THE DEST OF THE DOMINION.

A good deal has been said and writter about the debt of Canada, but it is not generally understood that a very large proportion of that debt was incurred befo Confederation was formed. When four of the Provinces of British North America—Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick—agreed to unite, each of them had contracted a considerable debt. The Confederation assumed these debts, which amounted, in the aggregate, to $77,500,000.

When the other provinces joined the Domintion and the service of the use of alcohol as a food, we may be guilty of such an act of dishonesty and folly.

To do this, in the first place, would be to break faith with the ratepayers. The Corton assumed these debts, which amounted, in the aggregate, to $77,500,000.

There may have been into effect. The sports were interesting and well sustained. They proceeded smoothly and pleasantly from the commencement to the finish. The enjoyment of participants and spectators was not marred by a single unpleasantness that we have heard of. In fact, the whole show has been excellently managed. Better satisfaction has been given to exhibitors than is usual at exhibitions.

The attendance, it is true, was not so large as it might have been, or as it was expectations.

It is not found ready made in nature, nor is it found in the body as the result of the decomposition of the foodstuffs taken; on the contrary, nature would seem to have specially guarded herself against such a possibility, for any sugar formed in the process of digestion is not converted into alcohol but passes out of the system through the usual channels.

If we look to the properties of alcohol, we find scientists, both home and foreign, agreeing that in large doses it is a narcotic poison, killing by suffocation through its paralysing influence on the respiratory nerve centres; and in smaller but continuous doses, by structural changes which it exerts in the several organs and tissues of the body.

Dr. Longhurst denies that alcohol in any large as it might have been, or as it was expected to be, but this, we think, was almost wholly owing to the hard times and the general feeling of depression. We do not believe that there would have been a better attendance this year, no matter at what time the exhibition might be held. People feel poor and out of spirits and are in no humor for holiday making. This, we believe is the true cause of the decrease in the number of visitors. We are, however, very far from admitting that the exhibition was a failure. On the contrary, we believe that considering the time taken in getting it up and the difficulties to be sneedingly good exponents. It is this:

Again there is a strong belief that alcohol gives strength and energy after fatigue is one of the safety valves of our machine. To stifle the feeling of fatigue in order to be able to work on, is like forcibly closing the safety valve so that the boiler may be overheated and explosion result.

The belief that alcohol gives trength to the weary is particularly dangerous to the class of people whose income is already insufficient to procure subsistence, and who are misled by this prejudice into spending a ibition, and that the directors deerve every credit for their vigor, their good taste and their executive ability.

This is to be regretted, for the question of emperance is a very important one, and one on which every seeker after knowledge should try to be informed. Dr. Longhurst denies that alcohol in any form maintains or increases a man's strength either physical or intellectual. Food does this but strong drink does not. What he says about this is well worthy of reproduction. It is this:

hard work.

It is commonly thought that alcoholic drinks aid digestion, but in reality the contrary would appear to be the case, for it has been proved that a meal without alcohol is more quickly followed by hunger than when it is taken. If, then, we ask definitely what is the meat recent testimony of science as lo hard work. only with animal foods, but vegetable albumen, fibrine, and caseine are scarcely to be distinguished from the bodies of the same name extracted from blood and milk. . . . A striking feature of many has been that they were not the work of masked desperadoes, but of bodies of citizens who have in broad daylight defied law and order and made the saws of the mole superior. Still worse sign way of the mob supreme. Still more significant is the fact that there has been no attempt on the part of the public authorities to call the offenders to account, and little denounce the outrages. In short, the law-lessness has been perpetrated with impunity if not with encouragement. It is obvious that the danger of all this lies in its tendency to spread not only to other parts of the country, but also to other objects than the country, but also to other objects than the country. Durchecked mob violence in one place is an encouragement to similar law-lessness in another. The mob that lynches without molestation to-day, may resort to looting to-morrow.

The other wickets fell without much trouble and the innings closed for 103. In their first innings, the Juniors were very unfortunate, and only succeeded in scoring 39; but in their second they were more successful, and managed to knock up 86, of which McLeod contributed 15 and Gamble 16.
