WHEN SHOES LOOK
"SECOND-HAND"

THE first shoe was a sandal—to protect foot soles only. That is seven-eighths of shoe duty yet. But, the weak spot in nearly all fine shoes today lies in the sole leather.

Too many soles wear out in two months. And, a shoe upper, when re-soled, looks as a Felt Hat does when blocked over—it looks "second-hand."

The time to put good soles on shoes is when the shoes are first made.

Then, they won't need re-soled till you've had wear enough from them, so you can afford to give them away to "the man."

The toughest sole leather in this world, or in any other, is the new process "Quick-Oak" Sole.

It is wiry and close-grained as rawhide, and almost refuses to wear out.

You can soak it in water for four straight hours without wetting it clear through.

Put high-priced regular process Oak Sole leather in water for one hour and it will be wet completely through from one side to the other.

What protects you from catching cold in wet weather is merely the difference between "Quick-Oak" Sole leather and the other kinds.

"Quick-Oak" Sole leather has now been tested a twelve-month, and we had to guarantee big purchases in order to control this brand for Canada.

To be had only in the genuine "Slater Shoes."

These are made only by the Slater Shoe Company, and have the Slater trade-mark stamped inside, on the lining, with the price—$3.50 or $5.00.

PHYSICAL DEBILITY

The Latest Method Treatment is a heaven-sent boon to nervous sufferers. There are scores and hundreds of persons suffering from severe nervous disorders resulting from overwork, hurry, worry, business and domestic cares, nervousness, disposition, etc. To them life is one continual round of misery, while peace, comfort and happiness are impossible. They suffer from headache, loss of memory, mental depression, strange sensations, dizziness, chilliness, restlessness, irritability, constant indigestible fear, forebodings, sleeplessness, weakness, trembling, heart palpitation, cold limbs, utter fatigue and exhaustion. In this class of cases almost immediate relief is afforded by my treatment. The use of narcotics and poisonous stupefying drugs is done away with, and permanent cures accomplished.

I Cure Nervous Debility, Varicose, Stricture, Early Decay and Waste of Power, All Nervous, Chronic, Blood and Skin Diseases.

All physicians coming to me for consultation over obstinate cases which they are occasionally called upon to treat will receive the usual courtesy of the profession. IMPORTANCE OF CARBON.

Without It or Its Equivalent We Could Have No Arc Light.

The electric arc light as now so commonly used is produced by the passage of a powerful electric current between the slightly separated ends of a pair of carbon rods, or carbons, about twelve inches long and from three-eighths to one-half inch in diameter, placed vertically end to end in the lamp. The lamp mechanism is so constructed that when no current is passing the upper carbon, which is always made the positive one, rests upon the lower by the action of gravity, but as soon as the electric current is established the carbons are automatically separated about an eighth of an inch, thus forming a gap of high resistance in the electric circuit, across which the current is forced, resulting in the production of intense heat. The ends of the carbons are quickly heated to brilliant incandescence, and by the burning action of the air are maintained in the form of blunt points. As the carbons burn away, the lamp mechanism feeds the upper one downward just fast enough to maintain the proper separation.

The carbons are not heated equally, the upper or positive one being much the hotter. A small cup shaped cavity or "crater," ordinarily less than an eighth of an inch in diameter, is formed in its end, the glowing concave surface of which emits the greater part of the total light. In lights of the usual size, something like half a horsepower of energy is concentrated in this little crater, and its temperature is limited only by the vaporization of the carbon. Carbon being the most refractory substance known, the temperature of the crater is the highest yet produced artificially and ranks next to that of the sun. It is fortunate that nature has provided us with such a substance as carbon, combining, as it does, the highest resistance to heat with the necessary electrical conductivity. Without carbon or an equivalent and none is known—we could have no arc light. Charles F. Brush in Atlantic.

STOP IT.

Boasting of what you can do instead of doing it.

Thinking that life is a grind and not worth living.

