A STRANGE VERDICT.

HAVE THE JURY ARRIVED AT AC ORRECT conclusion?

There can scarcely be any doubt that the investigation of Dr. Koch the German Specialist, will lead to radical changes in the treatment of tuberculous diseases. That the eminent physician has discovered a specific for certain forms of skin diseases, the Medical fraternity have already admitted, but that he has made any advance in the treatment of pulmonary affections, they are not prepared to certify to, nor are they willing to believe that disintegrated tissues can be restored by the mere processof subcutaneous injection. On the other hand, the people at large have rushed wildly to Berlin with the firm conviction that Koch's lymph will stay the piogress of advanced censumption and lend them a new lease of life. Some have been benefitted—not cured—for the very simple reason that the entire nervous system is overlooked in the treatment. No character of disease that assaults the vical organs can be successfully treated without reaching the nerve centres. In this very particular, the public appears to have rendered a strange verdict in favour of Dr. Koch, strange for this reason:—for many years the remedies discovered by Dr. T. A. Slocum of New York, now manufactured at 186 Adelaide street West, Toronto, have been supplied to the afflicted and so far have proved unfailing as curative agents. They have been introduced into hundreds of thousands of households free of cost, have been given grateful testimonials from numberless thankful hearts, have been publicly endorsed by successful practitioners and are to-day the indispensable articles of the family medicine chest. With such a record the hap hazard verdict of the people in favour of Dr. Koch does indeed seem strange. Dr. Slocum's treatment has been common property for years, has given incalculable relief, and is still administering its gener-Slocum's treatment has been common property for years, has given incalculable relief, and is still administering its generrelief, and is still administering its generous, life-giving nourishment to stricken humanity. Consumptives or those disposed to pulmonary complaints, should consult Dr. Slocum's pamphlet and make immediate and methodical use of his remedics. Address a letter to T. A. Slocum, M. C., 186 Adelaide st. West. Toronto, and you will receive by Express two free sample bottles with full information regarding lung troubles and their proper and successful treatment.
