ment of facts does not differ materially from that of the Archbishop, though he quotes somewhat more fully from correspondence. The one plain thing is that he has persistently refused to submit to the authorities of the church either in their interpretation of what is inconsistent with the teachings of the church or in their injunctions as to his personal conduct. When the highest authorities have told him that certain economic doctrines were not approved by the church he has reiterated his belief in them and his determination to teach them. He has repeatedly refused to abstain from certain action when enjoined to do so. When Archbishop Corrigan asked hum to call upon bim for a letter from Cardinal Simeoni he said, "I will not call to see you." When summoned to Rome he refused to go, and now he emphatically and the see to the said of the context of of the Archbishop, though he quotes somewhat will not call to see you." When summoned to Rome he refused to go, and now he emphatically denies the right of Bishop, Propaganda, or Pope to censure or punish him for "opinions on political economy, unless they can show teachings of the Christian religion," and he denies their right to order him to Rome. Plainty, Dr. McGlynn has thrown off the discipline of the Catholic Church, however fervently he may cling to its faith. Mr. Dewart Explains Himself.

Editor World: Just one word regarding your editorial reference to me in to-day's paper. I have not, either in the East Toronto Heform Convention or elsewhere, "taunted Mr. Jury with his lack of belief in God," or said that "for with his lack of belief in God," or said that "for that reason he was not a fit man to be a representative of the people." Much less have I opposed him because he was a Labor candidate, as some others have stated. What I did say was that in view of the lukewarm support being given to Mr. Jury by the Labor party that had brought him into the field, and the opposition to him on the ground of his religious views which I had met in canvassing for him, I did not consider his chances of election as good as those of a regular Liberal candidate would be. Surely it is not illiberal estimate the strength of a candidate before Unanswered Prayer. From the Independent.

Against the frozen face
Of earth. I lay my own,
And, softly pleading, make
My longing known.

Sweet mother earth, give me, I beg, one little spray Of perfuned flower to cheer This wintry day. She answers not, nor opes Her eyes. But well I know That nature's heart still beats Beneath the snow.

Then, of the stream I ask, One water lily bud. To deck the dreary hour, The ice-bound flood

Makes no reply, nor stirs
His crystal sheet, but know
I well, that still, deep down,
His life-tides flow. My spirit oft, on wings Of some inspatient prayer, Soars up to heaven's gate, And clamors there.

And though he opening door Lets me his countenance as Linow my father's love Yet burns for me.
