The Blennerhassett Papers.

THE BLENNERHASSETT PAPERS, embodying the Private Journal of Harman Blennerhassett, and the hitherto unpublished Correspondence of Burr, Alston, Comfort Tyler, Devereaux, Dayton, Adair, Miro, Emmett, Theodosia Burr Alston, Mrs. Blennerhassett, and others, their Contemporaries; developing the purposes and aims of those engaged in the attempted Wilkinson and Burr Revolution; embracing also the first account of the "Spanish Association of Kentucky" and a Memoir of Blennerhassett. By WILLIAM H. SAFFORD. With a portrait of Blennerhassett.

1 Volume. 8vo. 665 pages. Price, $3.00.

Harman Blennerhassett was born in Hampshire, England, in 1767. He was a graduate of the University of Dublin, and practiced law in that city. He emigrated to America in 1796, purchased and settled on an island in the Ohio river near Marietta, on which he erected an elegant residence, furnished with taste and luxury. Aaron Burr was his guest in 1805, and succeeded in involving him in his treasonable schemes. He invested largely in boats, provisions, arms and ammunition; left his home and friends and went to Kentucky. Warned of Burr's real designs, he returned to his home greatly disheartened; but, through Burr's solicitations and the persuasions of his wife, he persisted. His property was seized and sold, and he was prosecuted as an accomplice of Burr, but was discharged, broken in mind and bankrupt. He was subsequently a cotton-planter near Port Gibson, removed to Montreal in 1819 and practiced law. In 1822 he went to the West Indies, and finally to the Island of Guernsey, where he died in 1831. He married Adeline, daughter of General Agnew, who returned to New York and died there in 1832.

These private papers were obtained from his son, Joseph Lewis Blennerhassett, by Mr. Safford after he had written and published his Life of Blennerhassett. They were so important, and threw so much light on the history of the Wilkinson and Burr conspiracy and the western intrigues of the time, that it was deemed desirable to publish them.
