5.—The body of a man was found at Carly's Cove, Digby Neck, on the Bay of Fundy shore by Preston O'Neill, of Mink Cove, this afternoon. Coroner Wm. Burne, of Sandy Cove, was immediately notified and an inquest was held, but the body was not identified. It was forwarded to Sandy Cove tonight for interment.

The body had been in the water for some time and was badly decomposed. The head was off, also one arm and one leg as far as the knee. He had on two shirts and a pair of pants and wore a buttoned coat. It was supposed to be the body of a sailor or fisherman who has probably fallen overboard from some vessel in the bay.

It was thought at first to be Avard Outhouse, of Tyverton, who was recently drowned off Long Island, but his relatives viewed the body tonight and say it is a stranger to them.

REV. MICHAEL F. WALSH, OF BANGOR, DEAD

Bangor, Me., Sept. 4.—Rev. Michael F. Walsh, rector of St. Mary's Catholic church, died at a late hour tonight in the Russell Hospital, Bangor, where he went on August 29 for a surgical operation. Father Walsh was born in Manchester (N. H.) 53 years ago, was educated at Holy Cross College, Worcester (Mass.), and at St. Sulpice, Paris, was ordained in Paris 22 years ago, and was first assigned as a pastor at St. Dominics church, Portland.

Subsequently he was stationed at St. John's church in Bangor, in South Berwick and in Calais, coming from Calais to Bangor in 1902 to succeed Very Rev. M. C. O'Brien, who died in 1901. He is survived by two sisters, Elizabeth, who lived at the rectory here, and Mother Rose, superior of the convent in Dover (N. H.)