CHRISTIANS BURNED WITH IRONS BY CHINESE TO FORCE THEM TO CONFESS

Peking, China, August 1.—Dr. Luther Anderson, of Chicago, Ill., missionary, who returned today from the trial in Seoul of 125 alleged conspirators, charged with plotting to kill General Teranishi, Japanese Governor-General of Korea, told of the methods employed by the authorities in dealing with prisoners, nearly all of whom are Christians.

"All the accused men, when given the opportunity, said that their so-called confessions were wrung from them by the most cruel tortures," he said. "They were hung by the thumbs, stretched on the rack, and burned with irons in the secret preliminary police trial. One student testified in open court, 'I saw a man slowly killed before my eyes.' Another said, 'I saw a man die of starvation.'"

"My informants, who understand both Korean and Japanese, say the court interpreters distort the evidence, translating incorrectly and omitting evidence objectionable to the prosecution. Whenever the accused say 'torture,' the interpreter translates it as 'persecution.' When the attorney for the defence protested against the incorrect translation, the judge said: 'It doesn't matter.'"

"Some days before the trial six of the students were deported to Quelpart Island. In explaining the move, the official Gazette said these men were found innocent, but were deported for public safety. Although American missionaries have not been arrested, the formal indictment against the students charges leading missionaries with being accomplices in teaching students assassination in the distribution of revolvers, and in forming the conspirators telegraphically of the Governor-General's movements. "The police who searched the missionaries' houses found no evidence of guilt. The trial brought out perfect alibis for Baron Yum, the alleged leader of the conspirators, for all the accusations on which he was charged with meeting the plotters.

"My informants, who were all eye-witnesses of the proceedings, say that the trial is most unfair. The judge acts as prosecuting attorney and assuming the guilt of the defendants, orders them to answer only 'Yes' or 'No' to questions containing the gravest charges. He excludes evidence prejudicial to the prosecution and refuses to allow missionaries to testify."

SHARPE AND TAYLOR THE PROBABLE WHIPS

Ottawa, July 31.—W. H. Sharpe, M.P. for Lisgar, will likely be appointed Conservative whip for Manitoba, to succeed W. E. Staples, who resigned to become a member of the grain commission, and J. D. Taylor, M.P. for New Westminster, will probably be made British Columbia whip, to succeed A. S. Goodeve, now a member of the railroad commission.

JANE ADAMS, HEAD OF HULL HOUSE, SPEAKS IN DEFENSE OF THE BACHELOR MAID

Chicago, Aug. 1.—Chicago "Bachelor Maids" engaged in humanitarian and philanthropic work today voiced their agreement with the sentiment credited to Helen Gould, to the effect that if she had found a "suitable helpmeet" she might not be doing as much good as now.

"I quite agree with Miss Gould," said Miss Jane Adams, head of Hull House, and herself possessed of more than enough means to live in luxury and be oblivious to the miseries of the poor and the afflicted, if she wished. "Her letter is admirable."

Miss Adams was asked to comment on this expression from Miss Gould's letter: "I feel that such people as myself are not hindering the progress of civilization, but are advancing it."

"There are few persons who are doing more to civilization than Miss Gould," Miss Adams answered. "Her sentiment was aptly put."

World Owe Much to the Old Maids. This sentence from Miss Gould's letter was then read to Miss Adams: "If I had found a suitable helpmeet I might have spent my money in a different way and a way which might not have done as much good as now."

"She meant, no doubt," said Miss Adams, "that if she had been married she would have spent her money on her family, and that the hundreds who have benefited by her kindly aid would not have seen the sunshine that has come into their lives through her."

"The world owes much to so-called old maids. As opposed to marriage, but many women would not have accomplished what they have if they had been married."

Here About the Bachelor Girls? The following twelve women accomplished great works as old maids:

Queen Elizabeth, in whose reign England reached her golden age.

Florence Nightingale, angel of mercy in the Crimean War and establisher of nursing in war times.

Dorothea Dix, pioneer of reform in prison and reformatory methods.

Frances E. Willard, founder of the temperance movement.

Rosa Bonheur, who opened new artistic fields in the representation of animal life.

Joan of Arc, one of the important factors in French history.

Susan B. Anthony, pioneer in efforts to procure more equal rights for women.

Charlotte Bronte, whose novels are among the best in English literature.

Jane Austen, whose pen pictures of English village life promise to be immortal.

Jane Addams, first citizen of Chicago and head of Hull House.

Julia Lathrop, chosen from among the women of America to lead in preserving child life and happiness throughout the country.

GAMBLING TRIO WHO EXPECTED RICH HAUL ON OLYMPIC ARE SPOTTED AND GAME SPOILED

New York, August 1.—Three gamblers of international reputation, who sailed on the White Star liner Olympic yesterday will doubtless find that a great drought has struck their business when they try to stake a game on the smoking room tonight, and they will be out the price of their tickets with accessories, when they reach the other side. They were spotted in the first cabin just before the ship left the pier, after sizing up the assembled passengers and deciding that the pickings looked promising indeed. At least, that is what Detective Edward Mallon of the central office decided, after watching the trio for a time on their tour of inspection.

The detective knew their faces and immaculate attire of old, but he did not have any warrant for them or the power of preventing their trip. So he did the next best thing. He informed the purser and head steward of the gamblers' presence in the first cabin with a technical description of the uncertainties for other people that playing cards develop when their tun comes to deal.