Exaggerating and making mountains out of molehills.

Talking continually about yourself and your affairs.

Saying unkind things about acquaintances and friends.

Thinking that all the good chances and opportunities are gone by.

Thinking of yourself to the exclusion of everything and every one else.

Speculating as to what you would do in some one else's place and do your best to your own.

Gazing idly into the future and dreaming about it instead of making the most of the present.

Longing for the good things that others have instead of going to work and earning them for yourself—Success.

A Hurricane.

The terror of our day here perhaps never more thrillingly set forth than in the description by a young lady who last year made her first trip abroad. She kept a diary, very much, says the New York Herald, like that of Mark Twain, when for seven days he recorded the fact that he "got up, washed and went to breakfast."

There was one important exception. When she crossed the channel the experience was so trying that she felt impelled to describe it.

"I firmly resolved to stay on deck," she wrote, "although the tempest increased to such a frightful hurricane that it was only with the greatest difficulty that I could hold up my parasol."

A Wonderful Memory.

Hortensius, the Roman orator, could repeat word for word a book he had just read. On one occasion he made a wager with one Sienna and to win it went to an auction, remained all day and in the evening gave a list of all the articles sold, the prices paid for them and the names of the purchasers.

The accuracy of his memory was in this case attested by the auctioneer's clerk, who followed the recapitulation with his book and found that in no case had the man of wonderful memory made a single mistake.

Manners.

Manners are of more importance than laws. To a great measure the laws depend on them. The law touches us but here and there and now and then.

Manners are what vex or soothe, corrupt or purify, exalt or debase, barbarize or refine us, by a constant, steady, uniform, insensible operation, like that of the air we breathe. They give their whole color to our lives. According to their quality they aid morals, they apply them or they totally destroy them.

A Bad Recollection.

First Barber—Whew! That barn-stormer must be a bad actor! Second Ditto—Why? First Barber—When I asked him if he wanted an egg chop-pod he jumped right out of the chair and made for the door!

Bad Either Way.

Mr. Wiseguy—No, I don't want any of those sausages. I'm afraid of trichina. The Butcher—I assure you there's no danger of trichina in these sausages. Mr. Wiseguy—Well, hydrophobia, then. It's just as bad.

Encouraging.

"Close up, boys; close up!" said a colonel to his regiment. "If the enemy were to fire on you when you are struggling along like that they wouldn't kill a single man of you. Close up!"

IF WE COULD MAKE YOU A CUP OF RED ROSE TEA

If it were possible for us to go into every home in Canada and make a cup of Red Rose Tea, at least seventy-five per cent. of the population would become permanent users of Red Rose Tea.

But we can't do that. It is easy enough for you to try it. Why not try it? You cannot be sure you are using the best Tea till you do try.

We say Red Rose Tea is good Tea—you can prove it in your teapot in six minutes.

You will find it has a rich, fruity flavor not possessed by any other Tea you have ever used.

You will like Red Rose Tea so well you will want to use no other.

Now, if it has all these qualities, are you not missing something by not trying Red Rose Tea?

TURNERVILLE.

Robert Campbell, of Turnerville, celebrated his 80th birthday on Sunday. He is hale and hearty.

On the afternoon of the 24th of May our little town was all astir and the streets were lined with people wending their way to the park, where a football match was being played by the Turnerville Tin Cans and Box Band; and as we stood and looked at the people hurrying away to the park we noticed a grand marble arch erected at the head of King St. At the top of the arch we saw streaming the red, white and blue. There was another arch erected in front of the old post office on the market square. When we asked what it was all about we were told that a grand centennial parade would leave the park at 7 p. m. and enter the town under maple arch. We had not long to wait before we heard the band strike up, and then we saw the procession coming, headed by the Turnerville Tin Can and Box Band. After the procession was over, Prof. Hunt gave one of his usual performances, after which a grand display of fireworks, lasting over an hour, brought the evening's entertainment to a close.

This fact is easily demonstrated.
