Experts in KODAK Photography.ENEMY GUNS TRAINED ON CITY HALL TODAY*German Cannon Placed On Federal Square Have a Menacing Appearance.

Visions of the barricaded streets of London were called up this morning when three huge field guns were drawn up on the proposed federal square site and trained on the city hall. It was merely a peaceful display of captured German artillery, however, presented to the city as war trophies, and the workers in the city offices soon became accustomed to glancing down the wicked-looking muzzles.

The guns will likely be left on this location for some, so that every citizen will have a chance to inspect them. No permanent location has been picked out yet.

CALL FOR HENRY WILDING.—At the local office of the soldiers' civil re-establishment there is valuable information for Henry Wilding, if he will call at the city hall for same.

NEW EXCHANGE FOR BELL TELEPHONE IN EAST LONDONLocal Office Now Handling Over 100,000 Calls Per Day.

With the new story on the top of the Bell Telephone building, the company is arranging to have the toll room, handling long distance calls removed to the new floor. This will leave additional space for rack room extensions on the floor beneath.

So great is the increasing number of local calls, now considerably more than 100,000 a day, that the company has already secured an option on land in East London for a new exchange. Difficulty in securing materials is the only reason for delaying the work, which in view of present conditions in the building industry and in the electrical and telephone supplies trade, may not be undertaken for a year or more.

When the new East London exchange is opened, however, in all probability the automatic telephone system will be installed. Just as large a building will be required, however, as the automatic telephone exchange apparatus at central is very bulky and takes up quite as much space as old operators. The new exchange, whenever it is established, will handle all traffic east of William street.

HE WISHED TO BATHE HIS FEET IN COGNACHarry Left Explains Why He Possessed Fluid.*GOOTSON DISMISSED*Witness Says Constable Gave Him Money To Buy Whiskey.

With the assistance of W. R. Meredith, his solicitor, Meyers Gootson of this city succeeded in convincing Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon in police court this morning that he was not concerned in the welfare of a bottle of cognac, a French intoxicant, captured in the possession of Harry Left, a 16-year-old youth last Monday, and the charge against him was dismissed. Left, who is Gootson's stepson, proved to the court that he was on legitimate business when captured, and was also discharged by the magistrate.

Sergeant William McCullough of the local police force testified that on Monday afternoon he saw a taxi with Abdul Hameed at the passenger stop at Gootson's house on Ottawa avenue, and after a short wait returned to Hameed's house, a few blocks around the street. He then saw Gootson and Left come along the street, the latter carrying a paper bag. When they saw him he claimed Gootson said to the youth: "Hurry, beat it. Constable Tomlin arrested the boy, and he arrested Gootson, the bag which contained the bottle, being confiscated."

Constable Didn't Understand It. Constable Tomlin stated in court that after the pair were taken into custody there was considerable conversation between them. He further stated that, owing to nervousness, he may have informed Tomlin that he found the bottle in his house, and that he was taking it to his grandparents' residence on Simcoe street, where he was living. He wished to bathe his feet in the fiery fluid because in the summer "the odor smells bad."

Who Sent Him? Abdul Hameed, in the witness box, stated that he went to Gootson's house to get liquor at the request of Constable Tomlin, who, he said, supplied the liquor for same. He stated that Gootson informed him that he had no whiskey, and that he (Hameed) saw no liquor in the house at all, after which he left. R. G. Fisher, prosecuting, maintained that this witness was "hostile," but the court did not concur with the statement. The prosecutor argued that Left was the tool of Gootson in an alleged delivery of the liquor to Hameed, a prospective purchaser.

"The onus is not on Gootson," said the magistrate, "as the liquor was not found in his possession. I do not think that a conviction would be upheld."

He Worked Hard. "Well, I worked hard enough to get it," commented Mr. Fisher.

The hearing of evidence was featured by several words of battle between W. R. Meredith, counsel for the defence and the prosecutor. The former also engaged in several fights with Magistrate Graydon regarding several objections which he registered regarding the manner of obtaining evidence.

LEFT FOR PETROLEA.—Staff Capt. Ritchie of the local command of the Salvation Army is in Petrolia in connection with the S. A. campaign in that town.