Stewards Post Warnings. The ship's officers immediately went about posting the games and description of the trio in the saloon and smoking room and assured the detective that the profits of the three would be nil.

Mallon said there was small question in his mind that the gamblers expected a very lucrative voyage. Among the passengers were a number of ranchmen from South America going abroad to see the sights, besides many vacation-seeking men of wealth from various cities in this country.

There were about three hundred in the first cabin, an unusually large sailing list for this time of the year. Charles Steele, one of J. P. Morgan & Co.'s partners, with his family, started for several weeks' travel on the Continent. Mr. Morgan himself gave them an excellent spirit and much laughter arose during his goodbyes. Mr. Steele had nothing to say about business conditions or politics, and stated that the thought of a good rest filled his mind to the exclusion of everything else.

Pinkerton Goes Aboard. William Pinkerton of the detective agency said that he believed firmly that the Roosevelt murder case would be solved to the credit of the police and that the murderers would be rounded up in the end. David Jones, a banker from Melbourne, told the ship news reporter that his purpose in going to England was to induce a greater flow of immigration to the island continent.

None but white people are wanted in Australia, asserted the banker, and stringent measures will be taken to prevent the admission of members of the yellow race.

Kermitt Roosevelt was on the passenger list, but kept well out of sight before the Olympic sailed. Other prominent men aboard were P. Lorillard, O'Donnell, Iselin and Percy Chubb, of the insurance firm of Chubb & Son.

DOMINION REVENUES FOR FISCAL YEAR WILL BE OVER $100,000,000

Customs Receipts for the Past Month Break All Previous Records

Ottawa, July 31.—The revenues of the customs to expend data a record rate. The customs receipts for July totaled $5,715,268. Not only is this a record for one month, but the increase over the corresponding month last year, namely $5,801,028, is a record so far this fiscal year.

VICTORIA SHIPBUILDERS PREPARE FOR CANAL

Plan Special Type of Steamers for Trade Via Panama to North Pacific

Vancouver, B. C., Aug. 1.—Experiments are being made by shipbuilders in designing special steamships for trade to the North Pacific coast via the Panama Canal. The completion of the waterway is not only bestirring British and American shipbuilders, but also arousing large continental shipping interests, to devote themselves in a painstaking and thoroughgoing manner to the subject. It is recognized that the canal will produce a revolutionizing effect upon the sea-borne trade to and from the ports of the west coast of America, and it is perceived that the depth of the waterway and dimensions of the locks are matters requiring the gravest consideration in the design of vessels intended to cope with this new phase of shipping.

Many New Lines. Announcement has been made by many important shipping concerns, the R. M. S. Co., Hamburg-American, North German Lloyd, White Star, Blue Funnel, Camargo Transatlantique, P&O and other steamship companies that they will establish lines through the Panama canal to this coast, and it is expected that a great development of trade will follow the opening. To cope with this harbor works are to be constructed, and it is anticipated that announcement will be made in a few days of the ward of a contract for the construction of a breakwater from Odden point, the first part of the harbor work.

Special Canal Type. The tendency of the day is towards the constant increase in carrying capacity, and therefore in size. But in this respect the Panama canal will demand certain limitations. Some of the most influential German owners have realized this, and at the present time extensive and important experiments are being conducted with models in the experimental tanks there, with a view to designing vessels that may embody the fullest possible limit of carrying capacity, while being suitable in length, beam and draft for passage through the canal and the locks. These experiments may possibly result in some marked variations in the standard designs of today, and it is quite possible that within the very near future British shipbuilders will be invited to tender on the specifications that will result from the experiments now being conducted.

Victoria's Advantage. The completion of the Panama canal will mean that a great deal of grain will be shipped from British Columbia coast ports. Ocean rates from Victoria or Vancouver to Liverpool via the Panama canal should not exceed 20s per long ton, or 15 cents a bushel, of a total charge of 22 cents a bushel. This compares with 25 to 26 cents per bushel, the present rate of grain from Storage charges during winter on wheat amount to five cents per bushel, or more when kept waiting for shipment. If shipped through British Columbia ports these charges would disappear, as the port is open all the year round. Ocean charges from Victoria and Vancouver to Liverpool via the Suez canal or around Cape Horn, a distance of 15,000 miles, for the last three years have been from 25c to 30c per long ton. By the shorter route via Panama the distance would be brought down to less than 8,000 miles, and the added tonnage regularly making Victoria a port of call, in addition to the tramp tonnage available, should bring down the water rate to the figure already mentioned.

Happy to Know You

Nick Longworth was saying the other day that the country is getting too much overrun with people who take themselves seriously. And speaking of folk who take themselves seriously Nick related this one:

There was a well known character in Cincinnati named Dan Kelly, who worked as conductor on a street car. Among the people who rode on that line occasionally was a fashionable woman, the wife of a distinguished citizen. She thought her name was one to conjure with, to say nothing of making men men bow-tow at the very mention of it.

One day this woman became greatly peeved because the car was not stopped at the side of the street where she desired to get off. She asked the conductor if he would stop the car backed up so that she would not need to walk across the street in the sleet.

He told her that he'd like to oblige and all that, but it was against the rules. "Why," exclaimed the woman in a should-should tone, "I'm Mrs. So-and-So."

"My name's Dan Kelly," said the conductor, lifting his cap politely. "I'm glad to meet you."
