

and Victorias were seen emerging from the recreation-hall armed and ready for the fray. After a hard-fought battle, during which players, sticks and skates were frequently mixed in one inextricable mass, the Eagles won by a score of seven to four. In the evening the players were treated to a recherche repast by their admirers and friends. At the termination of the festivities Lord John had to betake himself to the infirmary, a victim of a severe attack of indigestion, the result of over-feeding. A few hours of balmy sleep, however, soon restored him to his former self.

By far the best game of hockey seen on the rink this season was played on the 1st inst. between the first team and Pat. Murphy's Emeralds. The first match from beginning to end was characterized by fast and brilliant play and showed to great advantage the pluck and coolness of some of the members of the senior team. J. Coderre acted as referee and in response to his signal the teams took the following positions :—

COLLEGE.		EMERALDS.
Copping.....	goal.	.....	Greenfield.
Brophy.....	point	.....	Nolan
Paradis.....	cover point.	.....	Wall.
Weir.	} forwards	}	Rosenthal.
Allard.			Wesswick.
Lamoureux.			Murphy.
McCabe.			Powell.

When the puck was set in motion both teams went in with a vim, and the rubber glided swiftly from one end of the rink to the other; until after about eight minutes' play a pretty shot by Murphy gave the first game to the Emeralds. Play being resumed, for a short time the visitors seemed to have the best of it and in five minutes Wesswick scored another goal. The college team then seemed to get warmed up and turned the tables on the Emeralds by scoring three games in quick succession. The last one, however, was not allowed. The first goal for the college was made by McCabe, the second by Brophy. No further score was made by either side during the remainder of the first half. In the second half but one goal was scored and that by the Emeralds. The score stood, at the end, three to two. The game of the day was undoubtedly played by Brophy and had he been supported, in the second half, as he should, the tide of victory would certainly have been turned the other way. Allard and Copping also deserve mention for some pretty valuable assistance rendered during the game. For the Emeralds Murphy and Wesswick did excellent work and showed themselves to be players worthy of an older team.

One of the most noticeable features of the game was the way in which King John, the terror of the small yard, distinguished himself. He seemed to have had a narrow escape from death, for fear was written on every line of his face, and he scarcely ventured within reach of the puck during the second half. It was clear that John was not at home. He has plenty of courage when he is throwing Benie up against the boards, so hard as to keep him in the infirmary for two or three days; but when a boy not much bigger than Benie, a boy from outside, a boy who does not know the reputation of the T. S. Y. ventures to do the same to John, then John collapses. The junior editor intends keeping his eye on John for the future, and therefore his majesty the T. S. Y. had better mend his ways.

The Lawrence poet, who offered to furnish us with a series of poems on some of the most noted incidents of the American war, was, we regret to say, unable on account of ill-health, to supply us with his contribution for this month. He promises to be on hand for our next issue.

Owing to the accident which befell captain McKee the tug-of-war team did not take part in the international contest held recently in the city. The rest of the team, Caron, Mercier and Lambert after a serious hard training, were in excellent condition.

A few days ago a communication was received, signed Slimmer and Toughy, soliciting our influence for their appointment to the position of Pumpers of the new organ. Upon looking over our own list of subscribers, we failed to discover the above mentioned names. While not denying that our influence with the master of the choir is considerable, we would request the applicants, who are strangers to us, to present themselves at our office on the next conge afternoon. We might also mention en passant, that our stock of cigarette tobacco, so kindly donated by our admirers during the Christmas vacation, is well nigh exhausted.
