

Defence Production Act
BUSINESS OF THE HOUSE

Mr. Howe (Port Arthur): To tell him now.

Mr. Fleming: Oh, no. That "now" crept in afterward.

Mr. Churchill: Mr. Speaker, I have some other interesting comments to make on the attitude displayed by the Minister of Defence Production and the remarks he has made on this bill. May I now move the adjournment of the debate.

On motion of Mr. Churchill the debate was adjourned.

Mr. Harris: In my absence tomorrow, Mr. Speaker, I hope the house will pass the unemployment insurance bill first; will take the estimates of the Department of Agriculture and pass at least the first item and as many more as may be possible; and then will take the estimates of the Department of Labour.

At ten o'clock the house adjourned, without question put, pursuant to standing order.
