Pythias Hall, 527 Main street, last evening, to take into consideration the advisability of forming a hall and building association in counection with the saciety. The meeting was a fairly representative one. On motion Bro. Andrews was appointed chairman.

After a very full discussion of the subject a canvass of the members present as to the number of shares each would be willing to the was made, which resulted satisfactorily, and the matter was finally referred back to the separate ledges for endorsation. It seemed to be the manimous opinion of those present that the time had arrived when the society should have a hall of their own, and it is the intention of the promoters as funds accumulate to eventually purchase a property for the use of the society.

The meeting then proceeded to discuss the proposed new constitution of the order. The results of the deliberations was that those assembled considered that the present constitution, so far, filled all requirements.

He has served as coxswain of the lifeboats for twenty-seven years. After seven years' service he was presented with the silver medal of the Royal National Life Institution. A few years later he received the medal of the Liverpool Shipwreck and Humane Society. The next medal presented to him was the silver medal of the Board of Trade for gallantry in saving life at sea. For the part he played in the heroic rescue of part of the crew of the Indian Chief, on Jan. 6, 1881, when he was out twenty-six consecutive hours without anything either to eat or drink. in a heavy gale, freezing hard the whole time and the sea continually breaking over the boat, the crew suffering most severely both from cold and hunger, he received the gold medal of the Royal National Institution, which was presented to him by the Duke of Edinburgh, and he is the only coxswain who holds this medal. For the same rescue the town of Ramsgate presented him with a silver medal, which he values very highly as a token of esteem from his fellow townsmen. On his retirement from the service in December, 1891, he was presented with the gold second-service class of the institution, the only one that has ever been presented by the institution, along with a small pecuniary grant. He also holds a diploma from the King of the Netherlands for a service rendered to a vessel belonging to that country.
