THE SEMI-WEEKLY TELEGRAPH, ST. JOHN. N. B., JUNE 20, 1900.

Since Lord Roberts assumed control of British destiny in South Africa there have been many attempts to delineate, for the benefit of the pulic, his personal characteristics and his doings at the front. None has so pleased the British people as the british respectively. The first time the correspondents are relief.

The first time the correspondents are relief. whose actions daily rivet the world's atten-tion, it is unequalled. Mr. Ralph says:
"The first time the correspondents saw him was at a railway car window at Mod-der River. He sent for them and addressed der River. He sent for them and addressed them as one who speaks to friends. It seemed to them that he lifted every disability and brushed away every limitation which had nampered and almost crippled them in their work up to that time. They were to write what they pleased, he said, and this was not to be consored. Only their telegrams would be scrutinized. They were to go wherever he went, wherever they willed to go.

His Strong Face.

"To me his face suggests the front of a granite mountain, seamed, lined, battered by storms, strain, and racking change. It by storms, strain, and racking change. It records acquaintance with every trial to which mortals are put, all suffered in the softude of undivided responsibility. Care, worry, sickness, danger, unceasing reflection, all had left their marks there. Yot all were written across a gentle, sympathetic countenance, never gay or merry, yet selections.

all were written across a gentle, sympathetic countenance, never say or merry, yet seldom steers, and wholly ignarant of pagaian. I have known many great faces, but that of, Lord Roberts is a face spart. I fancy that, if the minds of their worshippers, some of the observed of the old mythologies had faces, like his.

"He dresses in serge knakl, which, plain as that always must be, he renders more plain by finding at of all orders and decorpitions. There are men on his staff—there was even an American newspaper reporter with one of the armice—who wear a line and a half of cythons. But the chief, who is enfitted the perhaps four lines, appears every day, for every duty and function, with a tunic as bare of decorations as that of any civilian. He is so neat and precise in his desse that I suspect the must have been a dardy in earlier life. He is quick and nervous in his provement, and his central half is to thrust either one or both mands under his felt—a practice which makes it easy for artists to familiarize his figure with the malic.

We easy for artists to familiarize his figure with the public.

"He is instantaneous and direct in conversation, and goes as straight to the point in view as well-aimed bullet to a target. I have no lived hat when he meets new people he advances toward them eagerly, listens intently, and in three minutes either engages the new acquaintance in earnest conversation or has done with him with a fedicive nod of parting. With the army in south Africa his headquarters form a court—aimost as if he were a part of the royalty is represents. You do not call upon him.

His Simple Faith. when he took the sacrament at Dreifon-telm the took the sacrament at Dreifontelm the other day, in the face, one might say, of the whole army, it was without a hint of the parading of religion. All saw in it an act of simple faith. It is almost as hint to reconcile his gentleness and sympathy with the firm—sometimes stern—course which a general so supreme in command, and at the fread of so large ar army, must, often have to follow. I have asked

Farley would not stop when commanded to do so, and the officer shot three times. One ball struck the escaping man in the back and killed him.

St. Lawrence Vessels Scarce.

"He has complimented Tommy on his soldierliness in such a way as to win the man's loyalty to the end and surrender of his life, and on the very same day he has ordered home a general, knowing that the order carried with it the disgrace of a man who meant as well as himself, but had not the capacity to realize his ambition.

Repairing the Maverick.

A gang of about 150 men has been engaged in making temporary repairs on the tank steamer Maverick, which was recently raised from the bottom of Halifax harbor. Nothing more will be done unless she is permanently repaired at Halifax, which will probably not be the case. It is possible that the vessel may be taken to Baltimore or New York to be permanently repaired.

Paris, June 16. News of fighting between the European troops and the Boxers tion in China, which is forming the leading feature of all the newspapers. The diplomatic world is naturally very much stirred, especially owing to the contradictory reports regarding the abtitude taken by the Empress Dowager. Even the Japanese and the Chinese legations appear doubtful as to the exact condition of affairs. At the Chinese legation con siderable uneasiness prevails.
