

Vain prejudice of race and class, vile lust for graft and power;
Base arrogance of petty wealth—each have their short-
lived hour:
And even Law, man's greatest pride, in turn grows
weak and falls—
ALL, all are parts of one great whole whose end faint
hope appalls:
Eternal mills are grinding slow our laws, our creeds,
our schools,
Till each gives place to higher things—for over all,
GOD RULES.
