JOHNNY'S STORY.

OHNNY was detained after school one day and told write a story of fifty words as a punishment, and, being anxious to join his comrades, this is what he wrote:

"A little girl going home from school one day, say a little cat. Wishing to caress it, she called: Here, puss, puss,—50."

A FOUR-LEGGED GENIUS.

A FOUR-LEGGED GENIUS.
A lovely collie dog I once knew was in the habit of frequently jumping over a high, closely-barred gate. One day he appeared with a long bone in his mouth. He made several attempts to leap over the gate, but failed every time. He stopped for a moment, and was evidently debating another plan. He placed the bone beside the gate, jumped easily over it, and then put his paw under the gate and pulled the bone through. He then wagged his tail complacently over the result of his experiment.

Johnny, doesn't your conscience tell you that you are doing wrong?"
"Yes, Mother, but Father said I wasn't to believe everything I heard."—Punch.

A WONDERFUL HOUSE.

Folks dwell in the strangest places, So all the geographies say.
Some live in trees, some in wigwams,
And some live in huts made of clay.
But to me the strangest dwelling,
The most wonderful house of all, The most wonderful house of all, Is that big green book on the table, Upstairs in our nursery hall. That book is the home of peasants, Of kings clad in purple and gold, Of fairies sweet-voiced and lovely, Of witches, bent, haggard and old. Yes, to me the strangest dwelling, The most wonderful house of all, Is that big green book on the table Upstairs in our nursery hall.

POLLY PIGEON-TOES' SHOES.

-Christine Gleason.

Oh, dear! Whatever shall I do! It seems a perfect sin,
The moment I forget my feet
My toes straightway turn in.

But when we're playing 's worst of all, Somebody always goes
And shouts out loud and spoils my fun,
"Oh, Polly Pigeon-toes!"

This morning as I lay in bed
I heard the pigeons coo,
And this I'm sure is what they said,
"We walk like you—like you!"

Then quickly out of bed I slid
To flee their mocking din,
And, staring straight at me, there stood
My shoes with toes turned in.
—Ina Boles Morton.

A Business That Assures A Fortune

Patent Applied For.

There is no business more profitable, pleasant and certainly successful than the manufacture of

CONCRETE BUILDING BLOCKS

made on our new face down machine which enables the operator to put a colored or a stronger mixture in the mould first, on the face, to keep out dampness.

The remainder of the block can be made of coarser material.

We also have other style block machines and one is a combination making both triple-wall and two-wall blocks, and also a brick machine.
