after dinner, and Mr. Richardson's bill providing that creditors may garnishee the pay of federal civil servants was discussed during the evening.

Sir Louis Davies thought the bill unconstitutional, but Mr. Richardson said that he had seen the minister of justice, who declared there was no constitutional objection to the bill. There was a good deal of reflection on the government for failing to agree on the constitutionality of a measure like this.

E. Floody of the inland revenue department has been in the city several days looking after smuggled cigars Previous to cominig here Mr. etc. Floody visited Lunenburg, Sackville and St. Stephen. It is said the department was informed that while cigarettes came in via St. Stephen cigars were being brought into Canada through a Nova Scotia concern and sold at low prices to dealers throughout the lower provinces. At Sackville Mr. Floody nade a seizure the other day. While looking over the cigar stores of St. John in search of goods thus brought in Mr. Floody found in R. W. Carson's shop on Main street 14 boxes of cigars which had not paid duty. Mr. Carson assured the officer that he had purchased the goods from a man named Todd of St. Stephen. Mr. Carson made no attempt at concealment. Some cigarettes were discovered in M. A. Harding's saloon on Main street which had not come regularly into the county. Mr. Harding stated that a man visited his establishment a few nights since and taking the cigarettes from under his rubber coat, the night being a wet one, and left them in the shop, The packages were wet when found. F. C. Sherard had at his tobacco store on Portland bridge some cigarettes which had not paid duty. The goods mentioned were seized and the facts reported to Ottawa. Mr. Floody leaves this morning for end of June. Mr. Blair explained that the item for rolling stock was for the purchase of twenty more refrigerator cars in addition to 25 now in use. These cars were supplied by Rhodes, Curry & Cq., and would cost about $1,090 each. On a small item for the governor's private car some discussion took place as to the growing practice of ministers of moving about the country in private cars. Sir Wilfrid was reminded of his former announcement that he was no better than other people and was willing to side with the masses. Sir Wilfrid admitted that he used private cars when he travelled on public business, but claimed that he was otherwise "a democrat to the hilt." 0 On a post office item, Col. Tyrwhitt asked whether it was the intention of the department to scale down the pay of country postmasters in proportion to the decreased revenue by reason of the reduction of the postage rate. Hon. Mr. Mulock said there was no present intention of making such reduction. He hoped that the loss of business would be made up in a few years by increased correspondence. The postmaster general went on to say that the loss of revenue in the first five months since the reduction of postage rate was $190,000. He did not think the shortage for the first year would be over $500,000, which was less than he estimated a year ago. Mr. Ganong referred to Mulock's statement that the policy of the government was to provide public buildings first in places where business was the largest and where the need was greatest. He observed that in the east the ministers appeared to thing except the fact that they don't think that greatest urgency was in know how much they don't know.

d him to hold over the bill, promising they would help him with it this year. Mr. Richardson refused to accept a special committee to deal with it. Sir Louis Davies, who was leading the house, proposed that the committee rise, promising to see the minister of justice.

Mr. Ricnardson again protested, saying he had seen Mr. Mills. Finally Sir Louis Davies moved that the committee rise and report progress. Mr. Richardson called for a count, when Davies' motion was carried by 26 to 17, and the house adjourned. Mr. Fielding gives notice of a resolution that it is expedient to amend the dock subsidy act of 1882 by providing that if any incorporated company enters into an agreement to construct and equip a dry dock in such places and in such manner as the government approve the governor-incouncil may authorize the payment of two per cent. per annum for twenty years on the cost of the work, such subsidy not to exceed twenty thouand extend any existing dock may entering into agreement to enlarge aand extend any existing dock may be paid by the government two per cent. for twenty years on the outlay, provided, howevere, that such subsidy shall not exceed ten thousand dollars a year.

