

A NEW U. S. HISTORY ON A NEW PLAN.

A POPULAR
SCHOOL HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES,

IN WHICH ARE INSERTED, AS PART OF THE NARRATIVE,

Selections from the Writings of Eminent American Historians and other
American Writers of Note.

TO WHICH ARE ADDED

The Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States, with copious Notes.

FULLY ILLUSTRATED WITH MAPS, PORTRAITS AND VIEWS.

By JOHN J. ANDERSON, Ph.D.,

*Author of a "Grammar School History of the United States," "Manual of General History,"
"History of England," "History of France," "The Historical Reader,"
"The United States Reader," etc., etc.*

A text-book upon the history of our country so compiled as to be a pleasant reading-book with enough variety to give it all the interest properly belonging to a reading-book, and, at the same time, contain all the United States history that is required for ordinary school purposes, has long been desired by many teachers.

It has been the aim of the author of this work to meet this want by weaving in as a part of the narrative long extracts from the writings of eminent authors, so that nearly all the great events of our country's history are given in the words of Bancroft, Prescott, Irving, Motley, Hawthorne, Parkman, Palfrey, and other distinguished writers, thus making a very interesting and fascinating volume. This has been so skillfully done that no break occurs in the continuity of the narrative.

It has been the aim of the writer to give only those events that were important in themselves, or that had an important bearing upon or relation to important results. It will be seen, then, that very much of that which finds a place in the ordinary school history is not found here. Details, except as far as they are necessary to the proper understanding of what should be known, are entirely omitted. Generally, they are not worth knowing, and, consequently, no time should be spent in lumbering the mind with them. For the same reason, dates have been given sparingly. The most prominent, those that mark the great events, are clearly given, while other events are regarded as contributing to or resulting from these. More prominence has been given to the facts that have to do with the nation's progress in civil matters than to those of a military character. Therefore, the invention of the cotton-gin, and the magnetic telegraph, and the construction of railroads and steamboats, with the changes resulting therefrom, have been regarded and treated as of more value than the numerous small battles that in no wise modified the tendency of great events.

The numerous maps in the work cover all the geography belonging to the events narrated that have occurred within the limits of the United States or Mexico.

The volume is amply provided with Chronological Tables, Summaries, etc., etc., which so peculiarly characterize the histories of this author.

370 pages, 12mo. Price, for Introduction, 33 cents.

Allowance for old book in use, of similar grade, when given in exchange, 33 cents.

Books ordered for introduction will be delivered at above-named price in any part of the United States. A sample copy for examination, with a view to introduction, will be sent by mail to teacher or school officer, on receipt of the introduction price. Address

CLARK & MAYNARD, PUBLISHERS,

5 Barclay Street, New York.