The flies that are now in your kitchen and dining room were probably feasting on some indescribable nastiness less than an hour ago, and as a single fly often carries many thousands of disease germs attached to its hairy body, it is the duty of every housekeeper to assist in exterminating this worst enemy of the human race.

Where the Fire Was.

Sleeping during the sermon is a poor compliment to the preacher, but it is not often that the man in the pulpit turns the occasion to such effective use as did John Wesley. The sports of Methodism was preaching, while many of his hearers slept. Suddenly he startled them by a loud cry of "Fire! Fire!" There was a momentary panic among the congregation, and a man cried out, "Where, sir? Where?" "In hell," the preacher replied, "for those who sleep under the preaching of the word."—London Chronicle.

The Eye's Blind Spot.

The blind spot in the eye is where the optic nerve comes through the retina about one-tenth of an inch nearer the nose than the centre. To test it close your fists with your thumbs outside and held against each other. Extend your arms. Shut your left eye and look fixedly with your right eye at your left thumb. Separate your hands, and when they are about six inches apart the right thumb will go out of business temporarily, for its picture will fall upon the blind spot.

Changed His Opinion.

"I notice that you have given up the fight for a cleaner city. You used to be one of the leaders in the opposition to the smoke nuisance." "Yes. I've come to the conclusion that smoke cannot be abolished. It's useless to keep harping on the question." "By the way, what business are you in now?" "Oh, I've quit working for a salary. An uncle of mine left me a valuable interest in one of our biggest machine shops."

The Ancients and Electricity.
 Although little was known of electricity until comparatively modern times, it has been understood since 600 or 700 B.C. that certain substances when rubbed show attraction and repulsion for various light materials. Among these is amber. So, in the latter part of the sixteenth century, when electricity was more definitely known, its name was taken from the Greek word for amber.

Funny.
 Borrowings—Mr. Merchant's out, you say? Well, he had an appointment with me here. That's very funny. New Office Boy—Yes, sir; I guess he thought it was too. Anyways, he was laughin' when he went out.

White Plague in Chile.
 It is estimated there are 15,000 deaths from tuberculosis annually in Chile, which has a population of 3,250,000.

Horse Distemper

Prince Edward Farmer Solomly Declares "Nerviline" Is a Specific.

"After fifty years' experience in raising horses I can safely testify that no remedy gives such good results for an all-round stable liniment as Nerviline. Thus opens the very earnest letter of J. J. Evanston, who lives near Wellington, P. E. I had a very valuable horse that took distemper a month ago, and was afraid I was going to lose him. His throat swelled and hard lumps developed. His nostrils ran and he had a terrible cough. I tried different remedies, but was unable to relieve my horse of his pain and suffering. I started to use Nerviline. I mixed a bottle of Nerviline and sweet oil and rubbed the mixture on the throat and chest three times a day and by all drives I believe the way that horse picked up. Nerviline cured him. I also have used Nerviline for colic in horses and cows, and earnestly recommend it to every man that is raising stock."

For strains, sprains, swellings, colic, distemper, coughs, and colds, no liniment will prove so efficacious in the stable as "Nerviline"—it's good for man or beast, for internal or external use. Wherever there is pain, Nerviline will cure it. Refuse substitutes. Large bottles 50c, trial size 25c, at all dealers, or The Catarrhose Co., Kingston, Ont.

PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR
 CELLAR POTATOES.

Grown on a Table in the Dark in a Few Inches of Soil. If you have at your disposal a small and quite dark cellar and an old kitchen table, how would you like to grow potatoes, excellent ones that are declared to be superior in flavor to the ordinary farm grown variety? This can be done very easily by following a method which is attracting considerable attention in France.

First of all you need the dark cellar. The absence of light is essential, for the filtration of even a few rays of light would cause the potatoes to waste their energies in putting forth sprouts in all directions instead of the buds of little potatoes. Next you need a table, over which you place a layer two or three inches thick of fine, dry and carefully sifted earth. Then you select some good two-year-old potatoes—that is to say, those of last year's gathering. Any potatoes in a good state of preservation will do, but it is best to select large tubers without defects, for the slightest trace of fungus spreads rapidly and may spoil the whole crop. Now take a slightly moistened sponge and pass it over each potato to work off the cryptogamic germs that are so injurious to vegetable tissues. If some of the potatoes have already begun to sprout the sprouts must be removed carefully without wounding the tuber.

As you have done all this take the potatoes one by one and half bury them in the soil, planting them in rows spaced about four inches apart. There is no back breaking toil with the hoe in the broiling sun and no fighting against potato bugs. The tubers should be inspected by candlelight occasionally to see that everything is progressing satisfactorily. In two or three weeks after planting it will be found that each potato is covered with tiny white points which several days later change into little potatoes that grow rapidly.

When the little potatoes are reasonably large they may be carefully removed, leaving in place the old potatoes, which continue to bear. Several weeks later another crop may be gathered and even a third. The budding continues until the parent tuber is completely exhausted and nothing remains of it but the skin.

In case sprouts push forth on the potatoes they must be cut off with scissors. Potatoes grown in this way have one very excellent quality. They have so thin a skin that it may be simply washed off. No scraping or paring is necessary. They also have an excellent flavor and are firmer than ordinary farm grown varieties, with less tendency to soften.

Windows.
 Utility is the mother of nearly all decorative features. Windows were first designed to give light. The history of glass shows that the useful has taken decorative prominence. In old colonial houses glass in small panes was used probably because it was cheap. The sash was divided by small pieces of wood, called muntions. After many years glass came to be used in large sizes, and of recent years it has been the practice to have but a single sheet, often in a very large size, of plate glass. These are permissible only where the view warrants their use. The average house or cottage is better without them, as they suggest the show window of a shop rather than a home.—Argonaut.
