

BUONAPARTIANA.

Translated from various French Authorities.

What a period was that, in which the all-powerful will of the man, who now sleeps the sleep of death on the rock of St. Helena, assembled, as if by a stroke of the wand, emperors, kings, and most of the grandees of the earth!—Napoleon had called to Erfurth the principal actors of the French theatre: Talma, Mlle. Duchesnois, Mlle. Mars, the captivating Georges, the "charmant" Bourgois, appeared several times in the course of a week to play their finest parts before the august assembly; and a little theatre that had been found in the ancient college of the Jesuits had been fitted up with a promptitude and elegance really French.

Immediately before the stage were placed two arm-chairs for the two emperors, and, on either side, common chairs for the kings and the reigning princes. The space behind these seats began to fill rapidly (says Mme. de Schopenhauer); we saw statesmen and generals from most of the powers of Europe enter, men whose names were then celebrated and have since become historical. There were Berthier, Soult, Caulaincourt, Savary, Lannes, Duroc, and many others equally renowned; it appeared as if the greatness of the master was reflected on the features of each: Goethe with his calm and dignified physiognomy, and the venerable Wieland,—the Grand Duke of Weimar had called them to Erfurth. The Duke of Gotha and several German princes grouped round the two veterans of German literature.

A rolling of the drums was heard,—"It is the Emperor!" said every one. "Fools, what are you about?" cried the drum-major; "don't you see it is but a king!" And, effectively, it was a German sovereign who entered the salon; and three other kings soon after made their appearance. It was without noise, without any show at all, that the Kings of Saxony, Bavaria, and Wirtemberg, entered; the King of Westphalia, who came later, eclipsed them all by the splendour of his rich embroidery and jewels. The Emperor Alexander with his majestic figure came next. The grand box, in front of the stage, dazzled one's eyes with the glittering brilliancy it threw around. The queen of Westphalia, covered with diamonds, was seated in the centre; and, near her, the charming Stephanie, grand duchess of Baden, attracted attention more by her captivating graces than by her dress. A few German princesses were seated near the reigning ones; the gentlemen and ladies of their court occupying the back part of the box.

Just at this moment, Talleyrand appeared in a sort of box, contrived for him on a level with the parquet, because the infirmity of his feet did not allow him to sit in the parquet itself. The emperor and the kings stood conversing with the minister who was comfortably seated. Everybody was at the rendezvous; he, alone, who had convoked all these grandees was missing—he made them wait some time.

At length another rolling of the drums was heard, but much louder than the first; all eyes were directed with an anxious curiosity towards the entrance door. He appeared at last, this most extraordinary man of that inconceivable epoch. Dressed in the most simple manner, as usual, he slightly bowed to the sovereigns present, whom he had kept waiting so long, and filled the chair on the right of the Emperor Alexander. The four kings took their seats in the chairs without backs, and the spectacle began.

Immediately after the performance of the tragedy, which he had seen acted some hundreds of times, Napoleon, having made himself quite comfortable in his chair, fell asleep. Every one knows that it depended entirely on his will to sleep, and that he always awoke at the time he appointed. On that day he had fatigued himself exercising troops in the country for several hours together. It was a singular spectacle to see the man, on whose nod hung the fate of nations, thus given up to a peaceful slumber.—Mirror.

THE BURGOMASTER AND KITTY.—A Flemish Courtship.—"Goot afternoon, worthy friend Kroger!" "Goot afternoon, Burgomaster! This is koud and neighborly. Walk in—Kitty's in the back parlor."

"I'm coom to Kitty; Kitty is noice; I love Kitty." "Well, that's plain and honest; you never told me this before, Mynheer; I'm pleased to hear it; walk in my dear sir, (offering his arm.)"

"Thank'ee, I'll do vera well without your assistance; lead forward; how noice the pig's puddings smell Mynheer."

"Yaw, they were made by Kitty; here she is. Kitty, the Burgomaster!—Burgomaster Schlippenback, Kitty. You will excuse me for five minutes; I see a customer in the shop."

"Lo, Mynheer Burgomaster Schlippenback, what an unusual pleasure!"

"I'm coom a-courting, Kitty."

"A courting! and to whom, pray?"

"To you sweet Miss Kitty Kroger."

"Oh, sir, you do me much pride!" and she drew herself up at least a foot high.

"Yaw, you are vera proud; you mustn't be proud when you marry me, Miss Kitty."

"Oh, no, I'll be any thung you wish me, dear Mynheer Schlippenback."

"That's a goot girl; goot by—I'll come again to-morrow."

"Are you going so soon, Sweetheart?"

"Yaw, I moost go, now I have finished courting you; goot day."

"Well, stay, my dear sir; here are some of the hog's puddings I heard you praising; you'll like them, I know you will, there, put them in your pocket; and here are some sausages from Bologna; there, they just fit the other pocket."

"Thank'ee—goot by; but I say, Kitty, give me a kiss—(buss) thank'ee—goot evening;" and away went the swain, who had begun a love affair as he would have begun a bargain for a cargo of Dutch mackerel.—Dyke's Tour in Belgium, &c.

CARD.

MR. WM. F. TEULON, Practitioner in Medicine, Obstetrics, etc. having now spent one year in Halifax, returns thanks for the attention and favors which he has experienced from the public during this term. At the same time he is obliged to acknowledge that owing to the healthy state of the Town, and other causes his support has been very inadequate,—he therefore requests the renewed exertions of his friends, as having with a family of seven experienced great difficulties; but which might soon be overcome if he had a sufficiency of professional engagements. Having practised the duties of his profession three years in this peaceful Province, and nine years in a neighbouring colony, previous to which he had assiduously studied for several years in the metropolis the human synergies; normal and diseased, and the arrangements of Divine Providence in reference to the preservation and regeneration of health in the respective functions; he has obtained a habit, a confidence, and a love of the science and art of healing which he would not willingly exchange for any of the gifted acquirements of life, but to give these efficiency he must secure the favours and confidence of a number. With this laudable object before him he respectfully invites their attention, and promises to use his studious endeavours to emulate the conduct of those worthy members of the profession, who have proved its ornaments and not that only, but the ornaments of civil and scientific life; and also of Humanity.
