BRINGING PAUL JONES' BODY HOME.

CHERBOURG, July 7.—The funeral train bearing the body of Admiral Paul Jones and 500 American soldiers and marines arrived here from Paris this morning. The chapel was decorated with palms, flags and escutcheons from the naval arsenal. The ceremony of transferring the body of the Admiral on board the Brooklyn will occur at noon tomorrow and the squadron will sail at 5 o'clock in the evening for the United States.

ARMOR USELESS AGAINST THIS.

NEW YORK, July 7.—That a 12-inch shell loaded with only a small charge of dynamite, the world's most effective explosive, will crumple in the side of the heaviest armor-clad vessel though the shell fall short of its mark by twenty feet, has just been demonstrated at the beginning of a series of tests at the government proving grounds at Sandy Hook.

FATE OF ST. JOHN HANGS IN BALANCE.

Enemy Making Desperate Efforts to Break Through Defences.

Col. McLean's Forces gallantly withstanding the Attacking Hordes—Hills of Sussex Shake With Roar of Cannon.

SUSSEX, N. B., July 7.—The town is in a state of excitement. The enemy has just been repulsed on the hills to the north east. Part of the twelfth field battery is preparing to shell the hills back of Sussex on which are stationed part of Col. McLean's force, and earnest, determined to win or die.

It is evident that Col. Wedderburn has left no stone unturned to get through and capture St. John. It is a critical moment, the roar of the field batteries is deafening and the constant boom of cannons is heard on every side.

The inhabitants of the town are anxiously asking themselves the question "can Col. McLean win?" Scouts and signallers are everywhere. Just what the result will be no one can yet tell and the fire is growing hot and the conflict is sure to be deadly when Col. Wedderburn's men make the final rush.

The fate of Canada's great winter port hangs in the balance. The result will probably be known before many hours have elapsed. So far it has been impossible to tell what the casualties are.

LATER:
It is rumored that the enemy has been cut off, and consequently St. John is safe.

NEW YORK, July 7.—The chamber of commerce has received a despatch from the Toronto Board of Trade, stating that the council of that board repudiated the action of the legislative assembly of Quebec in attempting to enforce a prohibitive tax on American commercial travellers.

GERMANS ARE CANNY.

BERLIN, July 7.—The supervisory office for insurance companies has demanded of the Equitable Assurance Society and Mutual Life insurance company of New York that they declare on August 1 in which manner they propose separating their premium reserve on German policies from the general reserve and how they intend to invest them. The amounts affected are $7,500,000 in the case of the Equitable and $5,250,000 in the case of the Mutual. The steps taken have no connection seemingly with the present Equitable developments, but are taken with the view of carrying out the provisions of the German insurance law of 1901.

SUCCESSFUL COLLECTORS.

The lady friends of the members of the New Brunswick militia are meeting with considerable success in their effort to raise sufficient funds to purchase a cup for competition in the provincial meet. The ladies expected to raise $15. The first cup was donated in 1867, and was finally captured by Major J. T. Hart, who won it in 1881 and 1882, the conditions requiring that it should be won in two consecutive matches.

MUTINEERS MAY BOMBARD CZAR'S SUMMER PALACE.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 7.—12.40 p.m.—The Kniaz Potemkine escaped from Theodosia before the Black Sea fleet arrived there from Sebastopol, and as the fleet did not put into Theodosia it is presumed the warships are in pursuit of the Kniaz Potemkine. But the advice received by the admiralty are meagre and most conflicting. It is considered possible that "Ensign and Quartermaster" Alexieff, who commands the Kniaz Potemkine, was advised of the fleet's coming and left Theodosia. At any rate it is clear that she sailed from a British ship, which was subsequently released.

The reports as to the direction taken by the Kniaz Potemkine do not agree. Admiral Wierus, chief of the general staff of the navy, informed the Associated Press correspondent that one report said she had sailed westward and in the direction of Lavadia, raising the suspicion that it is the intention of her crew to bombard the Emperor's summer palace. Another rumor said when the Kniaz Potemkine was last seen she was headed southeast as if bound for the Caucasus Littoral. This subsequently was supplemented by a report from Sebastopol that the Kniaz Potemkine had put into Tuapse, half way to Port and had been captured in some mysterious fashion by soldiers.

The torpedo boat destroyer Smellivian manned by a crew of officers and blue-jackets who volunteered to sink the mutineer reached Theodosia several hours after the Kniaz Potemkine had departed and after hurriedly coalled the Smellivian put to sea presumably in pursuit of the rebel battleship.

YALTA, Crimea, July 7.—Intense excitement prevails here owing to fear that the Kniaz Potemkine will bombard the city.

THEODOSIA, July 7.—The reports sent from Odessa to London regarding the bombardment of Theodosia are true. Order is fully maintained in the town by the troops.

Before leaving Theodosia the Kniaz Potemkine fired a shell which killed two men and caused seven to jump overboard. The Kniaz Potemkine was seen in the bay of Theodosia, and from which she followed seaward, and from which she took a quantity of coal.

NEW YORK, July 7.—According to the general release of the Kniaz Potemkine, the total losses through the outbreak at Odessa are estimated at $5,000,000 says the St. Petersburg correspondent of this city.

The insurance offices refuse the payment of claims, alleging that the state is responsible for the loss.

The newspapers are not allowed to publish details of the doing of the Kniaz Potemkine, or even the probability of the crew's deserting. The protection of foreign commerce.

