On this account extra preparations are being made. This year the committee in charge are encouraging international and inter-district competition, Burin, St. George's, Bay of Islands, Tillingate, Bons Vista and other districts have already sig- nified their intention to revive the interest in the annual regatta and it is believed that the old colony will be found still true to the Nelsonial signal. Every year a large number of visitors go to St. John's for the regatta even from Halifax and other points of Eastern Can- ada, although there has never been any actual competitors from those places in

Of late years thousands of peo- ple have attended the races, going to the course in carriages, motor boats and all modes of conveyances including the Tor- baynag. These annual regattas were started about sixty years ago, and scarcely a year has been missed since that time. All the societies are interested, and the Total Abstinence Society is also placing crews in the competition. It is a credit to all concerned that tem- reance is strictly observed at the race- course. No liquor whatever is permitted to be sold. This fact contributes as much as apything else to the success. The date for the regatts this year has paragements are in the bands of a strong

Colonel Macauley no-ticed after the destruction of many land-marks recently that the ancestral homes of legions of pigeons were gone, and the birds were flying about bewildered. He started his asylum. In Danville, III., last week Judge Kim-brough issued an injunction in the Circuit Court against a mule belonging to Jack Goodwine of Potomac, restraining it from braying and annoying the sleep and re-pose of Benjamin Wise, publisher of the Potomac Record. Goodwine keeps the mule in a barn adjoining Wise's home. Wise says he made frequent protests to Goodwine, and those not being heeded, he was obliged to seek the injunction.