The proposed resolution differs from the existing bill in being of general application to all places which have dry docks or have no docks. The provision as to extension of docks is new, and the maximum grant to new docks is increased from $10,000 to $20,000. George Robertson's request in respect to the St. John dock has not been met. He wanted a minimum subsidy of $20,000 a year for forty years. The government is giving a maximum of $20,000 for only twenty years. NOTES.

Sir Cavendish Boyle and J. H. Dejonge, British Guiana commissioners, who arrived on Sunday, and are discussing trade relations with the government, were entertained at Rideau club today to lunch, Sir Louis Davies, Mr. Fielding, Mr. Blair, Sir Charles Tupper and Mr. Foster being in the company. The prisoner said McLean awoke him early in the morning and told him that it was time to get up. He did so, and went to the barn to feed his stock. He was there about half an hour, came back and built a fire in the kitchen stove, and then went up stairs to get his pipe. stairs and got his knife. He met McLean coming along the hall. Just as he got three or four steps from the top of the stairs Mc-Lean reached over, touched him and said: "Have a drink." "He then turned," said the prisoner, "to go towards the bedroom, and I let him have the knife."

He did not say anything and went into the bedroom, and witness turned and went down stairs and put away his knife. He heard some one on the roof of the porch and went out to see. His wife was sitting on the ground and he went up near to her, but he did not remember what he said.

Prisoner said he struck at McLean across the rail and did not know how badly he had hurt him. McLean did not speak; neither did witness. "T did not," he said, "know or think what I was doing, and did not know I had hurt him."

In the afternoon Gover again went on the stand, and was asked several questions by the attorney' general. His story, however, could not be shaken. At the request of Mr. White the evidence of Mrs. Thomas was read over, and that of Mabel Logan at the request of Mr. Gregory. Mr. Gregory then began his address to the jury, and concluded at twenty minutes after six.

Roy Jennings and Isabella Currie Upset Out of a Boat and Drowned-Other Items.

FREDERICTON, June 26 .- On a river as smooth as glass and with help, almost at hand two young souls were ushered into eternity tonight with scarcely a moments warning. The story is as follows: Roy Jennings and Sterling Wallace, both employes in J. G. McNally's furniture store of this city, and Isabelle and Lavinia Currie, sisters, employed as domestics at Wm. Lemont's and J. W. Spurdens respectively, were out rowing. They were just above the highway bridge, and the two young men were handling the oars. Everything went along smoothing so one of the girls stepped too McLean threw the clothes off and much to one side of the boat, and the raising upon his elbow said: "All craft capsized and all four were precipitated into the water. Wallace and Lavinia Currie managed to get hold of the boat and clung to it, but the other two were not so fortunate, and were left struggling in the water. Jennings is reputed to have been a good swimmer, and tried hard to save his companion, but she in her frantic struggles clung to him so closely that he was rendered powerless, and they both went to the bottom together almost at the instant that a boat from the city shore had reached them. Wallace and Lavinia Currie, who were clinging to the boat, were rescued in an exhausted condition. The news of the sad accident quickly spread through the city, and crowds of people soon thronged the highway bridge watching those who were grappling for the bodies. At midnight the bodies had not been recovered.

In the aldermanic election today for Wellington ward G. Merrythew defeated Albert Aiken by a majority of 29 votes.

Preparations for the big meet to be held here on Dominion day are running along smoothly. The cups and medals have been placed on exhibition, and are the handsomest lot of trophies ever competed for in this city.

Mrs. Brazil Webb of Gibson died at her home last evening from pneumonia after a few days' illness. Deceased was 59 years of age, and leaves a husband and family.

THE MINE DISASTER.

HALIFAX, June 26 .- A despatch from Glace Bay says: A party succeeded tonight in finding the body of Donald Martin in Caledonia pit, completing the number of victims of the recent explosion disaster. The location of the body showed that Martin had been stronger than the others and got nearer to the slope before he was overcome.

The prospects of quelling the fire in the mine are now excellent, and it is hoped by Thursday that some of the gang of miners will be able to return