LONDON, July 6.—A despatch to Reuters Telegram Company from Theodosia says that at 9 o'clock this morning a boat from the Kniaz Potemkine was sent ashore, and was met by an infantry fire, which killed two men and caused seven to jump overboard. The torpedo boat in the hands of the mutineers fired a shell, which passed over the town, and at noon the Kniaz Potemkine and the torpedo boat left the port, but continued to manoeuvre in sight of the town. Theodosia, it is added, has been declared to be in a state of war.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 6, 7.45 p.m.—Despatches received from the governor of Simferopol, who is exacting the decree of martial law at Theodosia, say that about half of the Kniaz Potemkine's crew desire to surrender, but they are prevented from surrendering by the revolutionists.

It transpires that the torpedo boat which accompanied the Kniaz Potemkine was captured by the Russian fleet and sent to Theodosia, and was not sunk, as was supposed.

An official report from General Kahanoff, the military governor of Odessa, declares that there has been the wildest exaggeration regarding the number of casualties resulting from the rioting at Odessa. He gives the following figures:

Of the mob, 49 were killed and 74 were wounded; of the police and troops, 1 man was killed and 29 were wounded.

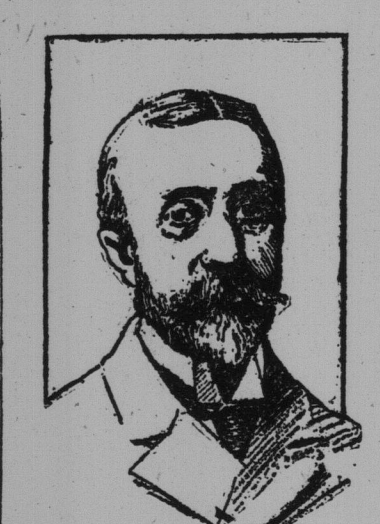

ODESSA, July 6, 8.21 p.m.—The Kniaz Potemkine still occupies the centre of the stage here. Her whereabouts are constantly reported, the authorities are well informed about her movements and her operations at the various Black Sea ports form the topic of continuous speculation and comment in business and official circles, and at the hotels, clubs and cafes. But as the opinion prevails here that she will not return to menace Odessa, the Odessians view her doings interestedly, but not coupled with any particular alarm.

The fact that the Kniaz Potemkine is still at large, cruising in the Black Sea, threatening ports and holding up steamers, is beginning to bring criticism upon the naval authorities owing to their apparent sloveness and lack of energy in pursuing and terminating her piratical career.

If the fleet is in earnest it can easily meet the Kniaz Potemkine within a comparatively few hours. The belief is general that the many difficulties confronting the fleet regarding the Kniaz Potemkine lies in the fact that the crew of the ships are strongly disinclined to engage the mutinous battleship. It is reported on good authority that these crews have actually refused to attack her.

The torpedo boat, which it is reported are trailing the Kniaz Potemkine, have done nothing, although the whereabouts of the battleship have never been a secret.

THE PLANET MARS.

"I am certain Mars is inhabited," said Camille Flammarion, the astronomer, in a lecture given last night at the Lyceum Theatre. "We know the length of the day in Mars by diurnal rotation to the one-thousandth part of a second, and from observations, which have now extended over 100 years, we find the length of the day on the planet is 24 hours 40 minutes 22 seconds. The climate of the Martians is very mild; there are no gales, while the atmosphere is very light, with scarcely any clouds. The inhabitants enjoy fine weather, the climate being equatorial and clear. We know the globe of Mars perfectly; in fact, far better than the earth."

HELPFUL.

"I was surprised to hear that they were married; they're both so hot-tempered. Do you think they're well matched?"
"Well, you know they're both adepts at using the sign language."
"What has that to do with it?"
"Well, they can use it to do their quarrelling without letting the servants get onto them at all."

ONE MAN SAVED 36 LIVES.

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 6.—Martin Green, keeper of the lighthouse off Beauvoir, near Pines, Christian, Miss., single handed, in a tiny catboat, rescued thirty boys ten and fifteen years old, four men and two sailors from the capsized schooner on which the party from the Y. M. C. A. summer camp had embarked to attend the Bixby regatta yesterday.

The rescue took place in a squall that wrecked the schooner two miles off Beauvoir, in sight of thousands of spectators on the beach. The OIA sailors declared the rescue camp had embarked to attend the and skilful seamanship ever given along the coast.

When the lighthouse keeper landed the boys and men on the beach, he laughed over the exploit and put to sea through the wind to get back to the lighthouse without waiting for the chorus of praise and thanks awaiting him.

SOLDIERS HELPED POLICE.

Both Were Needed to Accompany Sarah Moran to Jail Last Night After Her Celebration.

Sarah Moran, better known as "Buck," was sent to jail this morning for two months. "Buck" has a habit of getting in trouble on small occasions, and when that bottle of wine was broken on the new ferry boat yesterday she simply had to celebrate, and did so in good style.

About eleven o'clock last night her demonstration had reached such a point that the cops had no other option than to run her in. Then came the fun. The lady decided that she would not walk, and lay down. The cops coaxed her in vain, but "Buck" bucked every time they touched her. Just then the steady tramp of well drilled men was heard, and a contingent of artillery men on their way home from drill came along. They sized up the situation in a moment, there was a quick order, ranks were broken, a bugle call, and before "Buck" knew what had happened she was hoisted in the air and tied in the arms of stalwart militia men to the British stater lock-up, while the cops followed quietly behind and locked the doors. "Buck" remarks were drowned by the singing of the soldier boys. They persisted that they were "Soldiers of the King." "Buck" disputed this.
