

6th, 10:45 a.m.—Rested well all the evening and most of the night, and had but little delirium; much more collected and rational; is more conscious of his trifling ailments, and complains that his tongue is sore. This is due to a collection of aphthæ along the border of the tongue, which resemble a patch of herpes; petechiæ almost gone; wheals fading and reducing in circumference; those on left foot, which are the latest, are almost gone, and one has a yellow colour like a fading bruise-stain; temperature, 100 3-8 °; pulse, 120, small and firm; R., 28; tongue moist, borders red; yellow-white fur on centre; no emesis nor alvine discharge; urine high-coloured; depositing lithates; not tested for albumen.

Countenance open and less distressed looking; knitting of brows gone; less retraction of head; tonic spasm of other parts as before; about the flexure of the right elbow and anterior aspect of right forearm, are numerous red, congested patches, not unlike the exanthem of measles; the general appearance of the forearm reminds one of the "subcuticular rash" of typhus; puffy swelling of both elbow-joints, most marked over head of radius. Continue treatment.

7th, 9:30 a.m.—Cried so much last night from pain in the head that a dose of chloral was given, and in a few minutes he fell asleep and slept till 5 a.m.; is now perfectly sensible and somewhat cross; no trace of petechiæ; several of the red blotches still visible, but very pale; a new one not elevated upon face; slight effusion into left knee-joint, and considerable swelling of right foot, chiefly of dorsum.

In lifting him off the bed this morning his father found his body quite stiff; spasm of the flexors continues, and slight retraction of the head; bowels moved to-day; passed urine in the bed last night; temperature, 103 2-5 °; pulse, 126. Continued treatment.

8th, 11 a.m.—Slept well till 3 a.m.; slight nocturnal delirium; perfectly rational now; pupils active and of medium size; no dislike to light; pain in neck, with retraction of head; spasm of flexors continued; red patches all gone, except one which appeared upon cheek yesterday; right knee and left hip painful; two formed stools; urine abundant; pulse, 118.

9th, 11:30 a.m.—Temperature, 102 4-5 °; pulse, 120; slept well, without delirium; cervical pain and spasm, and pain in the head continue; three herpetic vesicles upon ulnar border of left thumb; less swelling of joints; one alvine evacuation; don't like the ice application.

Continue mixture. Hydrarg. c. Creta, gr. iij.; every four hours.

10th.—A good night; temperature, 102 1-5 °; pulse, 120; less
